

UNITED STATES IS FEELING ITS WAY

Will Join in Some Economic Conference but Position Must be Clear.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1922, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington—When the allied plenipotentiaries meet in Paris Jan. 2, they will in all probability invite the United States government to help solve the economic situation of Europe. Possibly an American diplomatic representative may be summoned to attend the meeting.

But it is becoming more and more apparent that the initiative must come from European governments as the United States does not want to be placed in the position of assuming responsibility for the execution of its suggestions, nor does it want to be forced into the position of having tried to dictate to Europe.

This explains to some extent the Secretary Hughes in denying the story that a committee of American business men were to act with the unofficial sanction of the American government in trying to fix the amount of German indemnity. Mr. Hughes was perhaps right because some of the press reports took his statement as the usual "diplomatic denial." The plan to have a commission of American business men cooperate in fixing the amount of German indemnity has many sponsors here and business men of prominence are trying to get this government and European governments to assent to it, but the department of state is connected with the proposal either officially or unofficially, any more than it was with J. P. Morgan's visit to Paris last June and the meetings of the international bankers' committee. It is an interested onlooker but not a promoter of these plans.

U. S. Feeling Its Way

The truth is the United States government is feeling its way. Thus far it has not done any more than make plain informally to the European governments that it is ready to help them with its influence and advice whenever it shall be sought. This in itself is a step forward because Europe has been clamoring for three years for American help and has pointed to the number of invitations which have been unaccepted.

What America wants Europe to understand now is that the United States will sit in the councils of Europe and discuss those matters. The thought of an international economic conference still is in the minds of many governments, but it may be that the time of the proceedings that the United States will not call it. There are certain obligations imposed on the host to lay down a program and to set forth what can be done by the nation calling the conference. An illustration of this was the naval armament conference a year ago when America felt compelled to announce its own surface at the very beginning. Europe would expect the United States to announce how much of the allied war debt would be canceled or whether the debt would be forgiven or some such suggestion for a solution of the whole problem.

Wants Real Conference

What the United States government would like to see is a conference either of premiers or ambassadors which would bring to the front all the phases of the European economic situation, and America would be ready to give its advice along with the other governments. It will be recalled that when the premiers met in London recently they reached a deadlock and decided to postpone their meeting until Jan. 2, with the understanding that in the interval informal approaches would be made to Ambassador Harvey to see what the American government would suggest. It has already been told from London that Mr. Harvey informed the allies that he believed America was opposed to the invasion of the Ruhr. This too has been confirmed by dispatches from this side of the Atlantic. Whatever the allies said to Mr. Harvey was deemed of such importance that President Harding and Secretary Hughes decided to call him to Washington for a personal conference. The hope is that the situation will be maneuvered so that if an economic conference is called it will be at the initiative of some European government and that if America is asked her advice it will be as given advice and not as a proposal that this country undertake the execution of guarantees of some other political entanglement which might be contrary to American public opinion. The Harding administration believes it can render advice without entangling itself in any obligation to guarantee the security of France or Germany or any other power.

Wrong Understanding

But until Europe asks for American advice formally, all talk of an American plan to solve Europe's ills must be considered as premature. Secretary Hughes is afraid that the press reports will give the impression abroad that the United States stands ready to do a great many things which American opinion as well as sound business judgment might not approve. He doesn't want Europe to feel that America will do it all or that it is trying to foist a program on Europe. Already there has been a somewhat unfavorable reaction from France to the earlier press reports from America which were predicated on unwarranted assumptions. For diplomacy sake and for ultimate success in the negotiations itself, the American government would like to have European governments make the United States for advice and suggestions. The United States government has made known its readiness to receive them and to help in whatever way it can. The "moves" must come from Europe in the next few days.

"AVERAGE CURVE" SYSTEM USED HERE

In the last few years much has been heard in educational circles about "curves of averages" and while at first they seemed but some impractical idea of a radical educator, they are now coming into use more each year and are used at the local high school by teachers as standards to judge marksmen and to help teachers in discovering possible defects in the manner of marking. Diagrams of grade curves for certain periods of work, with separate curves for each department, are made from time to time by Miss Greta Mason of the mathematics department. Given to the teachers, they are doing a great deal of good in establishing this newest practical means of analysis.

OIL TO RUN OUT IN TEN YEARS IS PREDICTION MADE

Washington—Prediction that American oil refiners within 10 years must look to foreign lands for 50 per cent of their supply was made by James E. O'Neill, president of the Prairie Oil and Gas company, one of the largest producers in the mid-continent fields, in testifying at the senate oil investigation.

The witness was questioned at some length by Gilbert E. Roe, attorney for the investigating committee, as to the basis of prices posted by the Prairie company for crude oil. He declared the prices were determined by the three factors of supply, demand and competition.

Chairman La Follette, pursuing the price posting question, obtained agreement of the witness to his statement that generally speaking, the leading competing companies in this field posted the same prices on the same day.

"Yet you say the various companies do not confer among themselves," asked La Follette.

"Absolutely no," O'Neill answered.

AGAIN DENIED PAROLE

Milwaukee—Barney Berrell, serving a three-year sentence at the house of correction as a result of an inquiry begun after the suicide of Marjorie Harney, was denied parole by the state board of control, it was reported Friday.

The gruesome details of how the mob at the Morris mine shot down its victims along the road from the mine to town and in the cemetery there are being told by eye witnesses to the slowness at the trial of five men in connection with the massacre. The trial is being held at Marion.

Ill. States Attorney Delos Duty has called the case of the prosecution. A. C. Lewis of Harrisburg, Ill., Angus W. Kerr of Springfield, and George R. Stone of Marion are defending the miners accused of the massacre. Judge D. T. Hartwell is presiding at the trial of the men.

Parents Buried Daughter's Baby

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Appleton—Admission of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Burke, farmers, that they buried the body of the baby of their daughter, Ellen Burke, 26, brought the chicken coop in the back yard of their home at Kaukauna, resulted in an investigation as to the cause of the child's death.

The grandfather said the child died eight or nine days after birth. The death was discovered when the physician, caring for the mother, inquired about the baby's condition and was told that it had died.

After a grilling the grandparents admitted that the child's body was buried in the chicken coop. The body had been exhumed and the district attorney's office is investigating. It is said they are working on the theory that the baby died of starvation.

"CUR-R-RSE YOU" HE, CRIED, HURLING A PIECE OF BREAD

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

San Diego—J. E. Creighton, 22, was arrested Wednesday for stabbing Bernice Hull, 24, in the side with a pocket knife, while at supper, following an old feud.

Creighton, it is alleged, refused to accept a piece of bread which Hull passed to him. The latter threw the slice at him, it is said, whereupon Creighton is said to have thrown a catapult bottle at Hull and invited him to settle the affair with a knife. Hull has a wound two inches long in his side. A rib prevented fatal injuries. Creighton was arrested 15 minutes later.

Milwaukee—Three Milwaukee druggists were ordered Friday to show cause why their permits to sell whiskey should not be revoked. They are alleged to have been found short of whiskey when their stocks and records were examined by federal agents.

J. H. S. TEAM WINS JUDGING CONTEST

Three Teams Compete at Jefferson County, Milton Is Second.

Scoring 1102 points the Janesville high school livestock judging team composed of Clarence Anderson, Stewart Barless, Robert Campion and Wilton Hughes, alternate, won the district meet in Jefferson county on Friday. The Milton team ranked second with 1022 points and Port Atkinson scored 928.

This entitles the Janesville team to enter the state judging contest to be held in Madison during March. Clarence Anderson of the Janesville team scored high individual honors, his total being 288. The stock selected for the class was in Jefferson county and was selected by J. H. S. county agent and placed by D. A. Skaltitzky, college of agriculture, who was a member of the Wisconsin Livestock Judging team at the Chicago International exhibition. There will be at least 20 teams in the state contest.

Judge Pine Stock. Horses, Holstein cattle and Chester-White swine were judged by the three teams at the Jefferson county fair, Guernsey cattle at the Hoard farm and sheep, at a farm near Port Atkinson.

The standings of the contests were as follows: Clarence Anderson, Janesville, 288; Lawrence Bayens, Milton, 277; Stewart Barless, Janesville, 267; George Burdick, Milton, 250; H. Downing, Port Atkinson, 244; Robert Campion, Janesville, 246; Elford Jones, Milton, 226; H. Clement, Port Atkinson, 223; Ivan Jones, 221; Wilton Hughes, Janesville alternate, scored 220. The teams did excellent work. Two of the Janesville team, Anderson and Barless, are now at point judging work. Campion was on the 1921 team. The victory speaks well for the work of L. E. Jackson, who has been agricultural instructor here but a year and also for Leo Dunwiddie, the Milton instructor.

Seek State Honors. Winning the district contest has placed the J. H. S. team in the running for state honors. Judging contests will be conducted at several Rock county farms before the state meet and lectures given by prominent breeders.

HE'S THE HEAD OF ELKHORN SCHOOLS

The scoring is done with cards on a comparative system. Each contestant expresses his opinion of the good points sought on Hyvaste, and at the end their scores are compared with those of the judging judge. The Janesville team scored high on sheep running, 29,27.54 and 29. Their score on swine was 39.84, 34.53 and on Holsteins, 37.86, 35.83.

ELKHORN HIGH HAS FIVE HOME GAMES

Elkhorn—Nine games remain to be played on the schedule of Elkhorn high school's basketball team this season, according to Coach Lyons. The Elkhorn five is exceptionally strong and is making a bid for the championship of the southern district.

CHARLES A. JAHR

Elkhorn has a number of the best basketball players in the state. If you do not believe it just attend a luncheon of the Elkhorn Kiwanis club, or look the crowd over when the high school team plays football. At the head of the city schools at Elkhorn is Charles A. Jahr, and he is both efficient and popular. He is also chairman of the entertainment committee of the Kiwanis club, one of the liveliest of the clubs in the state.

Kehl Goes South—F. W. Kehl, Madison, dancing instructor in Janesville several years ago, has become a part owner in a new artists' community center being established near Miami, Fla., and with his wife, has gone there to spend the winter.

amusement in the theater. Managers, cognizant of this fact, have arranged what will please the audience and make the last week of the year one of the best for enjoyment.

AT THE APOLLO.

Previous appearances here have established a reputation for the Billy Maine Stock company, playing Broadway hits, and only the highest quality of the quality of the company.

Offering a number of good musical comedies, the first of which is "Somebody in France," the company will provide excellent amusement for Christmas week. The opening engagement will be on Christmas day, when there will be two matinees and two evening performances. On other days there will be the usual two performances.

Four changes will enable one to see the company often. While the names of the other numbers have not yet been announced, they will be on the same order as the first offering, with enough variety to make each witness a new pleasure.

Good music and a good-looking chorus are added to be the show's chief attractions. Billy Maine himself, the broad-natured comedian, will be present, and one of the biggest numbers on the bill, it is expected, will be the quartet.

AT THE MYERS.

Again that excellent combination of stars—Thomas Meighan and Leatrice Joy—will be joined with a good story for the Myers theater. As a Christmas special attraction, the management is offering "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow." One of the latest Paramount productions, it is considered one of the best in which Meighan has been seen. His work in "Man Who Saw Tomorrow" would be hard to equal, but audiences having witnessed "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow" declare that again, and only for the second time in many months, has Meighan had a part in which he could show his ability.

There is no one who does not wonder what would have happened if some dealer had been made collector of the picture, his life with an English girl, when he rises to power and riches, and his life with the daughter of a sea-captain, when he meets many adventures and real love. The scene causes him to make a decision which makes him happy.

Others in the cast are Theodore Roberts, always popular, June Edgely and Eve Novak. These stars in many pictures, and many others.

"Anna Ascends" is Alice Brady's first production under the Paramount banner, and an improvement in her already excellent work, is looked forward to. In this picture she plays a part that well fits her type of beauty. She is an immigrant who, by working in a restaurant, runs into a gang of crown jewel smugglers, and helps expose them. In so doing, however, she is forced to find a man, and thinking she has killed him, is unable to think of her work or notice the reactions of the young man, who is a reporter, until she has confessed. David Powell and Nita Naldi are in the supporting cast.

The management of the Myers is working towards making the mid-night show this year an even better one than it was last year, when the plan was first tried out and found to be a huge success. Special preparation to have a vaudeville bill for the regular week-end performances which will stand shining about for the mid-night performance, has been taking place, and a production that will be far from amateurish or too overdone is assured. At the same time, it will be a copy-tasty program, in fact, with the occasion, and many innovations and pleasant surprises are announced.

AT THE BEVERLY.

Jackie Coogan gave us tears in "The Kid." He made us laugh with joy at his funny capers in "Puck's Bad Boy," and in his latest preceding picture, "My Joy," he again brought the search for the handkerchief.

Now comes his latest screen effort—"Trouble"—a picture that gives the unlimited opportunities for both dramatic comedy and emotions. This matinee First National is the first production in which the famous little fellow is given a chance to both be funny and serious.

SUNDAY-MONDAY CONTINUOUS SHOWS AT 2, 4, 6, 7, 8, 15 AND 9:30.

Edgerton's New Hospital Will Be Ready in February

Edgerton.—This city's desire to erect a permanent memorial to the boys both living and dead, who fought in the World War, will culminate next February in the completion of the $45,000 memorial hospital herewith pictured for the first time.

Construction of the hospital which has been going on for several months has reached a stage where the building looks completed from the exterior except for a few windows not being in.

Movement for the establishment of the hospital was started by the Service Star Legion as its special object and which would be a memorial in the fullest sense of the word for World War veterans living and dead, and where the former service men would have free service when necessary, in the ordinary illnesses of every day life. An endowment fund of $100 yearly for a period of 10 years to assure the later provision being carried out was voted by the legion members.

Under the plans, the superintendent and nurses quarters, kitchen, dining room, bath and lavatories will be located in the front part of the ground floor and the boiler room, laundry, storage and supply rooms in the rear.

The upper floor is all devoted to nursing service with 15 rooms, each large enough for two beds. Four of these rooms will have private bath, toilet and utility features. On the same floor will be bath rooms, men and women's toilets and a nursery. In a wing opening from the first floor, the operating room, laboratory, doctors and nurses lavatories, and work room, will be located.

Construction is of brick and hollow tile, cement and composition floors, making the hospital practically fireproof. A water scotcher will be installed giving an unlimited supply and a refrigerator machine with a capacity of 100 pounds of ice daily.

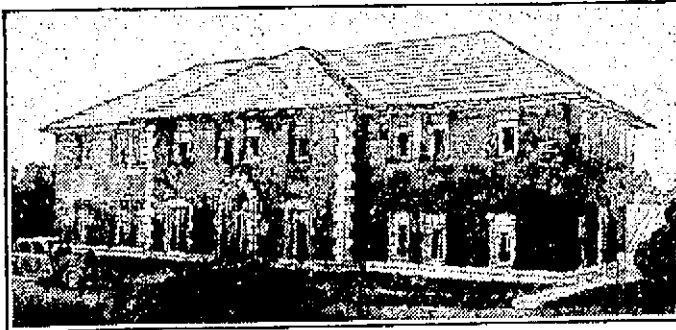

Thus far eight of the 15 rooms have been taken and will be furnished by individuals and organizations and it is expected that all will be furnished in this method, carrying out the community project idea, to the fullest extent.

There are many in Edgerton who have given much time towards the realization of plans for a hospital. Mrs. Arthur Clarke, first president of the Service Star Legion appointed the late Mrs. A. B. Earle, Mrs. Andrew McIntosh, Mrs. Mike Schmidt, Mrs. Paul Goede and Mrs. William Parity as a finance committee, to solicit funds for the hospital, and $20,000 was raised by popular subscription.

Further financial aid was found available through a law allowing a levy of five mill tax in Edgerton where the money so raised is for a soldiers memorial. This was carried out with unanimous action of the city council September, 1920.

This made it necessary for the county judge to appoint four trustees to act with one named by the city council. Judge Charles E. Field named Mrs. T. B. Earle, Andrew McIntosh, August Reitzel, Jr., and Mrs. Will Parity and the council appointed O. J. Jensen.

NEW EDGERTON HOSPITAL

Formation of the Edgerton Memorial hospital association under Wisconsin laws was then made and at the meeting held Feb. 25, 1921, P. N. Grubb, George Bain, D. G. Ristad, Alfred Anderson and Willis Scofield were chosen directors. Mrs. J. H. Towne was appointed trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mrs. Earle, whose efforts when the hospital was in an embryonic state is largely responsible for its establishment.

Plans at first was for the remodeling of a house, but was abandoned when it was discovered that all hospitals now constructed must be fireproof, to comply with Wisconsin laws. The Underhill site was chosen because of the elevation and away from the heaviest traffic and work was started in July, after plans of Bern, Swann and Hancock, Chicago, specialists in hospital construction, had been approved.

THE BUSINESS OF FARMING—DAIRY—FARM BUREAU—LIVE STOCK

ROCK COUNTY MARK FOR AREA TESTS

Success of Campaign to Have County-Wide Cattle Test Is Assured.

Rock county farmers have adopted the Wisconsin area system to eradicate bovine tuberculosis. Incomplete reports collected Saturday show that approximately 55 percent of the title owners of the county have already signed the county-wide test petitions and there are certain indications that by the end of next week, Rock county will have the necessary 80 percent and near the goal established to have 3,000 cattle owners signed.

The success of the campaign is now assured, but no effort will be spared to have the township and county agricultural chairmen, to obtain the additional signatures with representation in every township to convince the state livestock authorities that an early test is desired in Rock county.

A survey shows that about half the townships are well started with the petitions, with but few townships and Johnson, still to be organized.

An Important Program
The area test stands out as the biggest and most important agricultural project ever attempted in Rock county.

The tuberculosis test is being made the foundation of the 1923 county development program to bring Rock county to the peak of its producing ability, high producing and good type livestock both for breeding and market purposes. The test is the first step toward pushing Rock county to the front of the county in the number of accredited herds and guaranteed healthy cattle.

Barren county has achieved national reputation as being the first county to have the area test and leading with 504 state and federal accredited herds. The Rock county program calls for 2,000 accredited herds, with every resident farmer approximately one herd. The state and federal accrediting system is there are now in the entire state. The Rock county plan is to follow the adequate protection to the livestock of the county through proper restrictions to the shipping in of untested stock, a pasteurization law that can be enforced, and a demand to improve the quality of stock on every farm. The test and the development program is based to increase the quality of both the grade and registered cattle, assure a steady supply of milk to the consumer.

Pushing Campaign
Having assurance the petitions are being signed by a large majority of the farmers, the county committee will push the campaign for another two weeks if necessary and then make an official check. Milton and Johnson townships will be canvassed next week, completing the work in all the 20 townships. The petition carriers in Milton will meet next Tuesday afternoon.

The campaign has been well organized, effective and is being made to force or coerce the farmers into signing. The area test was explained in each district, men appointed to make the canvass by school districts. "The test is being put across in Rock county on its merits—for that is all it needs," declare the county committee. Newark, the first township to make the canvass still tops the county in number of signatures having 95 percent.

Petitions are still to be circulated in Center, Rock, Janesville, La Prairie, Fulton, parts of Portage and Johnson. The canvassing has been through between 30 and 90 percent of the farmers ready to sign. Milton township is expected to sign fully 80 percent of all that is required," declared Dr. Arthur J. Kilians.

"We want every township over the 70 percent mark and it is but a matter of canvassing to obtain the 80 percent," stated H. C. Hemmingway, secretary of the Rock county Farm Bureau.

Many farmers are outspoken in their demands that Rock county "club women" who were so anxious to have a tuberculosis sanatorium built at a cost of more than $100,000 take an interest in the campaign to eradicate the main cause of human infection.

"They made a big blunder before the county board for several years on the sanatorium but when it came right down to paying the bills, they were about as good as dead," declared Dr. Arthur J. Kilians.

The club women were interested when it came to raise money to build a hospital but did not get right to the bottom of the reason why the sanatorium is needed. Not one of them attended a meeting held in any of the townships or cities in the county," say the farmers.

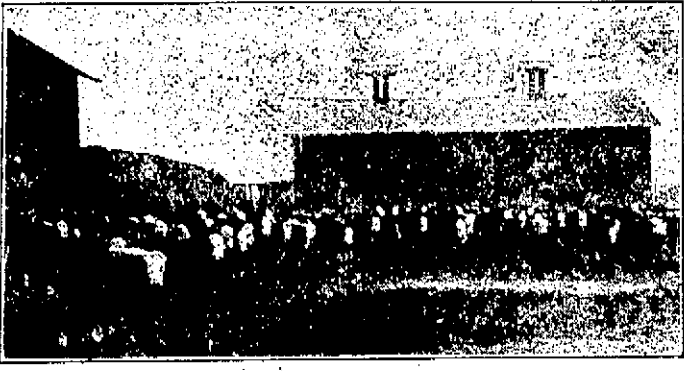

Will Boost Farming
The area test, it is pointed out, means much to Rock county stock as a protection against human infection, improved markets for the livestock, both swine and cattle, and the basis of establishing 2,000 accredited herds. The test also means a safe milk and dairy products supply for the consumers and a better local meat supply.

When the petitions have all been circulated and the county covered, the papers will be collected at the office of the Rock county Farm Bureau, checked over and then submitted to the Wisconsin Livestock Sanitary Board. The northern counties are now on the waiting list for the county-wide test. Rock will be the first southern Wisconsin county to petition for the area work to guarantee all its cattle healthy and produce clean dairy products.

The test is the foundation of the 1923 program to make "Rock county first" for livestock and agricultural products.

Bank Owners Meet—Annual meeting of banks will be held during the week of Dec. 27. The Rock county Savings has announced its stockholders meeting for 4:30 p. m. Jan. 6, to elect directors, who in turn will elect officers.

CHOICE BEEF STEAK

Good Baby Beef Herds Being Fitted in County

A herd of 240 Hereford baby beefs, with their red bodies and handsome white faces, all fitted to be market calves, presents a pleasing sight not often seen in Rock county.

The number of farmers in Rock county who are importing beef calves for feeding is rapidly increasing. There are now four or five well-known feeders who stock Hereford calves, the largest herd of feeder stock in the county. It is worth seeing.

Will Clark, also owning a farm on the prairie, now has a herd of 220 Hereford calves that will be fitted for market this winter.

The calves are always sold with a chance of profit in feeding cattle through a season, especially baby beefs, even in a dairy country. There are a number having a dozen or more calves which will be turned in on the beef market after a short period of feeding.

Austin has been feeding stock for 18 years and is considered one of the best at this department of feeding in the state. His cattle always sell well on the market. "Most any farmer, who understands feeding, can take one or two animals and produce an outstanding contribution to the market," he says. "I take a herd of 200 and push them along to top the market and make a profit. The feeding of beefs, at its best, is a game."

High priced stock at the point of purchase, high feed costs and a low selling market spells considerable loss. The important angle to the feeding game is to fit the stock that it will go in to the choice market. There is a big scare on the part of farmers up to the "coppers." ## MARKET POLICIES SET BY U. S. MEN

Definite Suggestions to be Given Farmers to Realize on Farm Crops.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington.—The Commodity Council Plan is the basis given a new method of handling certain of the big agricultural problems by the United States Department of Agriculture. In the past, different phases of crop situations had been handled separately by various bureaus and offices. Under the new plan, which has resulted in success, the various persons interested in the certain problems gather in a central council where each presents views and where a definite inclusive may be decided upon.

Councils already have been called to discuss the cotton and potato crops and recommendations have been made for action that would be beneficial in view of present conditions. Specialists in the culture of the crop, in soil, disease, pests, grading and marketing contributed to the final recommendations.

As a result of the Potato Council, much waste and loss in growing that crop is expected to be done away with following the approved recommendations. The per capita consumption of potatoes in this country is usually about 3.2 bushels. Most of the potatoes raised to supply each person with four bushels. Because of this situation, which was discouraging to farmers, the department, through the council, advised farmers to carefully grade their crops and ship only the best.

It was suggested to the farmers that if all the crop, including culls, were shipped, food would not be spoiled in markets or in transit, markets would be glutted and the price forced down to a ruinous level. Such marketing would result in much waste and loss to the farmer. It was also declared that poorer potatoes and culls would be kept on the farm for storing for future markets, feeding to the stock, and in certain localities, for selling to starch and flour mills.

Protect Farmers
Cleaning of fields of culls and diseased tubers was also recommended, in order to protect future crops from disease.

A plan similar to the council plan was used recently when a group of men was gathered to consider the question of the use of peat as a soil improver or fertilizer. As a result of all the information gathered and discussed from various angles, the department decided to publish a statement to the effect that peat has a very low fertilizing value, contrary to the claims of those wishing to sell it for fertilizer.

It was said, however, that peat is bought by commercial fertilizer producers to use as a body or filler for mixture with manufactured fertilizer and as such, good peat brought a good price.

The council plan will be applied to discussion of various other commodities and is expected to be of great value in getting out practical recommendations for use of farmers and others interested.

FEED POULTRY WELL
NOW TO OBTAIN EGGS
County Agent L. J. Merriam is urging farmers to feed a ration to make hens lay during the winter.

The raw materials necessary for egg making, including value, only of whole grain but of other feed containing protein, milk and linseed, supply this to the best advantage. The following day mass mixture kept in a hopper before the hens at all times is advocated—100 pounds each of ground corn, ground oats, bran, standard middlings, tankage and three pounds of salt.

"The test of a poultryman is whether he can get a heavy lay during November, December and January, when eggs are highest."

PEAT HAS LITTLE VALUE WHEN USED AS A FERTILIZER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington.—Coal of high quality is of such wide-spread occurrence in this country, and so accessible, that the use of peat as a fertilizer is not recommended by the United States Geological Survey, which has been widely in this country and is a valuable commodity.

The United States contains 12,000 square miles of unused peat lands, the Survey declares, or an area more than ten times that of Rhode Island, which is capable of yielding 14 billion tons of fuel at a cost of $1.50 to $2 per ton. These deposits are found in the surface and in the New England, Atlantic Coast and Great Lakes States, mostly remote from coal mines. A bulletin issued by the Geological Survey points out that thousands of such deposits, owned by farmers and other land-owners.

Fifty million tons of peat are used annually in Europe, it was said, but it is suitable as a fertilizer and in promoting intensive growth of truck crops, both in greenhouse and in open field. Manufacturers of commercial fertilizers pay as much as $10 per ton for good peat. It was added that the present output is about 100,000 tons annually.

In some parts of the country the peat proceeds from the intensive culture of peat and much soil for lettuce, celery and onions amounts to more than $500 an acre. However, it was pointed out by officials of both the Survey and the Department of Agriculture, the value of peat as a fertilizer by itself is not high, the peat being used as a filler or body for the manufacturer of mixed fertilizer.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

Bradley Joins
Fox Sales Force

Harry E. Bradley, recently connected with the Milwaukee office of the National Sales Company of New York, has joined the sales force of Morris F. Fox & Co. Mr. Bradley started his business career with the Cutler-Hammer Manufacturing Co., shortly after finishing his education. Rapid promotion followed until he occupied a responsible place in the production department and office administration. Mr. Bradley was a member of Troop A, Wisconsin National Guard, when the Bismarck troops were sent to the Mexican border in 1916. The following year, when war between the United States and Germany broke out, he attended the Officers' Training Camp at Fort Sheridan and served with the Eighty-fifth, Seventy and Fifty-fifth Divisions, a large part of the time overseas. Although young in years, Mr. Bradley became a seasoned soldier and left the service with the rank of lieutenant-colonel in the infantry.

INVESTMENTS

The absorption of the deposits and checking accounts of the Bank of Southern Wisconsin by the Merchants and Savings Bank called for the highest praise from Bank Commissioner Marshall Cousins. It has been so well done that scarcely a ripple has followed on the financial field of Janesville.

One of the evidences of the better conditions is the report of banks that have received checks sent on account of the Christmas savings for redemption in a general savings account. Many checks came back to the banks from Christmas clubs.

Sales of bonds are still reported from local bond dealers and while there are not so many outside salesmen as formerly, yet Janesville continues to be the fertile field for bond sales.

There are a less number of municipal bond offerings than during the early part of the year. The fact to issue bonds has run out but it is believed that another wave will start in the spring.

Establishment of a regular market for second mortgages will mean much for the stimulation of building in Janesville.

One of the best things about the Chevrolet and Fisher Body additions to Janesville industry is the business-like manner in which the building and installation of machinery is going along. Janesville had had no influx of unskilled labor as a consequence of the improvement and what has been better still no unemployment.

Notice of Meeting

The regular annual meeting of the Stockholders of the First National Bank of Janesville, Wis., for the purpose of electing Directors and transacting any other business, which may properly be brought before the meeting, will be held at the banking office of said bank on Tuesday, January 10th, 1923, between the hours of 10 A. M. and 12 M.

German Question
Overtops Other Market Issues

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York — The German reparations question overshadowed all other subjects of discussion in this week's financial markets. Attention was centered on this problem by the announcement of J. P. Morgan and company Monday that they had notified the German ambassador that no international loan to Germany could be considered until the reparations question was settled. The statement was issued to set at rest a flock of rumors that were making it embarrassing for international bankers. The main body of stocks showed few important changes although there were sev-

JOHN WANAMAKER ON ADVERTISING

John Wanamaker was the largest user of newspaper space for a great many years of any merchant in the world. In an address at a convention of the Advertising Clubs of the World a few years ago he said:

"Our little allowance of advertising money went to the newspapers then as it does nearly altogether today, because if I ever have a monument for discovering anything, it will be for finding out that the only advertising of direct and instant benefit to both merchant and customer is in the daily newspaper of known circulation. All others are vanity and vexation of spirit. To have learned this fact has greatly helped my enterprises though often there has been serious discomfort in saying so publicly and in breaking away from posters, leaflets and weeklies."

106 HOLSTEINS SOLD
TO OUTSIDE BUYERS

Four carloads of Holstein cattle were shipped out of Rock county during the last 10 days. Two carloads of grade Holstein cows, 32 in number, were shipped during the last week to Carlos E. Ramirez, Fortunate, Cuernavaca, Mexico. One carload was shipped to Riverton, Wyo. and 26 head went in another.

There has been active private sales on registered swine during the last three weeks. Breeders have had many breeding animals. The demand now is for gilts. As soon as the area test is made in Rock county it is planned to put in to affect a complete system of listing all livestock in the central agricultural office.

carload to central Illinois. In all 106 head were sold from in and near Rock county during the last week. The cattle shipped to Mexico averaged better than $75 a head. It was the first time these Mexican buyers had been in northern United States during the winter and their first experience with snow. They will return in the spring for another shipment.

Teach your boy to say, "I'm a business man now!" Not only teach him to save but also to put his savings to work.

Public utilities are one of the greatest upbuilders of communities. They supply a community with the means of its growth. Utility securities are as safe as the communities themselves.

Give that boy or girl of yours a share of the 7% CUMULATIVE PREFERRED STOCK we are offering to customers and friends on payments of only $5.00 per share per month. Do this now—so that in their youth—they may have the kind of financial training that will better prepare them for success.

Have Them Make the Payments!

as they come due each month. Give them the money but let them handle the matter, getting and keeping the receipts themselves. In this way they will learn something of business—what securities are—what dividends are—and they will take a more personal interest in savings and investments. Start them with

A Membership in Our 1923 Christmas Club Now Forming

INVITATION TO ALL

Our Bank extends to every man, woman and child in our city and community, a cordial invitation to come in and JOIN OUR NEW CHRISTMAS CLUB.

This is the most popular plan ever devised for having MONEY NEXT CHRISTMAS and enables those of small means, those in moderate circumstances and also business men to lay aside money by SYSTEMATIC DEPOSITS each week.

To Join Is Easy—No cost, no dues, no red tape. Look at the Tables below and select the Club you wish to join, 1c, 2c, 5c, 10c, 25c, 50c, $1, $2, $5, $10, $20 or more, and come into our Bank with the first deposit. We will enroll you as a member of the Club and give you a pass book showing the money deposited. That is all there is to it.

START NOW AND HAVE MONEY NEXT CHRISTMAS

INCREASING CLUB PLAN		EVEN AMOUNT CLUB PLAN		EVEN AMOUNT CLUB PLAN
1c Club	Deposit 1c 1st week, 2c 2nd week—Increase 1c each week—in 50 weeks.....	25c Club	Deposit 25c each week—in 50 weeks.....	$5 Club	Deposit $5 1st week—Increase $1 each week—in 50 weeks.....
	$ 12.75		$ 12.50		$ 250.00
2c Club	Deposit 2c 1st week, 4c 2nd week—Increase 2c each week—in 50 weeks.....	50c Club	Deposit 50c each week—in 50 weeks.....	$10 Club	Deposit $10 each week—in 50 weeks.....
	25.50		25.00		500.00
5c Club	Deposit 5c 1st week, 10c 2nd week—Increase 5c each week—in 50 weeks.....	$1 Club	Deposit $1 each week—in 50 weeks.....	$20 Club	Deposit $20 each week—in 50 weeks.....
	63.75		50.00		1,000.00
10c Club	Deposit 10c 1st week, 20c 2nd week—Increase 10c each week—in 50 weeks.....	$2 Club	Deposit $2 each week—in 50 weeks.....	$100 Club	Deposit $100 each week—in 50 weeks.....
	127.50		100.00		5,000.00

You Can Begin With the Largest Payment and Decrease Each Week

PLAN OF THE CLUB

The plan is simple: In the INCREASING CLUBS you begin with a certain amount, 1c, 2c, 5c, or 10c and INCREASE your deposit the same amount each week.

In the DECREASING CLUB, you begin with the largest payment and DECREASE each week.

In the EVEN AMOUNT CLUBS you begin with a certain amount, 25c, 50c, $1, $2, $5, $10, $20 or any amount and deposit the SAME amount each week.

MONEY EARNERS

You will never miss the money you deposit each week, and at the end of fifty weeks, which pass quickly, you will have a nice sum available for your Christmas, or start a regular account to help buy a Home, Educate the children or go into Business for yourself.

Deposit some money regularly every week—That is our plan.

MERCHANTS & SAVINGS BANK

Janesville, Wisconsin

It's a Wonderful Club

Each day as we note the happy faces of our 1922 Christmas Savings Club members, who are cashing their Club checks here, we are made to realize that the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB is a wonderful thing.

This easy plan of saving has enabled hundreds of people in Janesville

To pay their insurance
mas for themselves and others.

To make the first payment on a home

To buy a bond

To pay their insurance

To pay their taxes.

It is our ambition to make the 1923 Club larger than any previous one, in order that a greater number of people in this community may enjoy these benefits.

You are cordially invited to become a member of this big family.

The Calfskin Trunk

Being the Unsolved Mystery of Edwin MacFarland as told by Manuscripts found after the Hyatt House fire in Janesville; to which is added a few incidents by Peter B. Western, late of the C. S. A. of Missouri.

Written for the Janesville Gazette and copyrighted by the Gazette Printing Company, 1922. All rights reserved.

Synopsis of the story.—When the Hyatt House burned in Janesville January 12, 1867, a calfskin trunk was rescued from the hotel and taken away by a drayman who afterward moved to Nebraska. In this trunk lived a bookkeeper, Peter B. Western, who bid in the trunk at an auction sale of the drayman's effects and in his room pried open the lid.

II—What the Trunk Revealed.

There was a heavy, musty thick odor from the opened trunk. It seemed at first to be puffed with newspapers but these were only to cover up the few articles beneath. The newspapers themselves were of Civil War dates, mostly copies of the St. Louis Missouri Republican and the St. Louis Globe. Underneath the papers were bundles tied with heavy twine and with many wrappings. In one was a woman's dress—a silk lacy garment with wide spreading skirts and low cut at the neck—a party dress of the period and figured and buttoned as of that day. Then there was a great bouquet of faded roses and in the bundle a fragment of a letter.

And Dick I want you to remember that I have ever been hoping that you would come back to me and still there is something that tells me I never will see you.

Did you tell me the something that you were did and then I began to wake to the

That was all. There was no solution to the puzzle in this letter and it may, thought Peter B. Western, have been a mere trifle and of no consequence in determining the facts that he hoped the trunk would disclose.

A pair of cavalry boots, a revolver of the Colt style with empty chambers, a belt and a sword, short and heavy; a book, "Speeches of Thomas H. Benton," a black necktie, a number of other trifles of a man's wardrobe, a brown coat which Western had seen the man who called himself Edwin J. MacFarland wear on the streets of St. Louis, and wrapped in many coverings, a blue military jacket.

This Western took carefully up and held close to the lamp. In the front, directly over the place where it would have opened the heart was a small, narrow slit and all about the cloth was stiff and wrinkled. It told its own story. The blood of the wearer had encrusted the jacket here. Western looked carefully at the jacket again, the chevrons and the gold lace on the collar.

Redmond's he whispered. "The Jacket was Redmond's as sure as fate."

He sat for a long time looking at the jacket. His body was in that hotel room, but his mind was far away, looking at two armies of men hurled savagely at each other, and again at two of the men of that mass detached and fighting desperately for life. But Western put aside the coat and went on with his search. It was in the bottom of the trunk, wrapped not in newspaper, but in brown cloth and leather, that the letter covering that he discovered the manuscript which is responsible for the story here told. It was of note paper, some ruled and others only plain sheets; some bore the indisputable marks of having been of the kind used by military officers and the writing was for the most part faded and discolored. Through this bundle for the first time or so pages was a gash exactly to fit the slit in the jacket and the gash was made with a sharp knife. A brownish red and some of them glued together with the blood that had, evidently, flowed from that wound.

Western took the bundle out and laid it on the table by his side. Then he returned the other parcels to the trunk and began to read.

It was a long time after that when I met Western at his former hotel. He was a guest then, having retired and was enjoying the fruits of his thrift. He traveled much and several times after that he visited me at Janesville. But it was at Gettysburg where he had gone to attend the reunion of the Blue and the Gray that he told me the story of the manuscript of the trunk and the jacket and the blood that had been on it. "I will have to swear you never to tell it until I am released by the author of the manuscript I found in the calfskin trunk. Then I will send it to you and you, being a writing man, may make what you please of it. There are two ways you may look at it: it is either a story of a great reaction or of a great scandal or it may be of the kind I have told you. You know the man who died as Edwin J. MacFarland you will be charitable and above all, you will be just."

Great was my surprise when last May I received a large registered package, the address in the writing of Peter B. Western from St. Louis. Another letter was inside a woman's hand. There it was—the blood stained manuscript and a long letter from Western with many notes and explanations. So whatever there is here that seems to be mine, is in reality that of Peter Western, gentleman and soldier.

"I can hear the bugle call, good friend," he wrote. "I have no more time to waste. I have put off writing long enough. I am here at the home of one who figures and under no circumstances are you to print anything until she has passed away. She is old and has had many sorrows and none should be added. She is the Rose Garden Lady and while I have not said much about this, it is of her that the real story should have been written. The story of mystery there is herein you must solve for me. I am not as yet sure but it is well to be charitable. The Calfskin Trunk is no more. I destroyed it and its contents. I have written many things for you to look over and traveled a great many miles to find out for myself whether Richard Littleton or Edwin J. MacFarland was the hero or knave, whether the trunk and jacket were of the kind I have told you or whether he went about his business of deception with a devil-may-care spirit that came of despair."

In another envelope addressed in a woman's handwriting, that writing which is so peculiar to our grandmothers, graceful and plain and still simple, was a notice of Peter Western, with his picture, and a column of his exploits in the southern army when he was so noted as a sharpshooter and scout. "A brave and just and honest man," it said. And there was the manuscript with the pages telling the sanguinary story of conflict and a great mass of papers from Western. "I was curious and turned to the last pages of the blood stained manuscript first. This was written there:

"I have no purpose in preserving this except that I do not wish to destroy it now and feel sorry afterward. I did not begin this story. It was a diary kept from time to time until the end of September, 1861. I have made a few notations since. Then, too, there are those who think I have done something for which I should pay pennance and I am doing it—I have done it now to my way of thinking. I am not as yet sure but it is well to be charitable. The Calfskin Trunk is no more. I destroyed it and its contents. I have written many things for you to look over and traveled a great many miles to find out for myself whether Richard Littleton or Edwin J. MacFarland was the hero or knave, whether the trunk and jacket were of the kind I have told you or whether he went about his business of deception with a devil-may-care spirit that came of despair."

There is a signature after the last lines. It is written over another which has been erased. One may make out under the scratching of the paper the letters "Ric" and at the middle a capital "L." But over the erased signature is signed boldly "Edwin J. MacFarland."

And after all were it not for the details told by Peter B. Western the story would be little more than a series of episodes and the secret is in the pages which have never been returned but which were taken away when the trunk took its journey to Janesville and established a residence in the Hyatt House. Had it not been for this manuscript the Calfskin Trunk would have remained a simple uncalled for piece of baggage in the hotel.

But more than anything else, I tried the miniature which carried with it. There came a faint glow at noon? Walk right in. There came a faint glow at noon? Walk right in. There came a faint glow at noon? Walk right in.

It was a dark and gloomy day. There was a tank of Autumn in the air. Men were complaining at the camp fires that the accommodations were insufficient while others were indulging in all manner of horse play, enjoying the situation. The stranger smiled cynically at all this.

One might have noticed had he looked a second time that the eyes of the stranger seemed to take in everything at a glance. That was the most striking thing about this stranger—his quickness of eye, not furtive but taking in a wide field at once. Nothing escaped him as he walked up and down the camp streets. He joined several groups but did not enter into the conversation. He halted at the door of one tent with a flag flying—a large tent with the word "HOSPITAL" written on it in large letters.

There came a faint glow at noon? Walk right in. There came a faint glow at noon? Walk right in. There came a faint glow at noon? Walk right in.

"Hello! So you thought you'd come back. Good for you MacFarland. We can use you and as a soldier with experience you'll soon wear epaulettes. How come you did not tell the cap that you were not from the three months men when you were here at noon? Walk right in."

There came a faint glow at noon? Walk right in. There came a faint glow at noon? Walk right in. There came a faint glow at noon? Walk right in.

The stranger hesitated a moment. "MacFarland, Edwin J. MacFarland, formerly of the regulars," he replied.

He was looking over the list of names in front of him as arranged on the page of the book.

"You see we have done well this morning, over 200 have signed. It is possible that you can get a commission at once and a drill sergeant's job is yours with experience in the regulars. What state? Make it Wisconsin!" and he continued. "I have my discharge and other papers down town. I will go and get them and be back in the morning."

This MacFarland was not a tall man, the officer noted as he walked from the tent, but gave evidences of great strength and litherness as well. His shoulders were broad, his chest deep, his muscles under his tightly fitting jacket showed power and fitness. He was good to look at, his face cleanly shaven, was strong and in evening clothes and the accoutrements of society he would have been a figure worth more than a passing glance. But his eyes held one for more than a moment. They were not black but at times seemed to spell all the depths of a coal black pit with a light shining in the very center. But his heavy eyebrows shaded these eyes, which as he turned from the doorway of the tent, were like two steel points, hard, cold and implacable. You have seen a ruddy fire on the stage giving one a sense of glowing warmth, all from an electric light hidden behind colored paper or glass—a steady unwavering fire, but as you get closer, cold and uninviting. That comes nearer describing what the light meant in the eyes of the man addressed as MacFarland than anything I know.

Out from Camp Treadway walked MacFarland to the Milton road and without glancing across the treeless prairie to the west he kept on toward the city. He stopped at the drug store of Tallman & Collins and made a purchase, went to a clothing store and after coming from it was attired in a new brown business suit, with different hat and shoes. He seemed to gain satisfaction when the clothing store told him he had sold the same style of suit and outfit to another wearing the same uniform only a few hours before. Yes, he was a stranger too.

He carried the bundle to the St. Paul depot and deposited it in a small permanent box but left there and checking it again started forth. The evening Gazette was on the street. He bought a copy and hastily glanced at it. There was no news of importance to him until he began on the dispatches. That day they were mostly from the war in Missouri, of the depredations of the confederates in Laclede county, of the exchange of prisoners and the movements of troops following the defeat of Col. Mulligan at Lexington.

Peter B. Western had come north before the rebels fired on Ft. Sumter and had worked at various jobs though he was trying to find a place in a school where he could teach. In the meantime he was the suave clerk at the Hyatt House, a man of the day of the war passed and feeling run high he found that his Missouri birth was a liability and not an asset. He was bantered, teased, threatened and scorned at from day to day because he did not enlist. The fever was running high in Janesville and no place in the north could number a higher rate of enlistment than among the young men of this Wisconsin city. He had just been called a "scoundrel" and told that if he did not soon enlist he would be made to take the oath or swing from the bridge over Rock river. He was not much perturbed over that but he had a letter that morning from an old friend who wrote acidly of his failure to remember his native state.

Peter Western was tall, full six feet and lanky. He showed the blood of the Quaker in his features but his eyes were of the Irish type. He had fought his way to an education and then ventured forth along the Mississippi for experience. He was thus thinking of the south, the call to arms, the divided state of his birth, when he confronted a man waiting at the desk.

"Here is your key, Mr. MacFarland," he said as he looked at the man. "I have a key, I notice its getting colder."

"There was no reply, only a look from the man, half curiosity and half satisfaction."

"You have made a mistake; I am not MacFarland, I am Mr. Watson—George H. Watson, of Chicago, and I would like a room for the night and a call for an early train."

"I—Yes sir," stammered Peter. He looked again. The man standing there wore a brown suit of clothes, had a white collar and a black tie, a hat with a wide brim. He even looked at the hand and seemed to hesitate again. It was a powerful hand, long and with fingers that tapered.

Western looked about him. He had sensed rather than seen this man come in at the door. At that time the entrance was on the corner of Milwaukee and Franklin streets. In the days when the hotel had first been built some five years before, the entrance was in the center of the block and the office and lobby, as was the custom in most of the hotels of that day, on the second floor. But lack of patronage sufficient to maintain so large a hotel in the city had compelled economical and a realignment of space. Western looked about him somewhat nonplussed. He was a young man, had never before acted as a hotel clerk and was self conscious.

"That is a good one on me," he drawled, disclosing his birth south of Iowa. "If you are not MacFarland you are as like him as two peas. If you can find you'd think you was lookin' in a mirror. Why, I passed him in the hall in the uniform of the army and he was as like you as—as I said before, two peas."

The guest only smiled. There was nothing pleasing about the smile. It was as cold as ice. Western turned the ponderous register about on the desk and handed the man a pen with which to sign his name. He wrote it plainly and easily. "Geo. H. Watson, Chicago."

"I have no baggage here yet so I will pay you now. If you will have a fire lighted I will come back shortly and go to the room. You need not mind a key now. And he turned and walked away."

What Western did not notice was that the key to room 34 was slipped into the pocket of Mr. Watson. The clerk wrote "32" after the name and went about some other business. And then the clerk looked at the name again and turned to the reporter for the Gazette who came once a day to look over the list of guests and perhaps get a story or a local item. The name of George H. Watson was innocuous, intrigued no inquiry, aroused no curiosity. It was obviously of some traveling man, perhaps some one in the employ of the government and again it might be that Mr. Watson was just passing through, waiting for some connection. He was not placed in the list of the great or near great of the time and his name has no place in the Gazette chronicles.

ARTICLE NO. 12.
Bids in Support of Partner's Suit Bid.

It is very simple to lay down rules for the play of a suit but it is not so simple to lay down rules for the play of a hand. It is sometimes difficult to apply them. Suppose first hand, as dealer, bids one Spade, and second hand bids two Spades. Third hand cannot make the bid unless holding at least four tricks with Spades as trumps, that is, one more than the dealer's expectation of three tricks. Those tricks may be either Aces and Kings or trump strength and the ability to trump the second or subsequent rounds of plain suits.

units. In support of partner's suit bid, it has been found that only Aces and Kings, that is, cards that win on the average the first and second rounds of a suit, can be considered trick takers with a suit as trump. For that reason, Queens are not regarded as trick takers under such conditions. Another thing that should be noted, and a most important one, is that the theory of supporting partner's suit bid is based on at least three trumps in the supporting hand, or two trumps to an honor, such as Ace, King or Queen.

With these basic principles as the starting point, the requirements for assisting partner's suit bid are as follows: first, double the quick tricks held in plain suits, that is, in suits that are not trump, limiting such quick tricks to Aces and Kings, or King, Queen, or guarded Kings. Queens twice guarded are not counted as quick tricks because it is very likely that the third round of a suit will be trumped. Second, add one trick if holding as good as three to the Ace, King or Queen, or four or more small cards of partner's suit. Experience has shown that such holdings will average to produce one more trick in partner's hand than estimated. Third, add one trick for ability to trump the first or second round of a plain suit, or the third round of two plain suits. Fourth, in case four or more trumps are held, one or more of which are honors, add one trick for the number of trumps held in excess of four or more trumps to the Ace, King or Queen are worth two tricks.

In the following example hands, suppose partner, as dealer, has bid one Spade, second hand has bid two Hearts, and third hand holds:

Hearts—8, 7, 12 (12 tricks)
Clubs—A, 2, 3, 2, 2 (2 tricks)
Diamonds—10, 4 (12 tricks)
Spades—10, 7, 5, 2 (1 trick)

This hand contains only three tricks and therefore only what partner expected when he made his original bid of one Spade. Therefore the hand should be passed.

Hearts—K, 10, 8, 7, 1 (1 trick)
Clubs—A, 6, 4, 3, 2, 2 (2 tricks)
Diamonds—10, 4 (12 tricks)
Spades—7, 5, 2, 2 (0 trick)

This hand contains four tricks and holder may support partner's original Spade bid once.

There are other considerations that must be thought of at this point: first, re-bidding by the original bidder; second, supporting bids by partner's re-bidder. In the first case, suppose the dealer bids one Spade, second and hand two Hearts, and third and fourth hands pass. Under such conditions, the original Spade bidder, to justify a bid of two Spades, should have at least two tricks more in his hand than required for the original bid. For estimating such additional tricks, add one for an Ace or King of a plain suit or one-half trick for a guarded King. If the trump suit is of greater length than five, add one trick for each trump in excess of five; also add one trick if the trump honors are stronger than the A-K combination. For example, the following hands may be re-bid once by the original bidder if partner has passed or if he has not yet had a chance to support the bid:

Hearts—A, 4, 2
Clubs—7, 6
Diamonds—10, 8
Spades—A, K, 7, 6, 4, 2

Hearts—10, 8, 7
Clubs—A, K, 4, 2
Diamonds—10, 8
Spades—A, K, 7, 6, 2

Hearts—A, 4, 2
Clubs—10, 8
Diamonds—10, 8, 7
Spades—A, K, Q, 4, 2

In case the original bidder has re-bid, either after partner has passed or before he has had a chance to support the bid, partner may support his bid once either with only three tricks, or with four tricks and only two trumps. For example:

Hearts—J, 4, 2, 10 (0 trick)
Clubs—K, Q, 7, 6, 2 (2 tricks)
Diamonds—K, A, 3, 1 (1 trick)
Spades—7, 6, 2, 10 (0 trick)

Hearts—10, 7, 5, 10 (0 trick)
Clubs—A, 4, 3, 2, 2 (2 tricks)
Diamonds—K, Q, 4, 2, 2 (2 tricks)
Spades—8, 5, 10 (0 trick)

Gazette Good Times Club

FOR ALL SCHOOL BOYS AND GIRLS

May each one of the more than 1400 members of the Gazette Good Times club have a merry Christmas and may the coming year be one in which good times will prevail in the life of each boy and girl.

Each of the 16 teachers whose enterprise and social spirit have led the way for these boys and girls to join the club have the very best of good times during the holiday season and throughout the coming year. With the club membership now nearing the 1,500 mark and new schools joining daily, the Gazette Good Times club is the largest organization of its kind anywhere. Our goal is the banding together of all the thousands of school boys and girls throughout southern Wisconsin. Our aim is good times for everybody, which can only be brought about by everyone playing fair.

News from Local Branches.

Volma Hitzberger sends the following report from Jefferson Prairie school: "We chose a motto for our school in our last society meeting. We chose 'Forward,' the same motto that we have for our state. We are going to try to live up to it. This week we are getting ready for Christmas. We are putting up decorations and practicing for the program. We all enjoy this time of the year."

Emily Duckett, Vickerman school, writes that the pupils have been busy getting ready for the Christmas entertainment, which consisted of eight recitations and five dialogues. They had a tree and pupils drew names and provided presents for each other. Vickerman pupils are making shoe box cottages for which directions were furnished by the Gazette, and Emily says that some of them are very pretty.

88 NEW CLUB MEMBERS

Five more rural schools joined the Good Times club the past week bringing in a total of 88 new members. More than half of the rural schools of Rock county are branches of the club. Local branches now number 74, including the 7th and 8th grades of the Orfordville state graded school.

Schools enrolling the past week are as follows:

Dist. 3, Johnstown, Mae White, teacher; members: Margaret, Veranda, Louis, Marion and Hazel Quigley; Philip and Kathryn Hall, Lawrence, Maybelle, Myrtle and Wilbert Shadel, Leona and Clifford Zantner, Arnie and Steve Devan, Lyle and Leo Wall, William and Linda Brummond, Doris Schmalzing, Harry and Robert Pfanden, Lester and Verona Matthews, George Rye, Herman Loerke.

Neegan, Dist. 13, Lima: Florence Wilgman, teacher; members: Darrell and Glenn Godfrey, Bobby Vance, Philip Steven, Esther, Lilian and Reimuth Welter, Benjamin, Baldwin, Maurice, Doris and Francis Hobbs, Bernice, McMillen, Edith, Wilma, Clifford, and Lester Parnum, Elmer, Margaret, Ruth and Florence Wiltz, Fernie and Edna Smith.

Dist. 2, Milton and Koshkonong: Fessie, Monahan, teacher; members: Lawrence Stout, Elwood, Marion and Clarence Gray, Donald Gray, Carl Spitzer, Lucille and Esther Woolstrum, Doris Vincent, Hilda, Stepan Kerehoff, Lenore and Edwin Raich, Elizabeth, Clarence

Frankie, Paul, Carl and Edith Dallman, George Howard and Evelyn Stout.

Dist. 5, Plymouth: Gladys Mulcahy, teacher; members: Gladys and Mildred Root, Clarence and Ina Moe, Ray and Leroy Poalin, Mildred and Glen Knudson, Clara and Charles Huzard.

Jt. Dist. 1, Plymouth, Spring Valley and Lyon: Irene Mulcahy, teacher; members: Kenneth Bohnhoff, Timman Amundson, Mildred, Rolf and Iola Sagen, Tilla, Lund, Lester Greenawald.

GOOD HEALTH HONOR ROLL.

Miss Anna Luetscher, county nurse reports the following children as winning places on the Good Health Honor roll in examinations made during the week ending December 16: Jt. Dist. 6, Milton: Number examined 16; normal weight and no physical defects: Raymond Brown, age 6; Francis Hacks, 6; Margaret Howard, 8; Mary Jones, 12; Genevieve Hudson, 12.

TWO CHRISTMAS GAMES TO PLAY DURING VACATION

Toy Tag is a game in which each player is assigned the name of a toy. The child who is "it" calls out the names of two toys at random, and the ones to whom these toys have been assigned must immediately change places, while the one who is "it" tries to tag them. A child may escape being tagged by imitating the toy whose name he hears. A toy dog may bark, a doll may grow stiff and walk with short, precise steps, a lion may roar, a toy train may whistle and imitate a train bell, a toy auto may honk, etc. If the one who is "it" calls the name of a toy that has not been given out, he will be so informed by the play-leader who gave out the names and must imitate the toy himself.

Christmas bargain counter is another nice game to play at home during the Christmas vacation. The toys and other gifts received by the children of the family are assembled on the table and one child is chosen to take charge of this play toy shop. A second child leaves the room after carefully looking over the toys on the counter to determine their names. While the one who is "it" is out of the room, a third child selects one of the toys and hides it. The child who has been out of the room then returns and must try at one guess to tell which toy the man sold during his absence. If he guesses right he may be the next toy man, and the one who was toy man goes out of the room.

POULTRY ADVANCED DECLARES STUDENT

Essay on Poultry Prepared by Stewart Cullen, Janesville High School.

By STEWART CULLEN
(J. H. S. "Angie" Class)

Every back in the days when our great grandmothers threw on their shawl and went out to feed the chickens, poultry raising was considered a sideline in the life of the farmers or more likely, the farmer's wife. If a chicken became sick it was doctored by some antique method and if it died it was buried with no "sanitary" post mortem.

The chicken house consisted of a "one horse" shack that was built in a day. The chickens were fed with the ancient feed ration of corn, grain and some table "left-overs." There was no thought of culling. If a person counted less than 10 different breeds of poultry in a flock he was said to go to the village school master for his addition. It was not considered whether the hens were a paying proposition or not, as long as it did not drain "pa's" pocketbook for money spent on food.

Now, under the unflinching supervision of agricultural teachers and the University of Wisconsin, poultry raising has become a paying proposition and in some instances there are farms devoted to the raising of poultry alone. The chickens are fed a properly balanced ration, sheltered in a large house and disease is kept at bay. The different breeds are treated in different pens and farms.

Poultry raising is often considered a losing branch of farming because no attention is paid to culling, the feeding or the housing. If the person owning the poultry does not cull, he is most likely feeding a large percentage of hens which are not laying, therefore wasting feed. He feeds with no knowledge as to what process that certain feeding will do, whereas if poultry is fed with a balanced ration, the owner will know more about its returns and what to expect. The house is often a genuine breeder of disease and cold. It is necessary to have a good hen house that is well located.

Pleasing Neighborhood.

"She's nice," she's just delighted with the new neighborhood they moved into," said the neighbors. "Yes, I understand the neighbors have her something to talk about all winter."—Judge.

HARRY HAGGART NEW PRESIDENT OF THE KIWANIS CLUB HERE

HARRY HAGGART

Harry Haggart will take his place as president of the Janesville club of the International Kiwanis at the first meeting in January, succeeding Oscar Nelson. He will be the third president of the club since it was organized in 1921. George Jacobs having been the first. Harry Haggart has lived all his life in Janesville and has grown up with the First National bank of which he is president. In a large number of community affairs he is prominent. He is the embodiment of the Kiwanis spirit "We Build."

The Crisis.

"I heard a fellow down at the cross-roads store telling last night that them people over there in Rooshy are eating the bark off the trees, and he's a neighbor."

"Aw, well," nonchalantly replied Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, "I don't reckon the kind of trees they have over there are much loss, no way."

"He said, too, that they are eating their dogs."

"Goodgodamighty! Eating their dogs? By thunder, the country has got to do something for them Rooshians, right away!"—Kansas City Star.

In Russia.

"Why didn't you bring the million rubles as you promised?"

"The drayman charged me that amount for hauling them."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Join the Original and Largest CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

It answers this puzzling question: Will you have enough money to spend next Christmas? Will you be able to do all the little things you would like to do? Will all your family, friends and associates be remembered next holiday season just as you will wish? Won't a little extra money come in handy?

You will want money to spend next Christmas. You can have plenty if you join the tenth annual Christmas Savings Club at the Rock County Savings & Trust Co., starting Dec. 27, 1922. A check which you may cash anywhere will be mailed to your home next December.

Answers to Questions

What is the purpose of the Christmas Saving Club?

The purpose is to help you and others to accumulate a fund for Christmas (1923).

How does the Christmas Saving Club accomplish this purpose?

By each member paying in a small sum, each week for 50 weeks. Ten days before next Christmas (1923) each member will receive the total amount he has paid in and, if payments are made regularly, we add three per cent interest.

Does everybody pay in the same?

No. There are fifteen classes, the payments being made in different ways to suit the convenience of all. These different classes are explained in detail in the other column.

What are the payments in Class 1c?

In the 1c Class Going Up the payments begin with 1c the 1st week and increase 1c each week until you pay 50c the fiftieth week, or if you prefer you can join the 1c Class Going Down and begin with 50c and end with 1c on the fiftieth week.

Do the payments in the other classes progress in the same way?

They do. The only difference is that in 2c Classes the payments are twice as much, either Going Up or Going Down. And in 5c and 10c Classes the payments are five and ten times as much as in 1c Class.

But in the other Classes the payments are "Uniform," being 10c, 25c, 50c, $1, $2, $2.50 or $5 each week, according to the Class you join.

What do I do to become a member?

All that is necessary is to go to the Rock County Savings & Trust Co., ask to be enrolled as a member and make the first week's payment or more.

Is there a membership fee or is there any cost to join? No.

What will the first payment be?

From 1c to $5.00, according to the class you join. See detail list of payments.

How are the payments to be made?

Weekly, or any day during each week or in advance for as many weeks as you desire.

What will happen if I cannot keep up my payments or discontinue?

You may discontinue for any reason at any time; and at the period when the club closes, we will pay you all you have paid in, but without interest.

When and how can I withdraw?

Under no circumstances will any withdrawals, either in whole or in part, be allowed. What you deposit will be held for you, until Dec. 12, 1923.

What form of receipt do I get when I make my payments?

We furnish a Card free on which all payments are receipted.

What would happen if my Card were lost, stolen or destroyed?

As we have a complete record of the payments of every member we will pay your share to you whether you have your Card or not. The Card is of value to you only for the purpose of keeping track of your payments.

Can I become a member of more than one class? Yes.

When can I join?

You can join any time now or before 3 p. m. Wednesday, January 31, but preferably during the first week to avoid the rush on the last few days.

Shropshire Ewe from flock of W. G. Miles.

Rock county has achieved considerable reputation throughout the United States as the home of champion sheep.

The Shropshire ewe shown was champion at the Milwaukee state fair and this season has annexed 10 championship ribbons at various fairs. The list includes fairs from Minnesota to Texas, where the ewe's exhibits were shown. The ribbons won on sheep demonstrate the ability of Rock county breeders to go in any competition on livestock—cattle, swine, sheep and horses and win credible prizes.

HAVE SOIL SURVEY FOR ROCK COUNTY

Valuable Publication Can be Obtained from College Soils Department.

An excellent report on the soils of Rock county has been recently published following a complete survey made in cooperation with Wisconsin college of agriculture. The book is of value to any person interested in Rock county farms or soil conditions, giving complete information by division of the various high grade land found in the county.

The surface features of Rock county are divided into four rather distinct divisions. The first division is confined to the northern part of the county and consists of the material which was most recently deposited by the glacial ice. It is known as the late Wisconsin drift. The southern limit of this region is marked by a low region of hills bordering an extensive level country. This range of hills is known as the "terminal moraine" and it enters the county at the N. W. corner of Union township, extends in a southeasterly direction and passes into Watkiss county about 3.5 miles north of Johnsonville. The surface of this region is, for the most part, gently rolling. The whole region is now very much as it was shaped by the glacial ice.

The second division, known as the "valley fill" or "out wash basin" is found immediately south of the late Wisconsin drift region. It extends across the county from east to west, but its most extensive development is found in the towns of Johnsonville, Harmony, Janesville, Rock, La Prairie, Beloit and Tule.

The third region has a surface which is characterized by the long, smooth, gentle slopes, and a soil section which is deep, in most places being over 100 feet to the bed rock. The surface is covered by a mantle of uniform silty loess-like material which is practically stone free. The region is much more thoroughly drained than the northern part of the county. This third division may be briefly described as being made up of deep, pre-Wisconsin drift, material, which means that it is glacial material of much greater age than that of the late Wisconsin drift. It is confined to the S. E. portion of the county, largely in the towns of Bradford, Clinton and Tule.

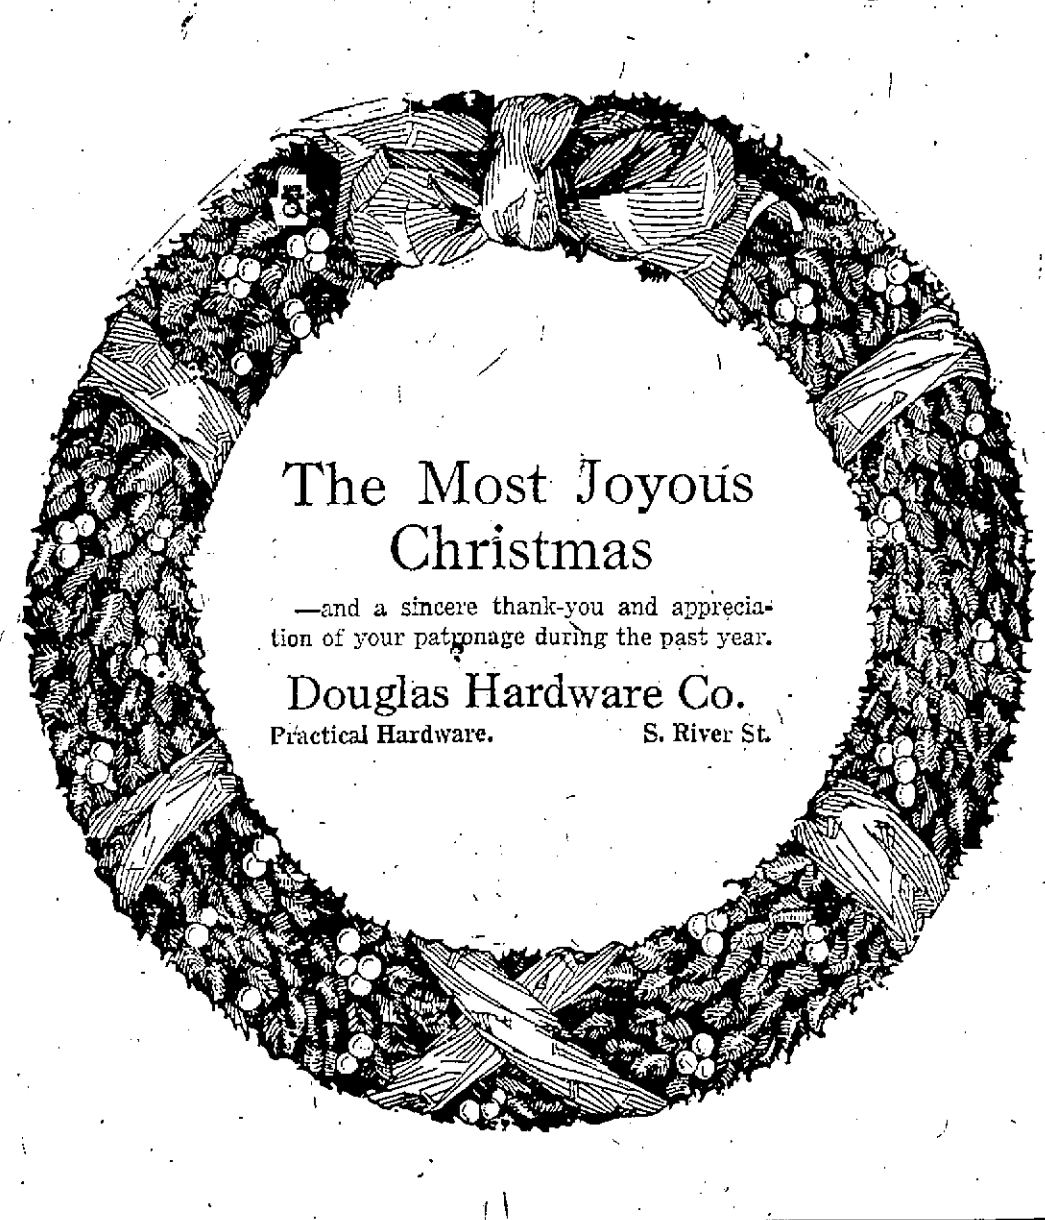

The fourth division occurs west of Rock river in the southwestern part of the county. This region was also gone over by the pre-Wisconsin ice sheet, but the glacial material left forms only a very thin blanket, usually having a maximum thickness of 5 or 6 feet, and in numerous places entirely lacking. The thin drift occurs in Magnolia, Spring Valley, and Avon townships. Northwest of Janesville and east of Rockville there is a small area over which the drift reaches a depth of from 40 to over 100 feet. The blanket of silty material common to the late Wisconsin drift, and to the older drift west of the Rock river, is seldom three feet thick and in many places entirely lacking in the southwestern portion of the county. Rock outcrops are also common throughout this region.

A Modern Open Sesame

by J. A. WALDRON.

Illustrations by Lawrence Fellows.

The summer season—usually a silly period—was in full swing at Harbor Bar. This resort, long in vogue among the socially select, had a fresh allotment of clippers they were numerous in every notable summer place—for year fortunes had to be exhibited in fashionable circumstances.

A dance was in progress at the new and showy home of the Stronges, who were simply well-to-do before the war, but who now were leaders of social high jinks, anxious to display their apparently endless resources.

Mrs. Manfred and Mrs. Pelham, young society women, quite intimate considering their contrasting trends—the former was frivolous and the latter sedate—were late arrivals, and dancing was in progress. They entered the ballroom together, and surveyed the moving throng.

"Who is that chap?" Mrs. Manfred asked.

"What chap, dear?" responded Mrs. Pelham.

"There are quite a number of chaps in sight."

"The tall fellow dancing with Miss Strong. What a dancer! I must meet him."

"You're actually insane, over-dancing! Yet I'll confess that if I were, I should look for a partner like him. But for dancing only. Otherwise not my style."

"I wonder who he is? There's something strangely familiar in his style, yet I can't place him. Must have met him—or seen him—long ago."

"I never met him. He must be a regular person, though, for I saw him at Mrs. Pelham's the other evening, and he was at Mrs. Thomas's last week. At both places he seemed to be dancing endlessly—and most of the time with Miss Strong."

"Well, dear, I must meet him—just for a dance!" And Mrs. Manfred sought Mrs. Strong for an introduction to the marvel who had involved her imagination. She found that lady alertly watching her daughter's movements with the young man.

"Who is he?" Mrs. Manfred asked.

"Hubert Bell, Strong's a charming fellow, in a way, although I don't really know him," replied Mrs. Strong.

"You don't mean that?"

"Candidly, my dear, he was not invited," Mrs. Strong whispered. "But I've seen him at so many places, among the very best people, that really he must belong. I don't care to have Eleanor dance with him—don't like to encourage him, you know—until I can make inquiries. But he is such a dancer! And Eleanor is obsessed. She has danced with him at several places, and my talking to her seems useless. It's all right, don't you think?"

"Why—it must be. And I want to dance with him!"

And so Mrs. Manfred was introduced to Hubert Bell as soon as Mrs. Strong could catch her daughter's eye effectively; and the mother impulsively took her daughter aside, perhaps for a lecture.

When the band played again, Mrs. Manfred and Mr. Bell joined the dancers. The young man was groomed to the moment. Though tall he was muscular, and his grace was a study. He would have been handsome but for his eyes which were small, set close together and elusive.

"I thought you would never see of dancing with that young man," said Mrs. Pelham as Mrs. Manfred rejoined her. The party was breaking up. "He must be a charming fellow."

"His charm lies in his symmetry of motion, dear. I never so enjoyed from Miss Strong. He talked about her endlessly, though he was curious about the whole Strong family. I must see Mrs. Strong tomorrow."

"Why?"

"Well, I've placed him. He doesn't belong with our sort. And he wasn't invited here. I met him—or saw him. I mean—a year ago, in an uptown cabaret. He was what they call a 'dance host' there."

"The idea!"

As they were leaving with other guests whom Mrs. Strong was speeding, they noted Miss Strong and Hubert Bell together half concealed by a palm down the hall.

Mrs. Strong was worried about her daughter, and had taken her husband into her confidence. Strong was a man of action. He was bound to find out all about Hubert Bell. A detective was employed, and Strong asked his daughter to avoid the young man until something definite could be learned about him. To simplify matters, the Stronges planned to send Miss Strong to an aunt in Newport at once.

Miss Strong was shipped off to her aunt, who in due time wired that the girl had not appeared. A letter came from the girl, postmarked at Boston, telling her parents that she had married Hubert Bell.

The detective called on the Stronges ten minutes after the girl's letter came. The Stronges excitedly greeted him.

"The last we knew of the girl in the Department," the detective said, "he was dancing in a cabaret. We thought he had reformed. We didn't know he had got among the swells."

"Reformed?" exclaimed Strong.

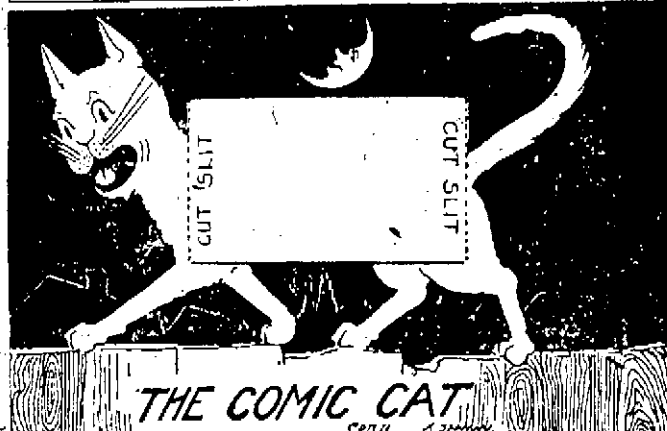

"What do you mean?"

"His name in the Gallery is Bud Aiken, and he has served time."

"SUNSHINE LADY" OF FORT SOON WILL BE 80 YEARS OF AGE

MRS. WILLIAM WENHAM

Fort Atkinson—There will be a celebration in Fort Atkinson in a few months when Mrs. William Wenham, known to all as "the sunshine lady," celebrates her 80th birthday. Mrs. Wenham has lived in Fort Atkinson 60 years and in the house to which she came as a bride. The death of her husband last February prevented her from celebrating her 60th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Wenham has earned her title in Fort Atkinson through her work among the Civil war veterans—live here, "her boys." She has been chaplain of the W. R. C. many years and yearly carries a "sunshine basket" filled with good things to eat to the old soldiers on their birthdays and Christmas.

She is assisted in this by the W. R. C. members. During the month she carried birthday baskets to Thomas Serna, Dec. 4; Guido Harder, Dec. 10; and William Rose, Dec. 15, when he celebrated his 95th birthday. These and the following will receive Christmas baskets: Asa Foote, Walter Robinson, John Wolf, George Pounder, Sherwood Chase, Gilbert Scott, Daniel Stocking, Sam and Lee Rayson, Dewitt Wilcox, John Drexheimer, John Messmer and William Parks. William Noel is in California.

Mrs. Wenham has made her life happy by bringing cheer to others and besides the Civil war veterans, visits the sick. Cheerfulness is the doctrine she preaches, on the theory that everyone has sorrows of his own and does not care to hear about others' troubles.

She is the mother of Mrs. H. L. Roard, this city; Charles Wenham, Chicago and Mrs. Albert Holmes, California.

Mrs. Wenham is the widow of a Civil war veteran, her husband having enlisted in the Fourth Wisconsin regiment.

When Janesville Had Its Greatest Hotel Fire

This is the story of the Hyatt House fire on the morning of January 12, 1887. It was the most disastrous fire Janesville has ever had. It ended the history of the Hyatt house which, when built, and for many years after, was the most pretentious hotel in a city the size of Janesville in all the west. The city was growing rapidly when the hotel was erected. In a year its population increased over 2,000 and from 1850 to 1880 added 7,000. In the fire which destroyed the hotel was also burned the maid, Maggie Emerson. The hotel occupied the greater portion of the block from Franklin street fronting Milwaukee to the west and the lower floors were occupied by business houses.

In the Gazette for the evening of January 12, 1887, appears the following story of the conflagration:

TERRIBLE CONFLAGRATION!
The Hyatt House in Total Ruin!
A Young Woman Burned to Death!

HER REMAINS NOT RECOVERED!
Narrow Escape of the Occupants of the Building!

LOSS OF PROPERTY, $150,000!
Our city was the scene this morning of the most disastrous fire that ever visited it. Soon after three o'clock, the Hyatt House was found to be on fire in the kitchen. The flames spread with lightning rapidity, so much so that it was with the utmost difficulty that the occupants escaped, nearly all of them with nothing on save their night-clothes, and a young woman, Maggie Emerson,

The Fire Department
An immense amount of growing was perpetrated this morning against the fire department, it being alleged that they did not throw a drop of water on the fire. The facts are these: The water was got out and put in working order, but the chief of the department found it utterly impossible to induce men to take hold of hoses. Knowing that the hose would freeze so unless a stream was kept constantly passing through them, he ordered the hose detached from the machines and attached to the force-pump of Messrs. Hodson, McChesney, Howe and Hanson. That is the reason the engines did not work.

We cannot understand why the citizens are so reluctant to man the engines in the time of a fire.

The Force-Pump
A large debt of gratitude is due the owners of the force-pump on the race for the efficient use of it made this morning. Its efficacy was so manifest that we hope they will be provided with hose for emergencies.

Seen at the Fire
The first was as grand a sight as is often witnessed. The air was still, and the flames and smoke shot upwards hundreds of feet in one vast sheet, bursting out of the windows and doors. And most fortunate it was that there was no more a stirring for that it has been otherwise, half of the city must have been laid in ruins. As it was, the freight depot of the Milwaukee and Prairie du Chien road, look street, and other buildings were also ignited. Large pieces of tin from the roof of the hotel were carried by the draft two blocks off, all the buildings in the immediate vicinity were blistered and an employee in the house, less fortunate than the others, was cut off from retreat and perished in the flames. She was last seen at a window in the fifth story, where she called for help, but no help could reach her. Soon after her outcry for assistance, two garments were thrown out of the window, it is supposed by her.

THE HYATT HOUSE
Built in 1855 and burned in 1887. This cut is over 60 years old. The original picture was a wood cut in the Gazette 66 years ago.

Quite a number of the inmates of the hotel made their escape from the burning building by crawling out on their hands and knees, while others, nearly suffocated with smoke, threw themselves with frantic energy against a partition which separated the hotel from the office adjoining, and tore it down, thus effecting their escape down the stairway furthest removed from the fire. One man, let himself down by the long fire escape, and by tying the bed-clothing together. It is truly wonderful that no more lives were lost, when the extent of the building is considered and the rapidity with which the flames spread, taken into account.

When Built
The Hyatt House was built in 1855 and 1857 by Mr. A. Hyatt Smith, the citizens contributing liberally toward the enterprise. It cost not far from $100,000. The property was now owned by Mr. A. D. Matteson, and is believed to be insured for $150,000.

The Occupants
The hotel was kept by Sol Hutson, by whom it was furnished, save for some $5,000 worth, which belonged to Mrs. A. H. Smith, and on which there was no insurance. Mr. Hutson had an insurance of $5,000 with Dimock and Lawrence on furniture and piano, and $25,000 with Whitaker on stock. John Hutson had an insurance of $500 on furniture and wearing apparel with Dimock and Lawrence. The loss of Mr. H. beyond his insurance is placed by him this morning at $8,000.

E. L. Wright, who occupied one of the stores, for the sale of musical instruments and sewing machines, removed the most of his stock, but in a somewhat damaged condition. His loss he estimated at from $500 to $1,000. No insurance.

G. G. Campbell, flour and feed store, lost $2,100. Insured $1,000 with H. Hart.

K. Gilewsky and company, lost $2,000. Insurance $1,500 with Dimock and Lawrence.

V. Jovanovitch, fancy goods and toys, lost $5,000. Insurance $2,000. A. Jackson in the second floor was almost entirely saved with the strenuous exertions of the citizens, to whom Mr. J. wishes to return thanks.

Williams and Sale were not so fortunate, for amongst the bulk of their library and fixtures were removed, they suffered damage to the extent of about $300.

The Baptist society, which occupied Hyatt House Hall for public worship, lost nearly all their furniture. The speaker's desk, communion service and a few other things, however, were saved. Their loss cannot be far from $1,500.

Other parties in the building lost large amounts in wearing apparel and personal effects.

The small building west of the Hyatt House occupied by T. M. Lynch as a market, was also burned. This was owned by Sol Hutson and insured with Whitaker for $400. Mr. L. had an insurance of $1,000 with Dimock and Lawrence, his stock which was largely removed.

The stock of Wright and Hunt was insured with Dimock and Lawrence for $10,000. Although the building was destroyed, the danger was imminent, and the goods removed and consequently received little damage.

The express company saved everything and the internal revenue office lost all.

Incidents
Mr. Few, the partner of Mr. Hutson, who was boarding at the Hyatt House, put into his room yesterday, a beautiful piano, and got his apartments in handsome shape. He also had a U. S. bond of $1,000. In all, property valued at about $4,000. He and his wife hurried out this morning with nothing but their night clothes on.

Mr. Hutson in endeavoring to bring out the babe of Mrs. Peddleford, made a mis-step at the head of a flight of stairs, and fell the whole length, receiving some bruises but doing no injury to the child.

Mr. Wm. Monroe, ascertaining that Mrs. Barker was still in her room and in danger of perishing, saturated his clothes with water and then rushed in through the smoke and flames and brought her out safely.

Nothing definite is known of the origin of the fire. Mr. Baurer, who first discovered it, stated to us that on coming downstairs he found the kitchen asleep. It started in the kitchen after the fire had been built in the cook-stove.

We respectfully submit to our citizens and property owners, whether it is not high time to provide some more thorough and efficient means of extinguishing fires in this city. It is a matter that has already appealed to many persons with a directness that cannot be evaded, and it was only because the citizens favored us just cause the more property did not fall a prey to the devouring element. The inadequacy of the fire department, neglected as it has been by the municipal authorities, has been sufficiently demonstrated. Our firemen do the best they can always, but there is a limit to human pluck and endurance, and a better method must be provided to save us from ruin. Let us have at least two good steam fire engines, properly manned and equipped, and the ring of the midnight bell will not carry as much consternation to the hearts of our people as at present.

MID-WEEK HOLIDAY ASKED IN PLACE OF SUNDAY CLOSING

Delavan.—Action by the city council to stop any Sunday sports and calling upon them to promote community action to establish a mid-week half holiday, allowing continuance of the sports now played on Sunday is asked in a resolution passed Sunday by the First Baptist church.

A storm of protest arose among Delavan ministers and church members as a result of the past season of professional football games on Sunday, at which there was a large attendance. The Rev. Robert Lincoln Kelley, pastor of the First Baptist church, and the Rev. C. Wesley Foster, of the Methodist church, opposed the violation of the Sunday athletics from their pulpits.

The resolution is as follows: "Whereas Delavan has been known in the years, zone as a city of law abiding citizens, where there is generally a respect for constitutional rights and the laws of the state and of the land, nation, state and city, and

Whereas in contravention of the laws of the state there have been held public games within the city limits, baseball and football, for which admission fees is charged, and contravention operating to its natural end a resultant lack of respect for and adherence to law, and

Whereas said sports are of interest to the entire community and as presently managed and featured upon Sunday make impossible the support of a large group of citizens, who by training and conviction cannot and will not countenance what they believe to be the wrong use of a day by them held sacred for other purposes by sports, however, it is resolved, that we, the members of the First Baptist church and its congregation, place ourselves upon record as follows:

First, in calling upon our city council, together with the Citizens League and other business and community organizations, to promote such community action as may make possible a mid-week half-holiday, adding to the continuance of the sports in question and this with full community sanction and within the laws of the state and

Second, in protest before the said city council as to any further public contravention of state law by these sports within the city limits upon Sunday, asking that that body take such action as may prevent the continuance of this practice."

Sheep and Lamb Feeding Increases in Wisconsin

Madison.—The state crop service reports an increase of approximately 10 percent in the number of sheep and lambs in feed lots on Wisconsin farms this month, as compared to a year ago. The report says the sheep and lamb feeding industry in Wisconsin is confined to a relatively small number of larger feeders and farmers. Figures indicate 90 percent of sheep and lambs on feed in the state are shipped in from the west and only 10 percent are native. The flocks will be finished for market within three months, according to the report.

New Enterprises Do Not Come Into a City Where Local Firms are Having Poor Success

If you were selecting a city in which to open up a new business, what would you consider? The very first thing which would make a good or bad impression upon your mind would be the success with which the firms already in that city were meeting. If that city had business houses struggling along on a "hand-to-mouth" basis, you would not give it a second thought. On the other hand, if the city has thriving, bustling, busy, concerns, you will give it long and studied consideration. But remember, that the success of business houses is determined by the support they receive from the public. This is true of Janesville manufacturers. If Janesville people will not support Janesville enterprises, how can Janesville ever expect to get new ones?

The extraordinary military court of the Greek revolutionists has come to mean "the more than a court of death" to Hellenic royalists. Death sentences were passed out with abandon to those charged with being responsible for the recent Greek defeat in Asia Minor until the allied powers protested. The trials are continuing, but the sentences have been confined to exile and degradation since the protests began pouring into Athens.

Robert von Meschiser.

WILL "PROGRESSIVE DOZEN" CONTROL NEXT CONGRESS?

Top, left to right: Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska; Senator Henrik Shipstead Minnesota; Senator Lynn Frazier, North Dakota; Senator Smith Brookhart, Iowa; Middle: Senator Charles L. McNary, Oregon; Senator Robert L. Owen, Oklahoma; Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Wisconsin; Senator E. F. Ladd, North Dakota. Bottom: Senator Joseph I. France, Maryland; Senator William E. Borah, Idaho; Senator Morris Sheppard, Texas; Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas.

The "Progressive Dozen" of the senate, aided and abetted by their liberal colleagues of the house, are planning to exercise control of the next congress and to force through progressive legislation. Headed by Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin, and Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, the progressive minority whose votes practically will decide the fate of all senate measures, pledges itself to prepare plans for dealing with agriculture, labor, railroads, shipping, credits, taxation and amendments to the constitution, including ones affecting presidential elections.

Emma S. Redel.

Miss Emma S. Redel has just been promoted from chief clerk to assistant secretary of the Minneapolis and St. Paul railroad. She is said to be the second woman in the U. S. to attain such a high position in a railway system. She entered the employ of the railroad company in 1908 as a stenographer.

Dr. Burchardi.

Former Kaiser Wilhelm is generally regarded as an old man, broken in health and spirit, a tottering figure in spite of his highly advertised wood-chopping propensities. But it's all wrong, yessir, all wrong, according to Dr. Burchardi, Vienna specialist. He says that the ex-war lord now has all the pep of a youngster as a result of an operation to restore his youth.

Childe de Rohan D'Harcourt and his wife, Esther.

What is the dividing line between displays of artistic temperament and disorderly conduct? Magistrate Oberwager, in New York, was called upon to decide that question when Childe de Rohan D'Harcourt and his wife, Esther, both artists, appeared in court. D'Harcourt charged his wife bounced an electric iron off his head, and she said he bit her. Result, he discharged D'Harcourt on the disorderly conduct charge.

"Spite fence" at Port Henry, N. Y., sixteen feet high.

Two amiable neighbors live on the outskirts of Port Henry, N. Y., on Lake Champlain. In fact they are so amiable that a "spite fence" sixteen feet high has been erected between their properties. In reality there are two fences, separated by a space of a couple of feet. Presumably one neighbor built the lower one, which is twelve feet high, and then the other went him one better by erecting a higher one. Either one is amply sufficient to cut off their view of each other.

MORE AT WORK ALL OVER STATE

Employment of Labor Increases
in All Except on the Farm.

Madison—Employment conditions for the past month remained about the same in Wisconsin as during the preceding month, the industrial commission has reported. Increases in some branches were counterbalanced, the commission said, by decreases in important seasonal industries such as agriculture and construction.

The number of employees engaged in manufacturing showed a gain of 2.2 per cent; retail trade showed an increase of 11.2 per cent; and logging a gain of 25.5 per cent. The logging increase is reported as purely seasonal.

Agriculture showed a decrease of 15.7 per cent in the number of persons employed; building construction a decrease of 5.3 per cent; highway construction of 12.7 per cent; and railroad construction of 6.8 per cent.

The most important increases were pig iron and rolling mills 6 per cent; meat packing, 27.8 per cent; construction 2.5 per cent; building construction 9.8 per cent; aluminum and enamel ware, 7.8 per cent; saw mills 4.2 per cent; and furniture 4.1 per cent.

Factory mills showed a decrease of 2.3 per cent; brick tile and cement blocks of 20.9 per cent; and stone finishes of 2.4 per cent. The decrease in the last two industries are said to be seasonal.

Average weekly earnings of factory employees were $23.69. This compares with $27.73 in July, 1920, and $25.45 in July, 1921.

The industrial commission maintains 12 free employment offices in the principal cities of the state, which report that they are making a large number of placements. There is a general report of plentiful labor throughout Wisconsin with practical no shortage in any of the occupations.

WHO SAID VOLSTEAD PUT CRIMP IN GRAPE GROWING BUSINESS?

Madison—Vineyards of the United States produced a bumper crop of grapes in 1922. Total carlot shipments from all sections up to and including November 17th were 51,254 cars, an increase compared with 1921 of 14,553 cars, or about 39 1/2 per cent, according to a summary issued by the State Department of Farms and Markets.

In the fifty-one thousand odd cars were a total of 1,025,000,000 pounds of grapes, which would be sufficient to supply approximately ten pounds of grapes to every individual in the United States. They were worth, at an average price of $70 a ton, $35,500,000.

Two causes contributed to make the season a profitable one for eastern grape-growers. A car shortage in the west cut California's normal shipments about 35 per cent, and there was an increased demand for private consumption and grape juice manufacturers in the East. It also was a year of unprecedented yields in eastern vineyards.

New York, Pennsylvania and Michigan, the three principal grape states, made enormous gains in carlot shipments, and there also was a heavy movement by truck because of the prevailing car shortage in the east as well as in the west. Michigan figures show a gain in shipments of 37 per cent; Pennsylvania, 288 per cent; and New York 201 per cent. The crop of these three states alone brought approximately $10,000,000. Truck shipments in the three states, which are not included in the department's figures, are estimated at 20,000 tons, worth another million and a half dollars.

London—An effort is being made in England to raise $500,000 for the preservation of the Victory, Nelson's flagship in the Battle of Trafalgar. The famous vessel is at Portsmouth, in a very bad state of repair. So far has she deteriorated that it is decided to bring her to London, she will have to come overland; she could not undergo the journey by water.

BOARD SPENT FIVE MILLION

Philadelphia—Total disbursements of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist church for 1922 were $5,084,267, according to Dr. William J. Ellis, treasurer, in his report at the board's meeting.

BANK MUST PAY AGAIN.

Hutchinson—The jury in circuit court of Butte county granted H. A. Swanson $800 against the Bank of Cushing, Cushing, Wis., despite the fact that money had previously been paid to the son of Swanson, when the bank issued a certificate of deposit drawn in his father's name and which had the older Swanson's name endorsed. The jury considered the signature a forgery and the bank will be compelled to pay again.

SOLD GAS STOCK HERE.

Indicative of the prosperity of Janesville, the City Gas and Light company of Janesville placed 99 per cent of the $100,000 issue of preferred stock, floated during the past year in Janesville. The "99" could also have been sold here. I. F. Wondryke, manager said, but requests were made from out of town. It was the first time preferred stock has been offered by the concern.

PALMER FINISHES 20-YEAR SERVICE AS CARRIER IN '23

CARRIER J. A. PALMER

BY "THE SENIOR PARTNER."

Before 1903 there were four rural routes out of Janesville. George Miller, John Baker, John Hill and John Taylor were the carriers. They had been secured by petition.

In 1902, when I hurt my hand and had to give up my dental work, I got a petition for another route. I wrote Congressman Cooper about it and he used it to get in the county service.

In December, 1902, Inspector Walker came here and worked all winter laying out the route. He told me that he rode over every route in Rock county and laid out 43 routes. On March 24, 1903, we had an examination at the court house, much more simple than the difficult examinations of today. It was taken by 78. I wrote for route three, getting a standing of 98 and receiving my appointment in May.

About that time Mr. Eriston, the fourth assistant postmaster-general, sent an economical streak and sent an inspector here to cut out 10 routes. County service started Dec. 15, 1903, when the thermometer was 10 degrees below zero, and I tipped over three times on the first day. At that time there were eight routes out of Janesville.

One of the routes thrown out was to have been served by George Warren, an old veteran, who instead was given the city rural route No. 3, by the inspector who had the regular salary for the upkeep, a matter that annoys the rural carriers, who have never had a cent extra for upkeep, while I take one-third or one-half of our salary to pay our expenses.

The present fourth assistant, Mr. Billany is working for extra money for us. I began on the magnificent salary of $500. We have had raises several times, but no rural carrier ever got rich because it costs so much for upkeep. For 14 years I went over 1,200 miles a year farther than the one who has a standard route of 21 miles, for the same salary. I go 25 miles now, and we get $20 per year for each extra mile.

During my nearly 20 years of service I have had many experiences, many of them very pleasant and not so. One winter I went through 13 fields and dooryards, covered with three and four feet of snow. One man fastened his box high up on his front porch, and I drove over the front step to put mail in it. One spring when the snow went off the first of March, I had my horse down nine times in one day.

But my patrons appreciate my efforts to serve them, and show it by giving me all kinds of things. One man said to me 15 years ago, "Isn't it great that I can get a Chicago paper at ten o'clock out here eight miles from town?" When I began, I had less than 2,000 pieces per month, now I have more than 11,000.

George Miller belonged to the state rural carriers' association for some time, but we had no county organization, so in 1910 I wrote to the different offices in the county to have a meeting and start organizing. The Rock County Letter Carriers' association was organized on Feb. 22, 1911. Al Gridley being elected president and Mr. Perkins, Beloit, secretary. I was president one year and secretary about ten. Last year I was county president and I have been a delegate to the state meetings several times and state delegate to the national convention two or three times. I have enjoyed and am proud of my 20 years' service and shall miss it when I quit next October.

POTATO GROWERS SEEK NEW PLANS

Immense Losses in Midwest
Cause Farmers to Change
Program.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Chicago.—Decreased acreage, better marketing plans, increased storage facilities and new markets are being considered by mid-western farmers who lost money raising potatoes this year, according to a summary of the situation in five potato raising states.

The five states, Michigan, Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota and Minnesota, raised approximately 166,000,000 bushels of potatoes this year, but reports from most sections indicate the growers lost money.

The reason is variously ascribed to over production, car shortage and lack of storage facilities.

Twelve million bushels of potatoes remain undug in the Red River valley of Minnesota, according to O. L. Jacobson, chairman of the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission. He blames the car shortage and says the crop will freeze or rot in the ground unless transportation is specially provided. The enormous potential loss here does not include losses being sustained in other parts of the state.

North Dakota farmers raised 20,000,000 bushels this year, an increase of 2,000,000 since 1921. Several towns have built large storage warehouses to handle the surplus and at Minot a large starch factory is planned to turn part of the crop into its principal by-products.

May 1922 Seed.

Michigan, which led the country as a potato producing state, according to the 1920 census, produced 37,555,000 bushels this year, an increase of 10,000,000 bushels. But the price dropped from an average of 35 cents a bushel in 1921 to 25 cents this year.

To meet the situation, state agricultural officials advise Michigan farmers to devote more attention to raising seed potatoes which command a better price than the commercial grades.

Growers who sold their crop late in July or early in August, got as high as $2.50 a hundred pounds, giving a profit of about $1 a hundred. Some held on and lost money when the price went below $1.50. Many sold for as low as 75 cents a hundred.

However, the 115 pounder is a husky calf, with a good strong bellows and the ability to kick up his heels. The photograph was taken a few days after the calf was dropped.

Veterinarians report that the average weight for a calf is less than 115 pounds but 115 and 120 pounds is not unusual. Anyway the Holstein calf started an argument.

WEIGHT 115 POUNDS

Since news was published about the 115 pound calf, born at the William Kelsey farm, Riverside, numerous reports have come in even from Jefferson and Walworth county which show that such weight, while unusual, is not a record breaker for even a dairy calf.

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST

Copyright, 1922, by the International Syndicate

The Test Lamp

THIS LITTLE DEVICE is very handy in locating electrical troubles and consists of an automobile lamp-socket, containing a small candle-power lamp of the voltage used on the car, with one end of a piece of flexible twin lamp cord connected to the socket and the other ends soldered to two wire nails. It is in effect a cheap substitute for a voltmeter, the nail points being hard and sharp enough to make electrical connection, even with dirty metal parts. If there is doubt whether the generator "builds up," touching the nail points to its terminal and frame simultaneously should light the lamp, if the generator is alive. A dead battery is indicated if the lamp fails to light, when the two nail points are firmly pressed onto its two terminals and if the lamp lights but dimly, a very low state of charge is proved. When there is a single break in a circuit, the lamp will light when the points straddle the point of interruption, for instance, if no current flows, when the ignition switch is closed, applying the test points successively around the switch, around the coil and around the timing contacts will disclose in which of these devices the break is located, and if the "open" is in one of the wires, applying the points between its ends will bring out that fact.

WINDSHIELD DOPE

W. P. L. asks: Can you inform me how to keep water from freezing on the windshield of my car? Will denatured alcohol answer the same purpose as grain alcohol in preparing anti-freeze mixture?

Answer: A mixture of equal parts of water and glycerine, which a pinch of salt has been added, soaked sparingly into the glass, will keep rain or sleet from sticking in the form of drops and give you much better visibility, but it is for more convenient to put on one of the windshield wipers, which have renewable, felt pads to do the wiping, as these are soaked with some mixture, which has the same properties as the glycerine and apply this to the glass more satisfactorily than it can be accomplished otherwise. Practically speaking, denatured alcohol has to be used for preparing anti-freeze, as the cost of straight grain alcohol makes its use almost out of the question. Denatured alcohol is 85% grain alcohol.

USE OF THE CHOKER AT STARTING

A. T. writes: I never have been able to start the engine of my car, without using the choker. When the engine is first started, upon engaging the clutch, it runs for a few rotations and then dies, but after the car has been driven for about a mile, the engine runs fine. What is wrong? Is the carburetor at fault? How can the trouble be overcome?

Answer: Your experience is common. It is not universal with present day gasoline, in the case of engines with carburetors adjusted for lean and economical mixtures. It is necessary to keep the choker partly closed for sometime after starting, or until engine temperature reaches the point at which vaporization becomes adequate. You can enrich your mixture by readjusting the metering-pin stop-screw at the carburetor, which is done by turning it slightly to the right, but we do not advise doing this, as it will make the running adjustment unnecessarily rich and lower your fuel economy. "Nursing" the engine, by means of the choker, for some little time after starting from a cold condition, may be considered a necessary evil and one may as well become resigned to it.

REVERSING BATTERY REVIVES STARTER

P. N. P. writes: Recently, the current from my battery failed to turn the starting motor, although the lights were good, and to humor a friend of mine I reversed the battery connections, after which the starter motor operated finely, but now the ammeter shows charge, when the battery is discharging and vice versa. What will happen if I leave the battery connected as it is?

Answer: Nothing objectionable will happen, but you can make your ammeter read properly by reversing the connections to the binding posts on the back of it. Instead of doing this, however, we should advise you to restore the battery connections as they were originally, as we believe that you would find the starter would then operate all right. We think that what happened was this: The starter cable connection to the battery was loose or corroded, but when you reversed the battery connections, you cleaned or tightened the connection sufficiently, so that a good contact was secured. Reversing the battery polarity always causes the generator to furnish charging current in the opposite direction and the ammeter indicates the change.

PICK UP TRAIL OF DENVER MINT BANDITS

DEATH OF UNION MINERS TOLD BY HERRIN DEFENSE

ONE WAS SHOT WHILE UNARMED. WITNESS DECLARES.

CROSS EXAMINED

Proving of Justifiable Homicide Is Aim of Attorneys for Slayer Suspects.

Madison, Ill.—Edward Crenshaw, defense attorney for the slayer suspects in the death of the first union miner, Jerry Henderson, Saturday faced a continuation of cross-examination by attorneys for the state, prosecuting five men charged with murder during the Herrin riots.

On direct examination Friday, Crenshaw testified he was in front of his home, about a half mile from the mine, when he saw Henderson, killed after being struck by a bullet from the direction of the mine. He said Henderson was unarmed.

The defense called seven witnesses Friday to support its previously announced contention that the slayings were justifiable homicide. It attempted to show that extreme provocation resulted from importation of armed guards and non-union miners during the coal strike.

Only two witnesses for the defense were heard at the morning session and the cross-examination of a third, held over from Friday, completed when court recessed over the holidays, to re-open Tuesday, Jan. 2.

Crenshaw said he was working in Havana, June 21, and that Henderson told him he had better go home and that a crowd of about 100 armed men passed his house, going toward the mine about 2 p. m.

Shots From Thicket. "Didn't they make your house a headquarters in attacking the mine?" asked the state attorney. "No, they came from the mine toward my house, and I saw Henderson fall," was the answer.

"Was there any shooting about your house?" "The firing was from the road in front of the mine," he testified.

"The witness said he saw someone carry 'something' to the top of an embankment at the mine, conceal it with a clump of brush and that it was a short time after that someone shot from this spot. He said he had not seen the prisoners taken from the mine the next morning."

After Henderson was shot, Crenshaw testified that 40 persons, 30 of whom bore arms, "were threatened by guards."

George Dangbar, 50, testified that he had a farm near the Lester mine and that the mine reservoir was quiet by. He said every thing was quiet until the armed guards came. The mine was shot at by his private guard to get water. He said the guards traveled in groups, armed, and that he complained to the sheriff. He said two of the guards had threatened him and told him they had the mine and that he would be killed if he did not go to work.

Oscar Dangbar, son of the previous witness, testified that the mine guards, on their trips to the reservoir, disturbed his family and threw eggs at the house. He said he saw Henderson shot the afternoon of June 21 but did not see Henderson with any arms.

NEW ASSEMBLING PLANT

This is the new assembling plant of the General Motors Corporation Chevrolet branch where the cars will be assembled. It is an addition to the former plant of the Samson Tractor company. The output of the Chevrolet plant is going to be about 300 cars daily will be completed. About half of these it is predicted, will be driven away and the others shipped by rail. Such a number of cars sent from Janesville will mean the addition of a large number of guests at hotels and raises again the question of what Janesville is going to do about a new hotel. Machinery for the Chevrolet assembling plant is coming next week and the work of installation will be rapidly pushed.

A REAL "MERRY CHRISTMAS"

Sometimes we say things so often and with such precision without thought that the original meaning is lost. We ask of a friend or acquaintance whom we meet on the street, "How do you do?" and so on, and do not wait for an answer for some time. But when we say "Merry Christmas," we ought to say it as though we meant it. We do want a merry Christmas of the right sort of merriment. Peace, comfort, prosperity, hope of welfare, that one is accomplishing what he has set out to do, health, a pleasant home—all these are embedded, and more of the same kind, in the "Merry Christmas" of the person who really means it. The Gazette wishes its readers a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year—a good year in 1923. That's a sort of a family greeting with the Gazette since it is a fact of the Gazette's constitution that the subscribers and readers of the Gazette constitute a great family, most of whom are within driving distance from the Gazette office. May you have a fine Christmas and all the good gifts that can be given you.

Wall St. Stirred by Durant Drive

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York.—William C. Durant, who became famous as the founder and president of the General Motors corporation, but who lost control of that organization in 1920, is the dominant figure in negotiations which may lead to a merger in the common stock of the Fisher Body corporation, an $84,000,000 concern.

The Fisher Body corporation, an $82,000,000 concern, is virtually controlled by General Motors, and is one of its most prized possessions. Because Mr. Durant has discovered an early new method of gaining control of the floating stock, some 98,000 shares in all, and particularly because he has turned his attention to a concern controlled by General Motors, some who are not such as to the public, but who are operators on the street, were viewing his activities with mixed emotions today.

Those who have been sold short on Fisher Body stock are angry. They are angry because the small investor is aiding the former head of General Motors to even a few old scores.

Mr. Durant's New Plan.
Mr. Durant, it is said, has split the shares of stock into fractional units, which he has offered on a per cent basis to the public. The plan is to sell the shares of the company's stock at a price of 10 cents each, and to use the proceeds to pay off the company's debts.

The outstanding feature of the Durant plan is that the "unit certificates" cannot be sold for two years. Which means, in effect, that such certificates are not to be sold until the company has paid off its debts. The plan is to use the proceeds to pay off the company's debts.

Janesville is vitally interested in the affairs of the Fisher Body corporation, which is erecting a plant here. The Durant plan is a plan to gain control of the company's stock.

SKATING POND AT JACKSON STREET BRIDGE POPULAR
"We've got a lot of skaters down here now but there's room for many more, announced William Ford, of Boose, Ford & Sons, Saturday. In speaking of the skating pond pond on McKee boulevard. "The skating is fairly good now and promises to continue so over Christmas when we expect several hundred on the pond."

Mr. Ford, with the cooperation of Street Commissioner Thomas J. Kane, has been working to get the pond in shape the past week and has been fairly successful. While the first trial at skating did not work out well, the second one gave a fairly smooth surface. No charge is being made to the city or the skaters.

Many skaters are enjoying the sport on the gas house bay above the Fourth avenue dam while others are on the ice in Monticello. Mild weather of the past few days has softened the ice considerably but this does not prevent the most enthusiastic from donning the steel shoes.

IDENTIFY BODIES TAKEN FROM LAKE AS KIDNAPED MEN

RELATIVES DECLARE TWO CORPSES THOSE OF MOB VICTIMS. INQUEST PLANNED

Madison, Jan. 2.—The wife of a man recovered Friday in Lake LaFayette by state troops, believed to be those of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards, who disappeared after being kidnapped by masked band white men, were further identified Saturday morning when viewed by Richards' widow, J. L. Daniels, father of Watt, and a score of other relatives and friends.

The bodies of the two men were found in the lake on Saturday morning. The bodies were found in the lake on Saturday morning. The bodies were found in the lake on Saturday morning.

Board of Control Paroles O'Neill

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison.—Joseph O'Neill, former federal prohibition director of Wisconsin and democratic leader of this state, sentenced to prison for violation of the federal prohibition law, was granted a parole by the state board of control, subject to approval by Governor Blaine, and by Attorney General Clegg.

His release, if granted, will be brought about under a federal statute which permits the state to parole federal prisoners confined in a state institution. O'Neill now is in the Milwaukee house of correction.

The parole was authorized by the board of control when it met at Milwaukee Thursday. Members came back to Madison Saturday and have not yet presented the papers in the case to Governor Blaine. In cases of this kind the governor signs the paroles as a matter of course, depending on the recommendations of the board.

It is believed O'Neill will be unable to obtain his freedom before the Milwaukee house of correction.

UNITED STATES IS FEELING ITS WAY

Will Join in Some Economic Conference but Position Must be Clear.

Copyright 1922, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington—When the allied premier met in Paris Jan. 2 they will in all probability invite the United States government to help solve the economic situation of Europe. Possibly an American diplomatic representative may be summoned to attend the meeting.

But it is becoming more and more apparent that the initiative must come from European governments as the United States doesn't want to be placed in the position of assuming responsibility for the execution of its suggestions, nor does it want to be forced into the position of having tried to dictate to Europe.

This explains to some extent the vehemence of Secretary Hughes in stating that a commission of American business men were to act with the unofficial sanction of the American government in trying to fix the amount of German indemnity. Mr. Hughes was perturbed Friday because some of the press reports took his statement as the usual "diplomatic denial." The plan to have a commission of American business men to act with the unofficial sanction of the American government in trying to fix the amount of German indemnity, Mr. Hughes was perturbed Friday because some of the press reports took his statement as the usual "diplomatic denial." The plan to have a commission of American business men to act with the unofficial sanction of the American government in trying to fix the amount of German indemnity, Mr. Hughes was perturbed Friday because some of the press reports took his statement as the usual "diplomatic denial."

U. S. Feeling Its Way

The truth is the United States government is feeling its way. Thus far it has not done more than make plain informally to the European governments that it stands ready to help them with its influence and advice whenever it shall be sought. This in itself is a step forward because Europe has been clamoring for three years for American help and has pointed to the number of invitations which have been unaccepted.

What America wants Europe to understand now is that the United States will sit in the councils of Europe and discuss these matters. The thought of an international economic conference still is in the minds of many governments, but it may be said at this stage of the proceedings that the United States will not call it. There are certain obligations imposed on the host to lay down a program and to set forth what can be done by the nation calling the conference. An illustration of this was the naval armament conference a year ago when America felt compelled to announce its own sacrifice at the very beginning. Europe would expect the United States to announce how much of the allied war debt would be canceled or whether the interest would be forgiven for some concrete suggestion for a solution of the whole problem.

Wants Real Conference

What the United States government would like to see is a conference either of premiers or ambassadors which would bring to the front all the phases of the European economic situation and America would be ready to give its advice along with the other governments. It will be recalled that when the premiers met in London recently they reached a deadlock and decided to postpone their meeting until Jan. 2, with the understanding that in the interval informal approaches would be made to Ambassador Hurley to see what the American government would suggest. It has already been told from London that Mr. Harvey informed the allies that he believed America was opposed to the invasion of the Ruhr. This too has been confirmed by dispatches from this side of the Atlantic. Whatever the allies said to Mr. Harvey was deemed of such importance that President Harding and Secretary Hughes decided to call him to Washington for a personal conference. The hope is that the situation will be maneuvered so that if an economic conference is called it will be the initiative of some European government and that if America is asked her advice it will be as given advice and not as a proposal that this country undertake the execution of guarantees or some other political entanglement which might be contrary to American public opinion. The Harding administration believes it can render advice without entangling itself in any obligation to guarantee the security of France, or Germany or any other power.

Wrong Understanding

But until Europe asks for American advice formally, all talk of an American plan to solve Europe's ills must be considered as premature. Secretary Hughes is afraid that the press reports will give the impression abroad that the United States stands ready to do a great many things which American opinion as well as sound business judgment might not approve. He doesn't want Europe to feel that America will do it all or that it is trying to foist a program on Europe. Already there has been a somewhat unfavorable reaction from France to the earlier press reports from America which were predicated on unwarranted assumptions. For diplomacy sake and for ultimate success in the negotiations itself, the American government would like to have European governments ask the United States for advice and suggestions. The United States government has made known its readiness to receive them and to help in whatever way it can. The moves must come from Europe in the next few days.

"AVERAGE CURVE" SYSTEM USED HERE

In the last few years much has been heard in educational circles about "curves of averages" and while at first they seemed but some impractical idea of a radical educator, they are now coming into use more each year and are used at the local high school by teachers as standards to judge markings and to help teachers in discovering possible defects in the manner of marking.

Diagrams of grade curves for certain periods of work, with separate curves for each department, are made from time to time by Miss Greta Mason of the mathematics department.

Given to the teachers, they are doing a great deal of good in establishing this newest practical means of analysis.

OIL TO RUN OUT IN TEN YEARS IS PREDICTION MADE

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington—Prediction that American oil resources within 10 years will look to foreign lands for 50 per cent of their supply was made by James E. O'Neill, president of the Pacific Oil and Gas company, one of the largest producers in the mid-continent fields, in testifying at the senate oil investigation.

"The witness was questioned at some length by Gilbert B. Roe, attorney for the investigating committee, as to the basis of the figures posted by the Pacific company for crude oil. He declared the figures were determined by the three factors of supply, demand and competition.

Chairman La Follette, pursuing the price posting question, obtained agreement of the witness to his statement that generally speaking the leading competing companies in this field posted the same prices on the same day.

"Yet you say the various companies do not confer among themselves," asked La Follette.

"Absolutely not," O'Neill answered.

AGAIN DENIED PAROLE

Milwaukee—Barney Farrell, serving a three-year sentence at the house of correction as a result of an inquiry begun after the suicide of Marlon Davies, was for the second time denied a parole by the state board of control. It was reported Friday.

The gruesome details of how the mob at the Herlin mine riot shot down its victims along the road from the mine to town and in the cemetery there are being told by eye witnesses to the shootings at the trial of five men in connection with the massacre. The trial is being held at Marion.

Ill. State's Attorney DeLoe Duty has active charge of the prosecution. A. C. Lewis of Harrisburg, Ill., Angus W. Kerr of Springfield, Ill., and George R. Stone of Marion are defending the miners accused. Circuit Judge D. T. Hartwell is presiding at the trial of the men.

Parents Buried Daughter's Baby

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Appleton—Admission of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Burke, Kaukauna, that they buried the body of the baby of their daughter, Rita Burke, 23, beneath the chicken coop in the back yard of their home at Kaukauna, has resulted in an investigation as to the cause of the child's death. This grandfather said the child died eight or nine days after birth. The death was discovered when the physician, caring for the mother, inquired about the baby's condition and was told that it had died. It was admitted that the child's body was buried in the chicken coop. The body has been exhumed and the district attorney's office is investigating. He said they are working on the theory that the baby died of starvation.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

One Chicago—J. E. Creighton, 32, was arrested Wednesday for stabbing Herman Hult, 24, in the side with a pocket knife, while at supper, following an old feud.

Creighton, it is alleged, refused to accept a piece of bread which Hult passed to him. The latter threw the slice at him. It is said, whereupon Creighton is said to have thrown a cut-up bottle at Hult and invited him to settle the matter with a knife. Hult has a wound two inches long in his side. A rib prevented fatal injuries. Creighton was arrested 15 minutes later.

J. H. S. TEAM WINS JUDGING CONTEST

Three Teams Compete at Jefferson County, Milton Is Second.

Scoring 1101 points the Janesville high school livestock judging team composed of Clarence Anderson, Stewart Barliss, Robert Campbell and William Hughes, alternate, won the district meet in Jefferson county on Friday. The Milton team ranked second with 1062 points and Fort Atkinson scored 998.

This enables the Janesville team to enter the state judging contest to be held in Madison during March.

Clarence Anderson of the Janesville team scored high individual honor, his total being 288. The stock selected for the class was in Jefferson county and was selected by J. M. Coyner, county agent and placed by D. A. Skutumpah, college of agriculture, who was a member of the Wisconsin livestock judging team at the Chicago International exhibition. There will be at least 20 teams in the state contest.

Judge Fine Stock

Horses, Holstein cattle and Chester-White sows were judged by the three teams at the Jefferson county farm, Guernsey cattle and sheep at a farm near Fort Atkinson.

The standings of the contests were as follows:

Clarence Anderson, Janesville, 358; Lawrence Baven, Milton, 377; Stewart Barliss, Janesville, 367; Guyard Barliss, Milton, 360; H. Dowling, Fort Atkinson, 354; Robert Campbell, Janesville, 346; Alfred Jones, Milton, 325; E. Clement, Fort Atkinson, 324; Ivan Jones, 321; Widen, Hughes, Janesville alternate, scored 239. All the teams did excellent work. Two of the Janesville team, Anderson and Barliss, are new at point judging work. Campbell was on the 1921 team. The victory speaks well for the work of L. E. Jackson, who has been agricultural instructor here but a year and also for Leo Dunwiddie, the Milton instructor.

Sunday, at midnight—New Year's Eve, special performance.
Monday through Thursday—"The Man Who Saw Tomorrow," starring Thomas Meighan, supported by Leatrice Joy and Theodore Roberts.
Friday through Sunday—"Anna Ascends," Alice Brady.
Sunday night, 12 p. m.—Midnight New Year's show.
HOLLYWOOD.
Sunday through Wednesday—"Trouble with Jackie Coogan," starring Jackie Coogan, supported by Leatrice Joy and Theodore Roberts.
Thursday through Friday—"The Man Who Saw Tomorrow," June Novak.

cided on the show will be hilarious, and much out of the ordinary. It will be promptly at midnight and will continue for some time. Announcements of the feature numbers, which Mr. Zane has selected for a surprise, will be made soon.

AT THE MYERS.
Again that excellent combination of stars—Thomas Meighan and Leatrice Joy—will be joined with a good story for the Myers theater. As a Christmas special attraction, the management is offering "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow." One of the latest Paramount productions, it is considered one of the best in which Meighan has been seen. His work in "Manslaughter" would be hard to equal, but audiences having witnessed "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow" declare that again, and only for the second time in many months, has Meighan had a part in which he could show his ability. There is no one who has not wondered what would have happened if some decision had been made otherwise. In "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow," Thomas Meighan has the opportunity to see both. Going to a seer, he sees that which forms the chief part of the picture, his life with an English girl, when he rises to power and riches, and his life with the daughter of a sea-captain, when he meets many adventures and real love. The scene causes him to make a decision which makes him happy.

Others in the cast are Theodore Roberts, always popular, June Elvick and Eva Novak, themselves stars in many pictures, and many others.
"Anna Ascends" is Alice Brady's first production under the Paramount banner, and an improvement in her already excellent work. It is looked forward to. In this picture she plays a part that will fit her type of beauty. She is an immigrant girl, working in a restaurant, runs into a gang of crown jewel smugglers, and helps expose them. In so doing, however, she is forced to injure a man, and thinking she has killed him, is unable to think of her work or notice the attentions of the young newspaper reporter, until she is confessed. David Powell and Nita Naldi are in the supporting cast.

The management of the Myers is working to make the mid-night show this year an even better one than it was last year, when the plan was first tried, and it is bound to be a huge success. Special preparation to have a vaudeville bill for the regular week-end performances which will stand shifting about for the mid-night performance, has been taken place, and a production that will be far from amateurish or low standard is assured. At the same time it will be a top-notch program, in keeping with the quality of the main attractions and pleasant surprises are announced.

AT THE BEVERLY.
Jackie Coogan gave us tears in "The Kid." He made us laugh with "My Boy," and in his latest production, "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow," he again brought the tears for the handkerchief.
Now comes his latest screen effort—"Trouble"—a picture that will give audiences an opportunity for both comic and dramatic enjoyment. It is the newest First National is the first production in which the famous Little Fellow is given a chance to both be funny amusement in the theater. Managers, confident of this fact, have arranged bills that will please the audience and make the last week of the year one of the best of the year.

Christmas day itself has many going to the movies.

AT THE U. S. O.
Theaters adjacent to each other have each a special attraction for the day. The U. S. O. is offering "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow," and the quality of the company is of the highest.

Being a picture of good material, it is one of the best of the year. The opening of the picture will be on Christmas day, and the quality of the company is of the highest.

Edgerton's New Hospital Will Be Ready in February

Edgerton.—This city's desire to have a permanent memorial to the boys both living and dead who fought in the World War, will culminate next February in the completion of the $45,000 memorial hospital herewith pictured for the first time.

Construction of the hospital which has been going on for several months has reached a stage where the building looks completed from the exterior except for a few windows not being in.

Due to the wonderful spirit displayed a fund of $50,000 to cover construction and equipment together with $11,000 for endowment has been pledged.

Movement for the establishment of the hospital was started by the Service Star Legion as its special object and which would be a memorial in the fullest sense of the word for World War veterans living and dead, and where the former service men would have free service when necessary, in the ordinary illnesses of every day life. An endowment fund of $500 yearly for a period of 10 years to assure the latter provision being carried out was voted by the Legion members.

Under the plans, the superintendent and nurses quarters, kitchen, dining room, bath and lavatories will be located in the front part of the ground floor and the boiler room, laundry, storage and supply rooms in the rear.

The upper floor is all devoted to nursing service with 12 rooms, each large enough for two beds. Four of these rooms will have private bath, toilet and utility features. On the same floor will be bath rooms, men and women's toilets and a nursery. In a wing opening from the first floor, the operating room, laboratory, doctors and nurses lavatories, and work room will be located.

Construction is of brick and hollow tile, cement and composition floors, making the hospital practically impervious. A water softener will be installed giving an unlimited supply and a refrigerator machine with a capacity of 100 pounds of ice daily.

Thus far eight of the 15 rooms have been taken and will be furnished by individuals and organizations and it is expected that all will be furnished in this method, carrying out the community project idea, to the fullest extent.

There are many in Edgerton who have given much time towards the realization of plans for a hospital. Mrs. Arthur Clarke, first president of the Service Star Legion appointed the late Mrs. T. B. Earle, Mrs. Andrew McIntosh, Mrs. Mike Schmidt, Mrs. Paul Goetz and Mrs. William Plarthy as a finance committee, to solicit funds for the hospital, and $20,000 was raised by popular subscription.

Further financial aid was found available through a law allowing a levy of five mill tax in Edgerton where the money so raised is for a soldiers memorial. This was carried out with unanimous action of the city council September, 1920.

country judge to appoint four trustees to act with one named by the city council. Judge Charles F. Field named Mrs. E. B. Earle, Andrew McIntosh, August Rostoff, Jr., and Mrs. Will Plarthy and the council appointed O. J. Jensen.

Formation of the Edgerton Memorial hospital association under Wisconsin laws was then made and at the meeting held Feb. 25, 1921, P. N. Grubb, George Hahn, D. G. Tilstad, Alfred Anderson and Willis Scofield were chosen directors. Mrs. J. H. Towne, was appointed trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of

Mrs. Earle, whose efforts when the hospital was in an embryonic state is largely responsible for its establishment.

Plans at first was for the remodeling of a house, but was abandoned when it was discovered that all hospitals now constructed must be fireproof, to comply with Wisconsin laws. The Underhill site was chosen because of the elevation and away from the heaviest traffic and work was started in July, after plans of Fern, Swern and Randall, Chicago, specialists in hospital construction, had been approved.

A DRIVE FOR CHEAP WAGES.
All this immigration propaganda incited from great industrial centers and sweat shop sections of the United States is merely an effort to get cheap labor.

The quotas being filed from Europe are from the unassimilable and undesirable alien class. The quotas not being filled are from the northern part of Europe and the British Isles. But the industries do not want these latter immigrants. They are looking for the immigrant who is generally termed in the slang of the steel mill, "Bohunk."

Senator Lenroot, who in a speech at Janesville, last before the immigration law was passed, advocated it strongly, and Congressman Cooper, who lives in an industrial city where there are "Bohunks" in number, may be relied upon to see that the cheap labor scheme does not get past them.

Mr. Blaine will have a brand new railroad commission all his own. There are plenty of patriots to accept.

CHRISTMAS AND THE POCKETBOOK.
In spite of any altruism we may attempt to express, in this world of dollars and cents, the business of Christmas time is barometer of conditions of the public welfare and the measure of prosperity or of depression.

So we are bound to be pleased that the present shopping season has indicated a "Knap" and prosperous New Year, which we all wish each other in the holiday time. Prosperity may be a materialistic yardstick, but it is true that a prosperous people may be a better people than a por-erty-stricken nation. Hunger is the direst of plagues, and fleshly ills do not beget a happy community. Hate, unrest, envy and bitterness of soul come from a time of financial distress.

Reports to the Gazette Friday from every section of the state indicates the buying power of the people generally has been greater this year than ever and that the merchants and others in business have sold more dollars worth of goods than in any previous year at this season. It would not be surprising if this were so in some isolated places, but the report of this large and unprecedented business is almost universal, indicating plainly that the conditions reported are general over the country.

The Christmas pocketbook seems to have been so well filled that it has taken a record breaking trade to empty it.

DAUGHTERY AND WAR THIEVES
There lingers the suspicion that behind the attempt to impeach Attorney General Daugherty was a strong support by the element that sooner or later will have to face the courts in trials for frauds against the government in war time contracts. Many indictments have already been reported out from grand juries and others are looked for. Mr. Keller who carried on the examination before the committee of the house was unwilling to follow the regular procedure in such cases and demanded that it be done in his own way and to suit whatever purpose he had in mind and always refusing to disclose what that purpose was.

Attorney General Daugherty has done some things which have called for criticism of his office. The injunction suit was open to the severest of objection as carrying the function of the courts far beyond what the constitution contemplated, but it is a grave question as to whether that act demanded impeachment. In order to impeach an official it is necessary to show either corruption or abuse of power wilfully and maliciously. In the hearings before the judiciary committee of the house, Mr. Keller had been unable to disclose any ulterior motive and confined his attacks to personalities and to attempts to show derelictions on the part of those connected with Mr. Daugherty's office rather than in relation to acts performed by the attorney general himself.

What the nation has demanded from the very beginning is that the war profiteers and thieves who stole from the government would be prosecuted. There was no effort made to do this under the attorney general in the Wilson cabinet so far as the records show, and it has remained for Mr.
Daugherty to go ahead and unearth a number of the cases wherein millions are said to have been taken from the government unlawfully. Every ounce of the strength of the government should be back of the attorney general in this. It would have no doubt been a great source of satisfaction to the profiteers to have had Mr. Daugherty impeached but they have failed in accomplishing that end.

This is the last straw and there can be no peace with Germany now that she has begun to ship saxophones to us.

FIRES ON FARMS.
Every section reports a number of barn and farm house fires and in most cases they are believed to be the work of incendiaries. In Pennsylvania, farmers of one county remain up nights on guard taking turns at watching for suspicious persons.

This brings up the question again, and it has already been discussed in the Gazette, of adequate protection against fire and necessary apparatus or preparations for fighting fires on the farm. With a few buckets and a well which will furnish a short supply of water the average farm building is a total loss if a fire has five minutes headway.
Fire losses in the country will be larger this year than ever, according to advance reports of the underwriters. It is a question of giving more attention to fire prevention and to punish any incendiary so severely as to be an example to others.

There is every reason to believe that Mars should have a representative in the League of Nations.

Mr. Will Hays has been talking several acres of fluffy-ruffles stuff about clean movies, but how he can have anything clean with an Arbutuckle in it is a smelly question.

Keeping Congress Busy

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington.—Congress may not do as much as some people think it should. It may waste time.
It may devote its energies and its talents largely to less consequential things. It may indulge in "wag" talk about it and overmore come out the same door where it went. But if congress does lay itself open to criticism on any of these points it is not because it lacks ideas, suggestions and recommendations.

On the contrary, if congress undertook to do half the things urged on it or to take up an even smaller fraction of the subjects submitted for its consideration, it would find it necessary to work 24 hours a day and 365 days a year.

Advice, prayers, petitions, demands, descend from every direction and surge, and in addition to all that, congress must give out to the messages of the president and the reports of 10 cabinet members, to say nothing of the suggestions from numerous lesser governmental dignitaries and agencies.

In fact, congress would have its work cut out for it if it devoted itself to the recommendations of a single member of the president's official family. There is the annual report of the head of the department of commerce, by way of illustration.

Herbert Hoover is known as a man who does things and in this document he proves himself a man of ideas. One of his most important suggestions is the reorganization of the various governmental agencies that have to do with commerce, manufacturing, mining, rail transportation, shipping and fisheries into three bureaus or sub-departments with an assistant secretary at the head of each. Obviously, Secretary Hoover believes these three groups should be established under the department of commerce, but he says that is secondary in importance to the grouping itself, which is essential for coordination, efficiency and economy.

A saving of at least a million dollars annually in administration expense is estimated to result from such a reorganization. Overlapping and duplication of service would be eliminated and personnel could be reduced or used with greater benefit to the public. It is also estimated that for every dollar saved the country would get the value of many more dollars in the increased value of the service to trade and industry. These various agencies are now divided among seven different departments, Mr. Hoover points out, with the result that there is "inevitable overlap, duplication, and lack of purpose."

This recommendation is patently so wise that it is difficult to see why it should not be carried into effect immediately. Any private institution confronted with such a weakness in its organization would adopt the necessary reform without delay.

However, the public's big business establishment—the government—is not conducted that way, or at least it hasn't been to date. What will be said by the heads of the other departments from which Mr. Hoover expects to withdraw the various agencies he proposes to consolidate into three groups under his department? Unless they differ radically from all cabinet secretaries who have preceded them, they will say "Nothing doing."
Each secretary naturally wants his department to be the largest and most important in the government, and hence he will resist the removal of any of his bureaus. Each secretary has his friends in congress to whom he will appeal.

Then almost every individual government employee has a friend or sponsor in the house or senate. The words "consolidation" and "reorganization" mean fewer jobs to government workers, and they fight as if for their very lives. They believe in efficiency and economy, but not if that involves making one job out of two, or two out of three.

Congressmen, whether of the upper or lower house, also have their own ideas. Some Uncle Sam's business should be run, and they rarely agree with cabinet members and infrequently presentative might block a reform such as advocated by Mr. Hoover merely because he thought the reorganization should be effected under another department, or because he did not believe in increasing the number of assistant secretaries of any department.

Accordingly Washington observers know full well that, whereas the secretary of commerce may have started something, it will be many long months before it is finished. It takes building tenacity of purpose and infinite patience, to say nothing of diplomacy and persuasiveness of high order, to carry through such a proposal, and these desiderata are rarely assembled in the person of one man.

But if congress does not take kindly to this suggestion from Secretary Hoover, he has given them many others to consider, such as:

The establishment of foreign trade zones in the ports of the United States as a substitute for the present system of bonded warehouses, to be undertaken as a contribution to the American merchant marine in increasing the volume of trade carried in American ships.

Radical reduction of the fees now charged for passports and visas and revision of the formalities required of travelers, because of the retaliatory measures abroad which now handicap our merchants and traveling salesmen.

Exemption from federal taxes of Americans living abroad who are engaged in the extension of American commerce.

Legislation for the regulation of safety requirements in commercial aviation, and the extension of the regulatory powers of the commerce department for the control of radio.

Relief to the farmer by readjustment of railway rates in such a way as to impose larger burdens upon high-priced commodities and lower rates on primary products, by providing adequate transportation facilities, and by creating an adequately credit system to meet the farmer's need of loans for longer periods and at commercial rates.

Revision of railway legislation to prevent the strangulation of industry and commerce through a shortage of transportation.

Stabilization of the bituminous coal industry which would eliminate at least one-third of the national coal bill. Unless there is economy in labor through less lost time, Mr. Hoover contends the ranks of the miners will be difficult to fill, while the very real human suffering incident to part-time employment and strikes presents a national problem of the most serious nature.

Liberalization of the laws with respect to trade associations.

Increased salaries for experts and specialists in the department of commerce.

From all this it will be seen that if congress ever finds time hanging heavy on its hands it has only to take up Secretary Hoover's report to find plenty to do.

That chirp in the musical shows.
For I hear 'em talkin' and I hear 'em squawkin'.
I know more than any one knows.
I hear 'em describe how they've landed the

And every one claims that the other young

I see all them flowers that come in at the door
And the cards with the invites to dine.
I hear 'em guffaw and I hear 'em haw-haw.

Who's Who Today

MISS NADIA STANCIOFF.
Miss Nadia Stancioff, who has been expected for some time in Washington, where she is to take up duties as the first secretary of the Bulgarian legation, is the only woman attending the conference at Lausanne.
Switzerland, in an official capacity, Alexander Stanbolisky, the Bulgarian premier and chief delegate to the conference, has found her indispensable in the foreign office, and her sailing for America, therefore, has been indefinitely postponed.

Miss Stancioff is the daughter of Dimitry Stancioff, the Bulgarian minister to Great Britain. Dr. Stancioff was formerly minister to France and Miss Stancioff was with him there. She is young, tall and white faced with long tapering hands and is known for her great charm and tact.
As is her mother, Miss Stancioff speaks French like a French woman and English like an Englishwoman.

The Lausanne conference is not the first international meet at which Miss Stancioff acted as interpreter. She was one of the Bulgarian delegates to the peace conference at Versailles and was present at almost every interview in which Premier Stambolisky participated. She is the only person, man or woman, to whom he confides his political affairs. When the Bulgarian delegation to the peace conference at Versailles was present

Stambolisky participated, she is the only per-

A CHRISTMAS WISH.
I wish that I were Santa Claus. I'd come around to you.
And with my pack upon my back I'd find your chimney flue.
And with a smile upon my face I'd stand behind your bed.
And maybe laugh to hear you snore, unmindful of my tread.
Then when I'd found the sock you wear I'd work
my magic there.
Supplanting with some joyous thing your every bit of care.

I wouldn't give you neckties gay or flannels made of gold.
I wouldn't give you anything which can be bought and sold.
I'd leave the glass tobacco jars and ash trays
all behind.
And give you strength for every task; I'd give you peace of mind.
No trifling thing of brass or plate to mark your love and care.
But I would leave the richer joys to cheer you while you live.

I'd make you glad to walk the street and glad to go to bed.
If grief lies heavy on your heart I'd lift it all away.
I'd touch your eyes with golden faith so you would wake to see
The beauty of your bitter loss and why it had to be.
And running over all the joys which I have had from you.
You'd wake on Christmas morn to find your fondest dream come true.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

MUSCLES
A normal individual has not only control over his voluntary muscles, making them rest or work as he wills,
but he has a peculiar muscle sense which enables him to know exactly what position any muscle is in, even though the limb is moved in various ways by another while the individual's eyes are closed or blindedfolded.
In locomotor ataxia this muscle sense is conspicuously feeble or lost, so that one of the earlier symptoms in many cases is inability of the patient to tell what posture a limb has been given if his eyes are covered. Loss of this muscle sense explains the peculiar clumsiness and difficulty in moving about in the dark which sometimes troubles a victim of locomotor ataxia long before he realizes that there is any serious trouble. It explains also the characteristic swaying of the patient when he closes his eyes while standing erect with feet together. It explains his awkwardness in finding the tip of his nose with his forefinger, his clumsiness and lack of control with the eyes closed.

But the enfeebled muscle strength may be greatly strengthened by suitable exercise, with the result that the individual's control over his muscular activities improves remarkably.

It is a very suggestive fact, as pointed out by Dr. Maloney, whose work on muscle re-education for locomotor ataxia has been a boon to victims of ataxia, that tabetics who are blind do not become so ataxic as tabetics who have good vision; that is, they preserve better muscle sense and control and are not so clumsy and uncertain or awkward. On this observation Dr. Maloney based his recommendation that persons with locomotor ataxia should carry out systematic muscular exercises blindfolded.

One of the simplest and most helpful of these exercises consists in walking, or even in creeping, on one's hands and knees up and down a strip of linoleum for a given number of times three times a day. As the blinded patient improves his performance, that is, learns through muscle sense and proprioception the guidance to follow a fairly straight and unbroken course, the width of the linoleum strip is narrowed from time to time, until ultimately a strip eight inches wide can be walked on. Of course such exercise is done barefooted, but

Q. In what year was the clock inancients, the most notable of which was the clepsydra. It is uncertain when the first time clock was con-

The Wall Flower

By MARION RUBINCAM

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Pandora Nicholson is so painfully shy and self-conscious that it is almost agony for her to go into a room in which there are strangers. She believes herself to be one of the stupidest people alive; her Aunt Maude has frequently told her so. She cannot mix with the youthful society of Norfolk City; she cannot enter into their business merry-making. She lives with her father, Jim Nicholson, as a poor relation in the home of Jim's prosperous brother, Peter, his wife, Aunt Maude, and their daughter, Gladys.

Unexpectedly "Dora" makes one friend, Morton Newberry, a dislikable, snooty lad whom Gladys dislikes. They return one day from a walk to find Gladys in a furious temper. Gladys sees that "Dora" and her father are sent off alone to look after the farm and when she finds that Morton goes out to visit Dora makes her family move out early. She begins to pay violent attention to Morton, eventually winning him away from Dora.

THE CITY LADY

The man who was in the same office with her father was about 45 or so. He was supposed to "know a lot and keep his mouth shut" to use the common expression that described him in the town. His name was Jacob Inisley, and he did odd legal jobs, now and then took a real case.

But legal affairs were never very complicated or exciting in Norfolk City, house deeds, mortgages, sales, wills, once in a while a law suit were almost all that came his way. But he was supposed to have "something tidy said away" to use another descriptive term, so the lack of excitement did not trouble him. And he took out his love of excitement by reading the wildest detective stories and going faithfully to every new film at the "Esplanade." For the rest, he was six feet and stoutish, with gray hair and a gray moustache parted in the middle and drooping lankly on each side. This was Jacob Inisley.

Dora knew him slightly. She knew he took a great interest in Morton, and was coaching his law studies. Morton, meantime, was making a small salary as a clerk in the firm.

Morton was doing the honors. "Mrs. Gates, may I present Miss Nicholson?"

Dora had never known such a ceremonious introduction. She held out her hand that had gone ice cold, as usual, from nervousness. It was caught in a firm and friendly clasp, and Mrs. Gates said:

"I'm so glad to meet you, Miss Nicholson. You know my cousin Mr. Inisley, of course? And my small son, Francis."

The little lad looked up at her with solemn dark eyes. Dora felt a sudden impulse to pat him on her arms. He was the prettiest and the most appealing child she had ever seen. In her half shy glance at him, she saw the vast difference that lay between his paleness and delicacy and the robust and sometimes raucous children of her friends.

Mrs. Gates was chatting merrily. "Morton, you don't mind being called that do you? I'm sure I'm old enough to be your mother—Morton has been telling me wonderful tales of a household of old furniture you have here. I'm a decorator, you see (Dora didn't, she had never heard of a decorator) "and wondered whether I could persuade you to part with any." This was what Dora had been told by her aunt, who was away. Mrs. Gates would have to wait and see her.

"But I'd love to show it to you. It's such fun to show it to people that like it," she added. They explored the small house together. Dora walked as far from Morton as possible. Did he remember their first visit? The thick volume of speeches they had read, lay on the window sill where they first found it. The door to the tumble down house opened to a push—rain and came in all the broken windows.

"What a crime to let these things go to ruin," Mrs. Gates murmured to her cousin. But Dora heard and answered:

"I've pushed the things I liked best into corners where they would be protected." And she began pulling out chairs and "cradles and brook cabbies."

Mrs. Gates bent forward eagerly. Some she admired—"that's unusual. This cutting is most unusual. Jacob, do you see the veiling in the birds claw on this leg? Probably imported by the tone of the wood I should say it was 1760, but they weren't doing such delicate work here at that time—possibly a European cabinet maker who had emigrated. I'd like to tell."

"How do you know all this? I've wondered so about these, but the library hasn't any books about them." Dora got up her courage to ask:

"Do you like these things? I've a book with me, a guide to old furniture—do you want to borrow it? I'll be here nearly a week." Mrs. Gates smiled.

And Dora got up courage to answer that she would love it and arrange to stop at the Inisley's and borrow it next day. Peter appeared then, and the talk turned to him.

"Sell! Sure! But if these things are worth money," he said craftily. Mrs. Gates, from a social being, turned to a shrewd business woman and they began to bargain. Dora, thinking it impossible to listen, walked to the yard where little Francis stood, and began talking to him—to avoid talking to Morton.

It was easy to talk to this child—usually she was shy with children, half afraid of them.

When they came out, nothing was settled. Peter asked them in to "tea"—as Sunday supper was often called. They refused, they accepted. When Mrs. Gates saw Dora disappear into the kitchen, she followed.

"You're not going to make a whole meal for all of us alone?" she said in a shocked voice. "My dear, it's too much, we can just as well drive back."

"No—please—the girl's tones and eyes begged so hard, Mrs. Gates allowed her own objections. I'll help," she said, tying an apron over her children frock. "We'll eat in the kitchen—no one in a farmhouse should ever eat anywhere else."

She sent Dora a smile that was like glowing sunlight.

TODAY'S RECIPES

California French Dressing—Ingredients, (a) one-half teaspoon powdered sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon paprika; (b) four tablespoons olive oil; (c) two tablespoons grapefruit juice. Mix (a) well, add (b) and (c) and beat well before serving.

Graham Bread Hot—Two cups sour milk, one-half cup molasses, two teaspoons soda, a little salt, one cup white flour, three cups Graham.

Roasted Graham Bread—One yeast cake dissolved in one-half cup lukewarm water, one pint milk scalded, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon salt, one cup white flour, to four of Graham. Let milk cool, add yeast cake and dry ingredients and knead. Put in bread pan, rise until light and bake about an hour.

CANDY WITHOUT COOKING

A delightful candy without cooking can be made from figs, dates, prunes, with very little sugar. Equal parts of figs and dates put through food chopper together, then formed in small balls and rolled in granulated sugar is one of the best. Equal parts of figs and nuts may be added to the fruit mixture, or the fruit balls can be rolled in chopped nuts or coconut. A little orange extract, or a very little orange peel helps vary the flavor, or a little rose extract may be used. These fruit balls can be dipped in melted chocolate or coated with fudge or uncooked fondant.

SUGGESTIONS

Removable Holder Cover—Ironing holders, and in fact all holders, are bound to get soiled when used for any great length of time, and it is not an easy task to wash and dry them when they are so thick. To ease the washing of the same, make the foundation pads of the usual size and shape. Then make slip covers of the same size as the pads, leaving short tapes on the edges. These covers slip over the pads easily, being tied in position. When soiled, the covers alone are removed and washed. Graham, percale, or something firm and washable is satisfactory for the covers.

Protect Ironing Board—It is surprising how much dust can collect on an ironing board cover when it is not in use. To avoid this, just this thing, make a cotton bag into which the ironing board can be slipped after each time of using. Make the bag long enough to fold over at the top and thus protect the board from dirt and dust.

HEART AND HOME

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are a couple of girls 13 years of age. We don't like our teacher and we can't get along as well as we should. We have work hard for our grades. We are forward on our basketball team. How can we learn to love our teacher?

Should we have dates with boys?

WAITING.

Dinner Stories

"I suppose," said the cross-examining lawyer, in his snappiest manner, "that you remember the date of your birth?"

"Certainly," said the witness with a bored air. "Every man remembers his birthday."

"A newly born infant has no memory. Now, sir, how do you know that?"

It wasn't a day sooner or a day later, or a week, or a month, or a year than the date you have in mind."

"Why—er—them—I've been told—"

"Exactly. You've been told, but you don't know. Step down. Gentlemen of the jury, this is the kind of witness who has testified against the unimpeachable character of my client—Birmingham Age-Herald."

"Let me kiss those 'tears away'!" pleaded Gassy Gaxton, when his sweet lady kept dabbing at her twinkling eyes with her little handkerchief.

She fell into his arms. He was busy for the next few moments. And the tears flowed on.

"Can nothing stop them?" googled Gassy.

"No," she murmured, "it is like fever. But go on with the treatment—Our Navy."

A man recently had occasion to go to the Cumberland Street hospital in Brooklyn. He was instructed which car to take. He boarded this car and after riding for about an hour without any extend of the hospital he inquired of the conductor as to how soon he would reach the hospital. The conductor, after eyeing him suspiciously, remarked, "You are way past the hospital. You are on your way to Greenwood cemetery now."—Judge.

is wrong and just as long as you think you dislike her and talk about it, you will not be able to love her. Look for the best in her and never fall to do little kindnesses. Instead of letting yourself be antagonistic in class, listen to what she says. Good conduct and conscientious study will do much to make her like you better. You are certainly 'too young' to have dates with boys.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is vaseline good for growing hair? I also have dandruff. T. H.

Vaseline is one of the best hair growers, and will help to get rid of dandruff. It depends on the dryness of the scalp how often the vaseline should be applied, once or twice a week, however, should be often enough.

Make a part straight from the front to the back of the head and rub the vaseline in thoroughly. Be careful not to let it get on the hair itself. When you have finished that part of the scalp, make another part and continue thus until you have massaged the whole head.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: When a girl is deeply in love with a young man who has gone with her four years but has said nothing about marriage, easy task to wash and dry them when they are so thick. To ease the washing of the same, make the foundation pads of the usual size and shape. Then make slip covers of the same size as the pads, leaving short tapes on the edges. These covers slip over the pads easily, being tied in position. When soiled, the covers alone are removed and washed. Graham, percale, or something firm and washable is satisfactory for the covers.

THE BUSINESS OF FARMING—DAIRY—FARM BUREAU—LIVE STOCK

ROCK NEARS MARK FOR AREA TESTS

Success of Campaign to Have County-Wide Cattle Test Is Assured.

Rock county farmers have adopted the Wisconsin area system to eradicate bovine tuberculosis. Incomplete reports collected Saturday show that approximately 55 percent of the cattle owners of the county have already signed the county-wide test petitions and there are certain indications that by the end of next week Rock county will have the necessary 75 percent and the goal established to have 3,000 cattle owners signed.

The success of the campaign is now assured, but no effort will be spared, say the township and county health officers, to obtain the additional signatures with representation in every township to convince the state livestock authorities that an early test is desired in Rock county.

A survey shows that about half the townships are well started with the petitions, with but two towns, Milton and Johnston, still to be organized.

An important program of the area test stands out as the biggest and most important agricultural project ever attempted in Rock county.

The tuberculosis test is being made the foundation of the 1923 county development program to bring Rock county to the peak as a county producing clean, high producing and good type livestock both for breeding and market purposes. The test is the first step towards pushing Rock county to the front as an outstanding district for the number of accredited herds and guaranteed healthy cattle.

Baron county has achieved national reputation as being the first county to have the area test and leading with 504 stock and federal accredited herds. The Rock county program calls for 2,000 accredited herds, with every reactor removed, approximately as many herds under state and federal accreditation as the county has now.

The Rock county plan is to follow up the area test with a demand for adequate protection to the livestock of the county through proper restrictions to the shipping in of cattle, sheep, goats and swine, and a campaign to improve the quality of stock on every farm. The test is based on development progress of both the grade and registered cattle, assure healthy and registered cattle, assure healthy and registered cattle, assure healthy and registered cattle.

Pushing Campaign Having assurance the petitions are being signed by a heavy majority of the farmers, the county committee will push the campaign for another two weeks if necessary and then make an official check. Milton and Johnston will be canvassed next week, completing the work in all the 20 townships. The petition carriers in Milton will meet next Tuesday afternoon.

The campaign has been well organized, effective and is bringing good results. No attempt was made to force or coerce the farmers into signing. The test was explained, signed, and the canvassers ready to make the canvass by school districts. "The test is being put across in Rock county on its merits and that is all it needs," declare the county committee. Newark, the county township to make the canvass first tops the county in number of signatures having 95 percent.

Petitions are still to be circulated in Center, Rock, Janesville, La Prairie, Fulton, parts of Porter, Lima. Where the canvassing has been through 30 and 40 percent of the farmers ready to sign. Milton township is expected to sign 50 percent for 55 percent of the herds have already been tested. Johnston is expected to sign heavy for there are many tested herds and the town boasts good livestock.

Snow and cold weather has delayed canvassing in many school districts and the townships are being urged to complete their work so that the petitions can be checked at the office of the Rock county Farm Bureau before Jan. 1, 1923. "We will not stop until we have the 50 percent mark even near the 75 percent mark if that is required," declared Dr. Arthur J. Kallman.

"We want every township over the 75 percent mark and it is but a matter of canvassing to obtain signatures," stated H. C. Hemmingway, secretary of the Rock county Farm Bureau.

Many farmers are outspoken in their demands that Rock county club women who were so anxious to have a tuberculosis sanatorium built at a cost of more than $100,000 take an interest in the campaign to eradicate the main cause of human infection.

"They made a big surge before the county board for the sanatorium, but when it came right down to learning a little something about what caused the infection, not a one of them lifted their hand or voice," it was stated during the recent Evansville meeting.

The club women were interested when it came to raise money to build a hospital but did not get right to the bottom of the reason why the sanatorium is needed. Not a one of them attended a meeting held in any of the townships or cities in the county," say the farmers.

Will Rock County Farmers? The area test, it is pointed out, means a safe milk and dairy products supply for the consumers and a better local meat supply.

CHOICE BEEF STEAK

Good Baby Beef Herds Being Fitted in County

A herd of 240 Hereford baby beefs, with their red bodies and handsome white faces, all fitted to be good beef steaks, are being raised on the Bert Austin farm, near Rock, Wis.

The number of farmers in Rock county who are importing beef calves for feeding is rapidly increasing until there are now four or five hundred of feeder stock. Bert Austin, residing east of Janesville, on Rock Prairie, has the largest herd of feeder stock in the county. It is worth seeing.

Farmers are finding that there is a chance of profit in feeding cattle through a season, especially baby beefs, even in a dairy country. There are a number having a dozen or more steers which will be turned out on the best market after a short period of feeding.

Austin has been feeding stock for 15 years and is considered one of the best at this department of farming in the state. His cattle always sell well on the market. Most any farmer who understands feeding, can take one or two animals and produce an outstanding beef "cutter". However, it is easily dependent on the quality of the stock and the quality of the feed.

High prices at the point of purchase, high feed costs and a low selling market spoils considerable "loss."

The important angle to the feeding game is to fit the stock that it will go in on the choice market. There is a big secret on the terminal market schedule from the poor canners up to the "toppers." To get in on the top of the market, feeders must have the market is favorable, without having disastrous feeding costs, is a knotty problem that takes real farm ability to solve.

During the period Austin has fed the beefs they have increased from 400-450 to 800 and 1,000 pounds. They gain from 10 to 15 pounds a day. Such a market is right when Austin ships this prize collection to Chicago. He will make money—but if it slumps, then he's out money. Anyway, one looks at it in the farmer's mind, it's a gamble with the buyer doing the dealing.

The last period of fitting is the most important. It is this feeding that puts the finish or "bloom" that tells whether the stock goes in at or four classes below the top.

The next batch Austin will handle will be Angus, the black cattle. S. M. and S. L. Austin have sold 100 head of Angus to replenish with new stock. In all Austin has had 554 beefs on his farm this year. He will market the baby beefs this month.

Will Clark bought the Hereford calves from the Oklahoma market and it is said that the total cost of purchase and freight was cheaper than if the same stock had been purchased at South St. Paul.

MARKET POLICIES SET BY U. S. MEN

Definite Suggestions to be Given Farmers to Realize on Farm Crops.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Washington — The Commodity Council Plan is the name given to a new method of handling certain of the vital agricultural problems by the United States Department of Agriculture. In the past, different phases of crop situations had been handled separately by various bureaus, but now they will be handled by a single body.

Councils already have been called to discuss the cotton and potato crops and recommendations have been made for action that would be beneficial in view of present conditions. Specialists in the culture of the crops, in soils, diseases, pests, marketing and marketing contributed to the final recommendations.

As a result of the Council Council, a new policy is being set for the crop that is expected to be done away with following the approved recommendations. The per capita consumption of potatoes in this country is usually about 2.2 bushels, it was said, but this year enough potatoes were raised to supply each person with four bushels. Because of this situation, which was due to the fact that the department, through the council, advised farmers to carefully grade their crops and ship only the best.

It was suggested to the farmers that if all the potatoes that were shipped, food would not rot or spoil in markets or in transit, markets would be glutted and the price forced down to a ruinous level. Such marketing would result in much waste all along the line from field to market. It was also declared that poorer potatoes and culls would be kept on the farm for storage for future markets, feeding to the stock, and in certain localities, for selling to starch and flour mills.

Protect Farmers Cleaning fields of cut and diseased tubers was another step important to the industry recommended, in order to protect future crops from disease.

A plan similar to the council plan was used recently when a group of men was gathered to consider the problem that takes real farm ability to solve.

During the period Austin has fed the beefs they have increased from 400-450 to 800 and 1,000 pounds. They gain from 10 to 15 pounds a day. ## PEAT HAS LITTLE VALUE WHEN USED AS A FERTILIZER

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Washington — Coal of high quality is of such wide-spread occurrence in this country, and so accessible to most fuel consumers, that mention of the word "peat" means little in the United States other than memories of its use in Europe. However, according to a publication of the United States Geological Survey, peat occurs widely in this country and is a valuable commodity.

The United States contains 12,400 square miles of unmined peat lands. The survey declares, or an area more than ten times that of Rhode Island, which is capable of yielding 14 billion tons of fuel at a cost of $1.50 to $2.50 a ton. These deposits are found on the surface and lie in the New England, Atlantic Coast and Great Lakes States, mostly remote from coal mines. A bulletin issued by the Geological Survey points out that thousands of such deposits owned by farmers and other land-owners.

Fifty million tons of peat are used annually in Europe, it was said, but it is suitable also as a fertilizer and in promoting intensive growth of truck crops, both in greenhouse and in open field. Manufacturers of commercial fertilizers pay as much as $10 per ton for good peat. It was found the present output is about 100,000 tons annually. In some parts of the country the peat proceeds from the intensive culture of peat and much soil for lettuce, celery and onions amounts to more than $500 an acre.

However, it was pointed out by the survey, that in the United States the peat is not used as a fertilizer by itself, but is mixed with other fertilizers. A newspaper writer says Northcliffe had no friend, except his wife and his mother. That isn't a bad showing in these unsettled times.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Feed Poultry Well NOW TO OBTAIN EGGS

County Agent L. J. Merriam is urging farmers to feed their poultry well during the winter. The raw materials necessary for egg making, consist not only of whole grain but of other food containing protein, milk and tankage supply this to the best advantage, advised Merriam. The following day many mixtures kept in a hopper before the birds at all times is advised—100 pounds each of ground corn, ground oats, bran standard, middlings, tankage and three pounds of salt.

The test of a poultryman is whether he can get a heavy lay during November, December and January, when eggs are highest.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

Fox Sales Force

Harry E. Bradley, recently connected with the Milwaukee office of the National City company of New York, has joined the sales force of Morris P. Fox & Co. Mr. Bradley started his business career with the Cutler-Hammer Manufacturing Co., shortly after finishing his education. Rapid promotion followed until he occupied a responsible place in the production department and office administration.

Mr. Bradley was a member of Troop A, Wisconsin National Guard, when the Badger troops were sent to the Mexican border in 1916. The following year, when war between the United States and Germany broke out, he attended the Officers' Training Camp at Fort Sheridan and served with the Eighty-fifth, Seventy and Fifteenth Divisions, a large part of the time overseas.

Although young in years, Mr. Bradley became a seasoned soldier and left the service with the rank of lieutenant-colonel in the infantry.

INVESTMENTS

The absorption of the deposits and checking accounts of the Bank of Southern Wisconsin by the Merchants and Savings Bank called for the highest praise from Bank Commissioner Marshall Cousins. It has been so well done that scarcely a ripple has followed on the financial field of Janesville.

One of the evidences of the better conditions is the report of banks that have received checks sent on account of the Christmas savings account. Many checks came back to the banks from Christmas clubs.

Sales of bonds are still reported from local bond dealers and while there are not so many outside salesmen as formerly, yet Janesville continues to be the fertile field for bond sales.

There are a less number of municipal bond offerings than during the early part of the year. The fact that issue bonds has run out but it is believed that another wave will start in the spring.

Establishment of a regular market for second mortgages will mean much for the stimulation of building in Janesville.

One of the best things about the Chevrolet and Fisher Body addition to Janesville industry is the business-like manner in which the building and installation of machinery is going along. Janesville has had no influx of valuable labor as a consequence of the improvement and what has been better still no unemployment.

The Best Test of Safety

THE best test of the safety of investments is adverse conditions. Straus bonds have met this test. Our record, 40 Years Without Loss to any Investor, covers a period including two wars and four financial panics. Investigate these sound bonds.

(By Associated Press.)
New York — The German reparations question overshadowed all other subjects of discussion in this week's financial markets. Attention was centered on this problem by the announcement of J. P. Morgan and company Monday that they had notified the German ambassador that no international loan to Germany could be considered until the reparations question was settled. The statement was issued to set at rest a flock of rumors that were making it embarrassing for international bankers. The main body of stocks showed few important changes although there were sev-

JOHN WANAMAKER ON ADVERTISING

John Wanamaker was the largest user of newspaper space for a great many years of any merchant in the world. In an address at a convention of the Advertising Clubs of the World a few years ago he said:

"Our little allowance of advertising money went to the newspapers then as it does nearly altogether today, because if I ever have a monument for discovering anything, it will be for finding out that the only advertising of direct and instant benefit to both merchant and customer is in the daily newspaper of known circulation. All others are vanity and vexation of spirit. To have learned this fact has greatly helped my enterprises though often there has been serious discomfort in saying so publicly and in breaking away from posters, leaflets and week-lies."

and interesting movements in individual shares. The most spectacular of these took place in Mexican Petroleum, which opened Thursday at 26 1/2, advanced 32 1/2 in sales of 100 share lots and then dropped back to 20 for a net gain of 12 on the day.

Isolated covering by trapped short interests was ascribed as the reason for the sensational rise. Baldwin also was active at rising prices, closing the week 10 1/2 points above last Saturday's final figure. Several new high records for the year were made during the week, including Fisher Body, Ford Motor, General Motors, and Stewart-Warner Spedometer.

Business prospects continue encouraging. Weekly reviews of the Iron and Steel industry declared that year-end activity was unusually high and the seasonal shutdowns in the motor industry will be the shortest in history, present indications pointing to another record-breaking year in 1923.

Additional evidence of the enormous loss incurred by the railroads because of the shopmen's strike was seen in the action of the directors of the Great Northern railroad in cutting the preferred dividend to five percent from seven, a rate paid without interruption since 1895. More stock dividend announcements came out during the week, bringing the total amount distributed in the last few months to approximately $2,000,000,000. Official announcement was made during the

TO OUTSIDE BUYERS

Four carloads of Holstein cattle were shipped out of Rock county during the last 10 days.

Two carloads of grade Holstein cows, 22 in number, were shipped during the last week to Carlos E. Ramirez, Portuñate Cuernavaca, Mexico. One carload was shipped to Riverton, Wyo. and 26 head went in another week that neither the General Electric company nor the U. S. Steel corporation contemplated such action, denying rumors to that effect. Money rates were slightly easier. Few important changes took place in the foreign exchange market, demand sterling holding fairly steady around $4.84 with other European rates showing slight improvement.

carload to central Illinois. In all 106 head were sold from in and near Rock county during the last week. The cattle shipped to Mexico averaged better than $75 a head. It was the first time these Mexican buyers had been in northern United States during the winter and their first experience with snow. They will return in the spring for another shipment.

There has been active private sales on registered swine during the last weeks. Breeders have sold many breeding animals. The demand now is for gilts. As soon as the area test is made in Rock county it is planned to put into effect a complete system of listing all livestock in the central agricultural office.

P. B. Green and son, Evansville, announce a contract with a Mexican firm for dairy cattle. Regular shipments are expected to be made, which will be increased when the county is all tested.

than one which helps instill in them the idea of thrift and safe investing and at the same time provides the foundation for their future financial independence.

Public utilities are one of the greatest upholders of communities. They supply a community with the elements of its growth. Utility securities are as safe as the communities themselves.

Give that boy or girl of yours a share of the 7% CUMULATIVE PREFERRED STOCK we are offering to customers and friends on payments of only $5.00 per share per month. Do this now—so that in their youth—they may have the kind of financial training that will better prepare them for success.

It's a Wonderful Club

Each day as we note the happy faces of our 1922 Christmas Savings Club members, who are cashing their Club checks here, we are made to realize that the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB is a wonderful thing.

This easy plan of saving has enabled hundreds of people in Janesville

To pay their insurance
mas for themselves and others.

To make the first payment on a home

To buy a bond

To pay their insurance

To pay their taxes.

It is our ambition to make the 1923 Club larger than any previous one, in order that a greater number of people in this community may enjoy these benefits.

You are cordially invited to become a member of this big family.

INVITATION TO ALL

Our Bank extends to every man, woman and child in our city and community, a cordial invitation to come in and JOIN OUR NEW CHRISTMAS CLUB.

This is the most popular plan ever devised for having MONEY NEXT CHRISTMAS and enables those of small means, those in moderate circumstances and also business men to lay aside money by SYSTEMATIC DEPOSITS each week.

To Join Is Easy—No cost, no dues, no red-tape. Look at the Tables below and select the Club you wish to join, 1c, 2c, 5c, 10c, 25c, 50c, $1, $2, $5, $10, $20 or more, and come into our Bank with the first deposit. We will enroll you as a member of the Club and give you a pass book showing the money deposited. That is all there is to it.

START NOW AND HAVE MONEY NEXT CHRISTMAS

INCREASING CLUB PLAN		EVEN AMOUNT CLUB PLAN		EVEN AMOUNT CLUB PLAN
1c Club	Deposit 1c 1st week, 2c 2nd week. Increase 1c each week—in 50 weeks.....	$ 12.75	25c Club	Deposit 25c each week—in 50 weeks.....	$ 12.50

You Can Begin With the Largest Payment and Decrease Each Week

PLAN OF THE CLUB

The plan is simple: In the INCREASING CLUBS you begin with a certain amount, 1c, 2c, 5c, or 10c and INCREASE your deposit the same amount each week.
In the DECREASE CLUB, you begin with the largest payment and DECREASE each week.
In the EVEN AMOUNT CLUBS you begin with a certain amount, 25c, 50c, $1, $2, $5, $10, $20 or any amount and deposit the SAME amount each week.

MONEY EARNERS

You will never miss the money you deposit each week, and at the end of fifty weeks, which pass quickly, you will have a nice sum available for your Christmas, or start a regular account to help buy a Home, Educate the children or go into Business for yourself.

Deposit some money regularly every week—That is our plan.

Gazette Good Times Club

FOR ALL SCHOOL BOYS AND GIRLS

May each one of the more than 1,400 members of the Gazette Good Times club have a merry Christmas and may the coming year, be one in which good times will prevail in the life of each boy and girl. May each of the 76 teachers whose enterprise and social spirit have led the way for these boys and girls to join the club have the very best of good times during the holiday season and throughout the coming year. With the club membership now nearing the 1,500 mark, new schools joining daily, the Good Times club is the largest organization of its kind anywhere. Our goal is the banding together of all the thousands of school boys and girls throughout southern Wisconsin. Our aim is good times for everybody, which can only be brought about by everyone playing fair.

News from Local Branches.
Velma Hishberger sends the following report from Jefferson Prairie school: "We chose a motto for our school in our last society meeting. We chose 'Forward,' the same motto that we have for our state. We are going to try to live up to it. This week we are getting ready for Christmas. We are putting up decorations and practicing for the program. We always enjoy this time of the year."
Daisy Duckett, Wickerman school, writes that the girls have been busy getting ready for the Christmas entertainment, which consisted of eight recitations and five dialogues. They had a tree also, and pupils drew name slips and picked presents for each other. Wickerman pupils are making shoe box cottages for which directions were furnished by the Gazette, and Emily says that some of them are very pretty.

88 NEW CLUB MEMBERS
Five more rural schools joined the Good Times club the past week bringing in a total of 88 new members. More than half of the rural schools of Rock county are branches of the club. Local branches now number 74, including the 7th and 8th grades of the Oxfordville state graded school.
Schools enrolling the past week are as follows:
Dist. 3, Johnstown, Mae White, teacher; members: Margaret Veronen, Louis, Marion and Inez Quigley; Philip and Kathryn Hull, Loretta, May and Edna, and Wilbert Shadel, Leona and Clifford Zanton, Annie and Steve Doyan, Lyle and Leo Wall, William and Lizzie Brummond, Doris Schmalz, Harry and Robert Franden, Lester and Verona Matthews, George Rye, Herman Loecke.
Morgan, Dist. 18, Lima: Florence Wilman, teacher; members: Darrell and Glenn Godfrey, Bobby Vance, Philip, Elmer, Esther, William and Helmut Welter, Benjamin, Baldwin, Maurice, Dora, and Francis Hobbs, Bernice McMillen, Edith, Wilma, Clifford, and Lester Treum, Elmer, Margaret, Ruth and Florence Whitte, Fernie and Edna Smith.
St. Dist. 2, Milton and Koshkonong: Bessie Monahan, teacher; members: Laurence Stout, Elwood, Marion and Clarence Gray, Donald Gray, Carl Splitter, Lucille and Estee Woolstrum, Doris Vincent, Hilda, Edna, Stenett Kerschhoff, Lerore and Edwin Ralech, Elizabeth, Clarence

Dist. 5, Plymouth: Gladys Mulcahy, teacher; members: Gladys and Mildred, Reen, Clarence and Yna Mae, Ray and Leroy Feslin, Mildred and Glen Knudson, Clara and Charles Hissard.
St. Dist. Plymouth, Spring Valley and Avon: Irene Mulcahy, teacher; members: Kenneth Bohnhoff, Tillman Amundson, Milford, Rolf and Iola Sagen, Tilla Lund, Lester Greenawalt.

GOOD HEALTH HONOR ROLL
Miss Anna Luetscher, county nurse reports the following children as winning places on the Good Health Honor roll in examinations made during the week ending December 16: St. Dist. 6, Milton: Number examined 16; normal weight and no physical defects: Raymond Brown, age 6; Francis Hacke, 6; Margaret Howard, 8; Mary Jones, 12; Genavieve Hudson, 12.
St. Dist. 1, Milton—Number examined, 30; normal weight and no physical defects: Eva Zochling, 10; Harold Traynor, 8; Lyle Kanter, 6; Willie Bryant, 10; Frank Jones, 12; Edith Kunkle 12; Lenora Vogel, 12.
St. Dist. 2, Milton—Number examined, 20; normal weight and no physical defects: Mary Woolstrum, 12; Doris Vincent, 12; Carl Splitter, 8; Esther Woolstrum, 6; Paul Dallman, 12.
St. Dist. 6—Milton and Fulton: Number examined, 14; normal weight and no physical defects, Mark Miller, 8; Franklin Ulus, 6; Rolf Vlen, 6.
St. Dist. 7—Number examined, 17; normal weight and no physical defects: Henry Goede, 7; Doris Snyder, 8; Hilda Maas, 8; Bernice Richardson, 9; Elmer Maas, 10; Percy Bruhn, 10.
Dist. 8, Porter—Number examined, 9; normal weight and no physical defects: Edgar Skar, 6; Ralph Jensen, 6; Earl Herrick 7; William Sommerfeld, 9.

TWO CHRISTMAS GAMES TO PLAY DURING VACATION
Toy Tag is a game in which each player is assigned the name of a toy. The child who is "it" calls out the names of two toys at random, and the ones to whom these toys have been assigned must immediately change places, while the one who is "it" tries to tag them. A child may escape being tagged by imitating the toy whose name he bears. A toy dog may bark, a doll may groan stiff and walk with short precise steps, a lion may roar, a toy train may whistle, and imitate a train bell, a toy auto may honk, etc. If the one who is "it" calls the name of a toy that has not been given out, he will be so informed by the play-leader who gives out the names and must imitate the toy himself.
Christmas bargain counter is another nice game to play at home during the Christmas vacation. The toys and other gifts received by the children of the family are assembled on the table and one child is chosen to take charge of this play toy shop. A second child leaves the room after carefully looking over the toys on the counter to determine their names. While the one who is "it" is out of the room, a third child selects one of the toys and hides it. The child who has been out of the room then returns and must try to guess the name of the toy which the man sold during his absence. If he guesses right he may be the next toy man, and the one who was toy man goes out of the room.

POULTRY ADVANCED DECLARES STUDENT

Essay on Poultry Prepared by Stewart Cullen, Janesville
High School.

(St. H. S. Agriculture Class)

Away back in the days when our great-grandmothers threw on her shawl and went out to feed the chickens, poultry raising was considered a staple in the life of the farmers of more likely, the farmer's wife. If a chicken became sick it was doctor by some antique method and if it died it was buried with no "now-fangled" post mortem.

The chicken house consisted of a "one horse" shed that was built in a day. The chickens were fed with the ancient feed ration of corn, grain and some table "left-overs." There was no thought of culling. If a person counted less than 10 different breeds of poultry in a flock he was told to go to the village school master for his addition. It was not considered whether the hens were a pay in proposition or not as long as it did not drain "pa's" pocketbook for money spent on feed.

Now, under the untiring supervision of agricultural teachers and no University of Wisconsin poultry raising has become a paying proposition and in some instances there are farms devoted to the raising of poultry alone. The chickens are fed a properly balanced ration, sheltered in a large house and disease is a rare visitor. The different breeds are treated in different pens and farms. Poultry raising is often considered a losing branch of farming because attention is paid to culling, the feeding or the housing. If the person owning the poultry does not cull, he is most likely feeding a large percentage of hens which are not laying, therefore, wasting feed. He feeds with no knowledge as to what process that certain feeding will do, whereas if poultry is fed with a balanced ration, the owner will know more about its returns and what to expect. The house is often a genuine breeder of disease and cold. It is necessary to have a good hen house that is well located.

Pleasing Neighborhood.

"She tells me she's just delighted with the new neighborhood they moved into last fall. He feels with no knowledge as to what process that certain feeding will do, whereas if poultry is fed with a balanced ration, the owner will know more about its returns and what to expect. The house is often a genuine breeder of disease and cold. It is necessary to have a good hen house that is well located."

HARRY HAGGART

Harry Haggart will take the place as president of the Janesville club of the International Kiwanis at the first meeting in January, succeeding Oscar Nelson. He will be the third president of the club since it was organized in 1921. George Jacobs having been the first. Harry Haggart has lived all his life in Janesville and has grown up with the First National bank of which he is president. In a large number of community affairs he is prominent. He is the embodiment of the Kiwanis spirit "We Build."

The Crisis.
"I heard a fellow down at the cross-roads store telling last night that there people over there in Russia are eating the bark off the trees and..."
"Aw, well," nonchalantly replied Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "I don't reckon a kind of trees they have over there are much less, no way."
"He said, too, that they are eating their dogs..."
"Good God! Eating their dogs? By thunder, this country has got to do something for them 'Roughies, right away!"—Kansas City Star.

In Russia.

"Why didn't you bring the million rubles as you promised?"
"The doctor charged me that amount for hauling them."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

GREETINGS

Christmas and New Year to us are seasons of recollection, appreciation and inspiration, as we extend our greetings, with the wish that you may share bountifully in the prosperity of the years to come.

Year after year there is a great satisfaction in renewing the friendships of a lifetime of business, and we count ourselves fortunate in their number, good-will and loyalty.

With appreciation of your confidence and friendship, with every good wish and the heartiest good-will, and with the most earnest desire to help you realize all the good things in store—

Answers to Questions

What is the purpose of the Christmas Savings Club?

The purpose is to help you and others to accumulate a fund for Christmas (1923).

How does the Christmas Savings Club accomplish this purpose?

By each member paying in a small sum each week for 50 weeks. Ten days before next Christmas (1923) each member will receive the total amount he has paid in and, if payments are made regularly, we add three per cent interest.

Does everybody pay in the same?

No. There are fifteen classes; the payments being made in different ways to suit the convenience of all. These different classes are explained in detail in the other column.

What are the payments in Class 1c?

In the 1c Class Going Up the payments begin with 1c the 1st week and increase 1c each week until you pay 50c the fiftieth week, or if you prefer you can join the 1c Class Going Down and begin with 50c and end with 1c on the fiftieth week.

Do the payments in the other classes progress in the same way?

They do. The only difference is that in 2c Classes the payments are twice as much, either Going Up or Going Down. And in 5c and 10c Classes the payments are five and ten times as much as in 1c Class.

But in the other Classes the payments are "Uniform," being 10c, 25c, 50c, $1, $2, $2.50 or $5 each week, according to the Class you join.

What do I do to become a member?

All that is necessary is to go to the Rock County Savings & Trust Co., ask to be enrolled as a member and make the first week's payment or more.

Is there a membership fee or is there any cost to join? No.

What will the first payment be?

From 1c to $5.00, according to the class you join. See detail list of payments.

How are the payments to be made?

Weekly, or any day during each week or in advance for as many weeks as you desire.

What will happen if I cannot keep up my payments or discontinue?

You may discontinue for any reason at any time; and at the period when the club closes, we will pay you all you have paid in, but without interest.

When and how can I withdraw?

Under no circumstances will any withdrawals, either in whole or in part, be allowed. What you deposit will be held for you until Dec. 12, 1923.

What form of receipt do I get when I make my payments?

We furnish a Card free on which all payments are receipted.

What would happen if my Card were lost, stolen or destroyed?

As we have a complete record of the payments of every member we will pay your share to you whether you have your Card or not. The Card is of value to you only for the purpose of keeping track of your payments.

Can I become a member of more than one class? Yes.

When can I join?

You can join any time now or before 3 p. m. Wednesday, January 31, but preferably during the first week to avoid the rush on the last few days.

TEN TIMES A CHAMPION

Shropshire Ewe from flock of W. G. Miles.

Rock county has achieved considerable reputation throughout the United States as the home of championship sheep.

The Shropshire ewe shown was champion at the Milwaukee state fair and this season has annexed 10 champienship ribbons at various fairs. The list includes fairs from Minnesota to Texas, where the Miles' exhibits were shown. The ribbons won on sheep demonstrate the ability of Rock county breeders to go in any competition on livestock—cattle, swine, sheep and horses and win creditable prizes.

HAVE SOIL SURVEY FOR ROCK COUNTY

Valuable Publication Can be Obtained from College Soils Department.

An excellent report on the soils of Rock county has been recently published following a complete survey made in cooperation with Wisconsin college of agriculture. The book is of value to any person interested in Rock county farms or soil conditions, giving complete information by districts of the various high grade lands in the county.

The surface features of Rock county are classified in four rather distinct divisions. The first division is confined to the northern part of the county and consists of the material which was most recently deposited by the glacial ice. It is known as the late Wisconsin drift. The southern limit of this region is marked by a low region of hills bordering an extensive level country. This range of hills is known as the "terminal moraine" and it enters the county at the N. W. corner of Union township, extends in a southeasterly direction and passes into Walworth county about 1.5 miles north of Johnstown. The surface of this region to the north is for the most part, gently rolling. The whole region is now very much as it was shaped by the glacial ice.

The second division, known as the "valley hill" or "out wash basin" is found immediately south of the late Wisconsin drift region. It extends across the county from east to west, but its most extensive development is found in the towns of Johnstown, Harmony, Janesville, Rock, La Prairie, Beloit and Turtle.

The third region has a surface which is characterized by the long, smooth, gentle slopes, and a soil section which is deep in most places, being over 100 feet to the bed rock. The surface is covered by a mantle of uniform silty loess-like material which is practically stone free. The region is much more thoroughly drained than the northern part of the county. This third division may be briefly described as being made up of deep, pre-Wisconsin drift, material, which means that it is glacial material of much greater age than that of the late Wisconsin drift. It is confined to the S. E. portion of the county, largely in the towns of Bradford, Clinton and Turtle.

The fourth division occurs west of Rock river in the southwestern part of the county. This region was also gone over by the pre-Wisconsin ice sheet, but the glacial material left forms only a very thin blanket, usually having a maximum thickness of 5 or 6 feet, and in numerous places entirely lacking. The thin drift occurs in Magnolia, Spring Valley, and Avon townships. Northwest of Janesville and east of Portville there is a small area over which the drift reaches a depth of from 40 to over 100 feet. The blanket of silty material common to the late Wisconsin drift, and to the older drift west of the Rock river, is seldom more than a foot thick and in many places entirely lacking in the southwestern portion of the county. Rock outcrops are also common throughout this region.

As a rule the farming is not as highly developed in this part of the county as elsewhere, and land values average somewhat lower.

In regard to the topography of the county as a whole it may be said that the total area which is too steep for the growing of cultivated crops is very limited. Some of the land could be classed as rolling and hilly, but the major portion is gently rolling, with the equivalent of several townships in which the surface is level. The major portion of the county has an elevation of between 800 and 900 feet above sea level.

Rock county lies within the drainage basin of Rock river, which passes through the center of the county from north to south.

With the exception of Rock river, the streams are sluggish and meandering, flowing through considerable areas of poorly drained flood plains. The Rock river has cut into the old valley fill to a depth ranging from 30 to 120 feet. Outside of the valley fill region its valley is 50 to 150 feet deep.

The first settlement in Rock county was made in 1838, on the present site of Janesville. The county was formed by an act of the Territorial Legislature of Wisconsin, on Dec. 7, 1836. The population as given in the 1920 census was 65,150, averaging 9.4 persons to the square mile.

OH BOY! $50,000 CASH FOR SINGLE STRAWBERRY PLANT

Three Rivers—Frank E. Beatty, of Three Rivers, who started the horticultural world by paying $50,000 in cash for the privilege of developing a single variety of strawberry, admits that he owes his present position as one of the acknowledged leaders in the art of strawberry culture to fondness for his family.

Thirty years ago Mr. Beatty sold oil pumps in the Iron Mountain and Pacific coast states. He resigned to come back to Michigan and to the family, although his business was highly remunerative. Interested in strawberry industry of the world, as their culture. After 30 years in this business he has this to say: "I delight in developing or introducing a new variety of strawberry. What ever success I have had is due largely to the cooperation between agricultural colleges and fruit growers."

The new variety is the "Jockhill," bred by Earl Rockhill of Conrad, Iowa. It should revolutionize the strawberry industry of the world, as it produces more and larger berries and fruit of a higher quality in the summer than any of the best summer varieties. During the fall months the plants again bear. The fruiting continues until snowfall and the plants do well in any climate.

The plants root deeply, grow luxuriantly, single hill almost as large as a bushel basket, and their roots vitally and vigor enable them to produce abundantly. The plants have tough leaf tissues and are not affected by any plant disease. The Rockhill is a direct cross of Progressive everbearer and Early Jersey Giant."

A Modern Open Sesame

by J. A. WALDRON.

Illustrations by Lawrence Fellows.

The summer season—usually a silly period—was in full swing at Harbor Bar. This resort, long in vogue among the socially elect, had a fresh allotment of climbers—they were numerous in every nook and cranny. The place was a perfect chaos, and the place for war-torn veterans had to be exhibited in fashionable circumstances.

A dance was in progress at the new and showy home of the Stronges, who were simply well-to-do before the war, but who now were leaders of social high jinks, anxious to display their apparently endless resources.

Mrs. Manfred and Mrs. Pelham, young society women, quite intimate considering their contrasting backgrounds, were the most popular and the latter sedate—were late arrivals, and dancing was in progress. They entered the ballroom together, and surveyed the moving throng.

"What is that chap?" Mrs. Manfred asked.

"What chap, dear?" responded Mrs. Pelham. "There are quite a number of chaps in sight."

"The tall fellow dancing with Miss Strong. What a dancer! I must meet him."

"You're actually insane over dancing! Yet I'll confess that if I were, I should look for a partner like him. But for dancing only. Otherwise not my style."

"I wonder who he is? There's something strangely familiar in his style, yet I can't place him. Must have met him—or seen him—long ago."

"I never met him. He must be a regular person, though, for I saw him at Mrs. DeMont's the other evening, and he was at Mrs. Thomas's last week. At both places he seemed to be dancing endlessly—and most of the time with Miss Strong!"

"Well, dear, I must meet him—just for a dance." And Mrs. Manfred sought Mrs. Strong for an introduction to the marvel who had involved her imagination. She found that lady alertly watching her daughter's movements with the young man.

"Who is he?" Mrs. Manfred asked.

"Hubert Bell. Seems a charming fellow, in a way, although I don't really know him," replied Mrs. Strong.

"You don't mean that?"

"Candidly, my dear, he was not invited," Mrs. Strong whispered. "But I've seen him at so many places, among the very best people, that really he must belong. I don't care to have Eleanor dance with him—don't like to encourage him, you know—until I can make inquiries. But he is such a dancer! And Eleanor is obsessed. She has danced with him at several places, and my talking to her seems useless. It's all right, don't you think?"

"Why, it must be. And I want to dance with him!"

And so Mrs. Manfred was introduced to Hubert Bell; as soon as Mrs. Strong could catch her daughter's eye effectively; and the mother impulsively took her daughter aside, perhaps for a lecture.

Was the hand played again, Mrs. Manfred and Mr. Bell joined the dancers. The young man was groomed to the moment. Though tall he was muscular, and his grace was a study. He would have been handsome but for his eyes which were small, set close together and elusive.

"I thought you would never tire of dancing with that young man," said Mrs. Pelham as Mrs. Manfred rejoined her. The party was breaking up. "He must be a charming fellow."

"His charm lies in his symmetry of motion, dear. I never so enjoyed dancing! But I wanted to keep him from Miss Strong. He talked about her endlessly, though he was curious about the whole Strong family. I must see Mrs. Strong tomorrow."

"Why?"

"Well, I've placed him. He doesn't belong with our sort. And he wasn't invited here. I met him—or saw him. I mean—a year ago, in an uptown concert. He was what they call a 'dancer' best there."

"The idea!"

As they were leaving with other guests whom Mrs. Strong was speedily noting, they noted Miss Strong and Hubert Bell together half concealed by a palm down the hall.

Mrs. Strong was worried about her daughter, and had taken her husband into her confidence. Strong was a man of action. He was bound to find out all about Hubert Bell. A detective was employed, and Strong asked his daughter to avoid the young man until something definite could be learned about him. To simplify matters, the Stronges planned to send Miss Strong to an aunt in Newport at once.

Miss Strong was shipped off to her aunt, who in due time wired that the girl had not appeared. A letter came from the girl, postmarked at Boston, telling her parents that she had married Hubert Bell.

The detective called on the Stronges ten minutes after the girl's letter came. The Stronges excitedly greeted him.

"The last we know of the gent in the Department," the detective said, "he was dancing in a cabaret. We thought he had reformed. We didn't know he had got among the swells."

"Reformed?" exclaimed Strong.

"What do you mean?"

"His name in the Gallery is Bud Allen, and he has served time."

"SUNSHINE LADY" OF
80 YEARS OF AGE

MRS. WILLIAM WENHAM

Fort Atkinson—There will be a celebration in Fort Atkinson in a few months when Mrs. William Wenham, known to all as the "sunshine lady," celebrates her 80th birthday. Mrs. Wenham has lived in Fort Atkinson 60 years and in the house to which she came as a bride. The death of her husband last February prevented her from celebrating her 80th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Wenham has earned her title in Fort Atkinson through her work among the Civil war veterans—15 live here, "her boys." She has been chaplain of the W. R. C. many years and yearly carries a "sunshine basket" filled with good things to eat to the old soldiers on their birthdays and Christmas.

She is assisted in this by the W. R. C. members. During the month she carried birthday baskets to Thomas Sorns, Dec. 4; Guido Harder, Dec. 10; and William Rose, Dec. 15, when he celebrated his 86th birthday. The following will receive Christmas baskets: Ann Foote, Walter Robinson, John Wolf, George Founders, Sherwood Chase, Gilbert Scott, Daniel Stocking, Sam and Lee Jaycox, Dowitt Wilcox, John Deheimer, John Messmer and William Parks. William Noel is in California.

Mrs. Wenham has made her life happy by bringing cheer to others and besides the Civil war veterans, visits the sick. Cheerfulness is the doctrine she preaches, on the theory that everyone has sorrows of his own and does not care to hear about others' troubles.

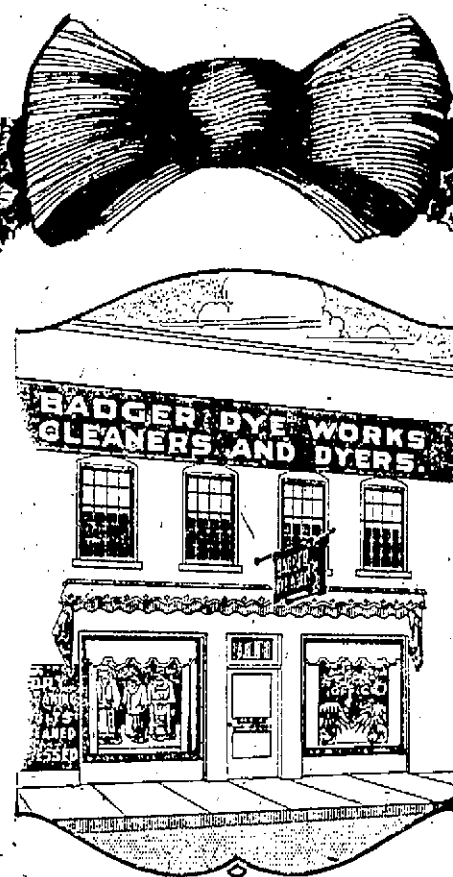

She is the mother of Mrs. H. L. Board, this city; Charles Wenham, Chicago and Mrs. Albert Holmes, California.

Mrs. Wenham is the widow of a civil war veteran, her husband having enlisted in the Fourth Wisconsin regiment.

When Janesville Had Its Greatest Hotel Fire

This is the story of the Hyatt House fire on the morning of January 12, 1867. It was the most disastrous fire Janesville has ever had. It ended the history of the Hyatt House which, when built, and for many years after, was the most pretentious hotel in a city the size of Janesville in all the west. The city was growing rapidly when the hotel was erected. In a year its population increased over 2,000 and from 1853 to 1860 added 7,000. In the fire which destroyed the hotel was also burned the maid, Maggie Emerson. The hotel occupied the greater portion of the block from Franklin street fronting Milwaukee to the west and the lower floors were occupied by business houses.

In the Gazette for the evening of January 12, 1867, appears the following story of the conflagration:

TERRIBLE CONFLAGRATION:
The Hyatt House in Total Ruins!
A Young Woman Burned to Death!

HER REMAINS NOT RECOVERED:
Narrow Escape of the Occupants of the Building!

LOSS OF PROPERTY, $150,000!
Our city was the scene this morning of the most disastrous fire that ever visited it. Soon after three o'clock, the Hyatt House was found to be on fire in the kitchen. The flames spread with lightning rapidity, so much so that it was with the utmost difficulty that the occupants escaped, nearly all of them with nothing on save their night-clothes, and a young woman, Maggie Emerson,

The Fire Department.
An immense amount of growling was perpetrated this morning against the fire department, it being alleged that they did not throw a drop of water on the fire. The facts are these: The engines were got out and put in working order, but the chief of the department found it utterly impossible to induce men to take hold of hoses. Knowing that the hose would freeze up unless a stream was kept constantly passing through them, he ordered the hose detached from the machines and attached to the force-pump of Messrs. Hodson, McChesney, Morse and Ransom. That is the reason the engines did not work.

We cannot understand why the citizens are so reluctant to man the engines in the time of a fire.

The Force-Pump.
A large debt of gratitude is due the owners of the force-pump on the race for the efficient use of it made this morning. Its efficacy was so manifest that we hope they will be provided with hose for emergencies.

Seen at the Fire.
The first was as grand a sight as is often witnessed. The air was still and the flames and smoke shot upwards hundreds of feet in one vast sheet, breasting out of the windows and doors. And most fortunate it was that there was no more air stirring for had it been otherwise, half of the city must have been laid in ruins. As it was, the freight depot of the Milwaukee and Prairie du Chien road, took fire twice, and other buildings were also ignited. Large pieces of tin from the roof of the hotel were carried by the draft two blocks off, all the buildings in the immediate vicinity were blistered and an employee in the house, less fortunate than the others, was cut off from retreat and perished in the flames. She was last seen at a window in the fifth story, where she called for help, but no help could reach her. Soon after her entreaty for assistance, two garments were thrown out of the window, it is supposed by her.

Quite a number of the inmates of the hotel made their escape from the burning building by crawling out on their hands and knees, while others, nearly suffocated with smoke, threw themselves with frantic energy against a partition, which separated the hotel from the offices adjoining, and tore it down, thus effecting their escape down the stairway farthest removed from the fire. One man, let himself down to the balcony from an upper story by tying the bed-clothing together. It is truly wonderful that no more lives were lost, when the extent of the building is considered and the rapidity with which the flames spread, taken into account.

When Built.
The Hyatt House was built in 1858 and 1857 by Mr. A. Hyatt-Smith, the citizens contributing liberally toward the enterprise. It cost not far from $130,000. The property was now owned by Mr. A. B. Matteson, and is believed to be insured for $150,000.

The Occupants.
The hotel was kept by Sol Hutson, by whom it was furnished, save for some $5,000 worth, which belonged to Mrs. A. H. Smith, and on which there was no insurance. Mr. Hutson had an insurance of $2,000 with Dimock and Lawrence on furniture and piano, and $25,000 with Whitaker, of stock. John Hutson had an insurance of $500 on furniture and wearing apparel with Dimock and Lawrence. All the above insurance is a total loss. The loss of Mr. H. beyond his insurance is placed by him this morning at $6,000.

E. L. Wright, who occupied one of the stores, for the sale of music, musical instruments and sewing machines, removed the most of his stock, but in a somewhat damaged condition. His loss he estimated at from $500 to $1,000. No insurance.

G. G. Campbell, flour and feed store, lost $2,100. Insured $1,000 with H. Hart.

N. Griswold and company, lost $2,000. Insurance $1,500 with Dimock and Lawrence.

V. Jounenit, fancy goods and toys, lost $2,000. Insurance $2,000. The library and furniture of Mr. A. A. Jackson in the second floor was almost entirely saved with the strenuous exertions of the citizens, to whom Mr. J. wishes to return their thanks. Williams and Sale were not so fortunate, for although the bulk of their library and fixtures were removed, they suffered damage to the extent of about $300.

The Baptist society, which occupied Hyatt House Hall for public worship, lost nearly all their furniture. The speaker's desk, communion service and a few other things, however, were saved. Their loss cannot be far from $1,500.

Other parties in the building lost large amounts in wearing apparel and personal effects.

The small building west of the Hyatt House owned by M. L. Lynch, a market, was also burned. This was owned by Sol Hutson and insured with Whitaker for $400. Mr. L. had an insurance of $1,000 with Dimock and Lawrence on his stock which was largely removed.

The stock of Wright and Hunt was insured with Dimock and Lawrence for $10,000. Although the building was not destroyed, the damage was immense and the stock removed and consequently received little damage.

The express company saved everything and the internal revenue office lost all.

Incidents.
Mr. Few, the partner of Mr. Hutson, who was boarding at the Hyatt House, put into his room yesterday, a beautiful piano, and got his apartments in handsome shape. He also had a $5,000 bond of $1,000. In all, property valued at about $4,000. He and his wife hurried out this morning with nothing, but their night clothes on.

Mr. Hutson in endeavoring to bring out the babe of Mrs. Peddleford, made a mis-step at the head of a flight of stairs, and fell the whole length, receiving some bruises but doing no injury to the child.

Mr. Wm. Norcross, ascertaining that Mrs. Barker was still in her room, and in danger of perishing, saturated his clothes with water and then rushed in through the smoke and flames and brought her out safely.

ruined by the heat, and the glass broken out. The corn exchange was repeatedly on fire, but the untiring energy of Messrs. Casar and Murdock, was kept from burning, and thus the fire was prevented from spreading east on Milwaukee street.

Origin of Fire.
Nothing definite is known of the origin of the fire. Mr. Baer, who first discovered it, stated to us that on coming downstairs he found the kitchen after the fire had been built in the stove.

We respectfully submit to our citizens and property owners, whether it is not high time to provide some more thorough and efficient means of extinguishing fires in this city. A matter that has already appealed to many purses with a directness that cannot be evaded, and it was only because the elements favored us last night that many property did not fall a prey to the devouring element. The inadequacy of the fire department, neglected as it has been by the municipal authorities, has been sufficiently demonstrated. Our firemen do the best they can always, but there is a limit to human pluck and endurance, and a better method must be provided to save us from ruin. Let us have at least two good steam fire engines, properly manned and equipped, and the risk of the midnight toll will not carry as much consternation to the hearts of our people as at present.

MID-WEEK HOLIDAY ASKED IN PLACE OF SUNDAY CLOSING

Delaware.—Action by the city council upon them to promote community action to establish a mid-week half holiday allowing continuance of the sports now played on Sunday is asked in a resolution passed Sunday by the First Baptist church.

A storm of protest arose among Delaware ministers and church members as a result of the past season of professional football games on Sunday, at which there was a large attendance. The Rev. Robert Lincoln Kelley, pastor of the First Baptist church, and the Rev. C. Wesley Jones, of the Methodist church, opposed the resolution of the Sunday athletics from their pulpits.

The resolution adopted by the Baptist church is as follows: "Whereas Delaware has been known in the years gone as a city of law abiding citizens, where there is generally a respect for constitutional authority and therefore for the law of the land, nation, state and city, and

Whereas in contravention of the laws of the state there have been held public games within the city limits, baseball and football, for which admission fee is charged, said contravention operating to its natural end a resultant lack of respect for and adherence to law, and

Whereas said sports are of interest to the entire community and as presently managed and featured upon Sunday make possible the support of a large group of citizens, who by training and conviction cannot and will not countenance what they believe to be the wrong use of a day by them held sacred for other purposes by sports, however fine.

Therefore, be it resolved, that we, the members of the First Baptist church and its congregation, place ourselves upon record.

First, in calling upon our city council, together with the Citizens' League and other business and community organizations, to promote such community action as may make possible a mid-week half-holiday admitting of the continuance of the sports, in question and this year, full community sanction and within the laws of our state, and

Second, in protest before the said city council as to any further public contravention of state law by these sports, within the city limits upon Sunday, making that that body take such action as may prevent the continuance of this practice."

Sheep and Lamb Feeding Increases in Wisconsin

Madison.—The state crop service reports an increase of approximately 10 percent in the number of sheep and lambs in feed lots on Wisconsin farms this month, as compared to a year ago. The report says the sheep and lamb feeding industry in Wisconsin is confined to a relatively small number of larger feeders and farmers. Records indicate 90 percent of sheep and lambs on feed in the state are shipped in from the west and only 10 percent are native. The flocks will be finished for market within three months, according to the report.

New Enterprises Do Not Come Into a City Where Local Firms are Having Poor Success

If you were selecting a city in which to open up a new business, what would you consider? The very first thing which would make a good or bad impression upon your mind would be the success with which the firms already in that city were meeting. If that city had business houses struggling along on a "hand-to-mouth" basis, you would not give it a second thought. On the other hand, if the city has thriving, bustling, busy, concerns, you will give it long and studied consideration. But remember, that the success of business houses is determined by the support they receive from the public. This is true of Janesville manufacturers. If Janesville people will not support Janesville enterprises, how can Janesville ever expect to get new ones?

Greek extraordinary military court in session. No. 1 arrow indicates General Othonalos, president of the court. No. 2 arrow points out General George Hatzanestis during his cross-examination.

The extraordinary military court of the Greek revolutionists has come to mean "the more than court of death" to Hellenic royalists. Death sentences were passed out with abandon to those charged with being responsible for the recent Greek defeat in Asia Minor and the allied powers protested. The trials are continuing, but if sentences have been confined to exile and degradation since the protests began pouring into Athens.

The services of Lucille Raceau, French beauty, as a model are much sought by artists and illustrators because of her beautiful teeth and features. She recently won the prize in a contest held to find the woman with the most beautiful teeth.

Robert von Meschziser.

The "Progressive Dozen" of the senate, aided and abetted by their liberal colleagues of the house, are planning to exercise control of the next congress and to force through progressive legislation. Headed by Senator Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, and Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, the progressive minority whose votes practically will decide the fate of all senate measures, pledges itself to prepare plans for dealing with agriculture, labor, railroads, shipping, credits, taxation and amendments to the constitution, including ones affecting presidential elections.

Abraham Becker, New York, is under arrest charged with the murder of his wife who disappeared last April and whose body was found later in the rear of a garage. She had been beaten to death with a hammer. Reuben Norkin, behind whose garage the body was found, is being held as a material witness.

Emma S. Redel.

Miss Emma S. Redel has just been promoted from chief clerk to assistant secretary of the Minneapolis and St. Paul railroad. She is said to be the second woman in the U. S. to attain such a high position in a railway system. She entered the employ of the railroad company in 1905 as a stenographer.

Dr. Burchardi.

Former Kaiser Wilhelm is generally regarded as an old man, broken in health and spirit, a tottering figure in spite of his highly advertised wood-chopping propensities. But it's all wrong, yessir, all wrong, according to Dr. Burchardi, Vienna specialist. He says that the ex-war lord now has all the pep of a youngster as a result of an operation to restore his youth.

When visitors arrive at Oklahoma City for the gubernatorial inauguration ceremonies early in January they're going to find J. T. Brown on duty in the interests of law and order. Brown has been wearing a federal officer's shield and a brace of pistols for the last thirty years, and he's credited with having thirty-one notches on his guns, lawbreakers killed resisting arrest.

Childe de Rohan D'Harcourt and his wife, Esther.

What is the dividing line between displays of artistic temperament and disorderly conduct? Magistrate Oberwager, in New York, was called upon to decide that question when Childe de Rohan D'Harcourt and his wife, Esther, both artists, appeared in court. D'Harcourt charged his wife bounced an electric iron off his head, and she said he bit her. Result, he discharged D'Harcourt on the disorderly conduct charge.

"Spite fence" at Port Henry, N. Y., sixteen feet high.

Two amiable neighbors live on the outskirts of Port Henry, N. Y., on Lake Champlain. In fact they are so amiable that a "spite fence" sixteen feet high has been erected between their properties. In reality there are two fences, separated by a space of a couple of feet. Presumably one neighbor built the lower one, which is twelve feet high, and then the other went him one better by erecting a higher one. Either one is amply sufficient to cut off their view of each other.

Prince Valdemar and his daughter, Princess Margithe, wife of Prince Reno of Bourbon.

Prince Valdemar of Denmark is the latest scion of European royalty who has found it necessary to "go to work for a living." He expects to take a "job" with a shipping concern in the Far East. His last public appearance in Copenhagen was when he attended the wedding of Princess Dagmar to Jorden Castenskjoeld with his daughter, Princess Margithe.

The milliner who designed this hat for mawm wear relied on the unusual combination of mole and ermine to give a novel and effective trimming. The hat is a large brimmed shape of rich black velvet. It turns up abruptly at the left side, where the facing of mole and edging of white ermine forms the trimming. It is the type of hat which is good for both youth and age.

MORE AT WORK ALL OVER STATE

Employment of Labor Increases
in all Except on the Farm.

Madison—Employment conditions for the past month remained about the same in Wisconsin as during the preceding month. The industrial commission has reported that increases in most branches were counterbalanced by decreases in some of the important seasonal industries such as agriculture and construction.

The number of employees engaged in manufacturing showed a gain of 3.3 per cent; retail trade showed an increase of 11.2 per cent; and logging a gain of 25.5 per cent. The logging increase is reported as purely seasonal.

Agriculture showed a decrease of 15.7 per cent in the number of persons employed; building construction a decrease of 5.3 per cent; highway construction of 12.7 per cent; and railroad construction 7.8 per cent.

The most important increases were in iron and rolling mills 9 per cent; meat packing, 2.8 per cent; stove manufacturing, 9.5 per cent; construction from works 9.8 per cent; aluminum and enamel ware, 7.3 per cent; saw mills, 4.2 per cent; and furniture, 4.1 per cent.

Paper mills showed a decrease of 3.3 per cent; brick, tile and cement blocks of 2.5 per cent; and stone finishing of 0.4 per cent. The decreases in the last two industries are said to be seasonal.

Average weekly earnings of factory employees were $23.85 in 1922, and $27.73 in July, 1920, and represents a decrease of 14.5 per cent. The cost of living is now 38.4 per cent higher than it was in July 1914, but 25.5 per cent lower than in July, 1920. During October and November the commission says that the cost of living has been noticeably increasing.

Free Employment.
The industrial commission maintains 12 free employment offices in the principal cities of the state, which report that they are making a large number of placements. There is a general report of plentiful labor throughout Wisconsin with practically no shortage in any of the occupations.

WHO SAID VOLSTEAD PUT CRIMP IN GRAPE GROWING BUSINESS?

Buffalo—Vineyards of the United States produced a bumper crop of grapes in 1922. Total carlot shipments from all sections up to and including November 17th were 31,254 cars, an increase compared with 1921 cars, an increase of about 36.2 per cent according to a summary issued by the Department of Farms and Markets.

In the fifty-one thousand odd cars were a total of 1,025,080,000 pounds of grapes, which would be sufficient to supply approximately ten pounds of grapes to every individual in the United States. They were worth, at an average price of $70 a ton, $35,539,000.

Two causes contributed to make the season a profitable one for eastern grape-growers. A car shortage in the west cut California's normal shipments about 25 per cent, and there was an increased demand for private consumption and grape juice manufacturers in the East. It also was a year of unprecedented yields in eastern vineyards. New York, Pennsylvania and Michigan, the three principal grape states, made enormous gains in carlot shipments, and there also was a heavy movement by truck because of the prevailing car shortage in the east as well as in the west. Michigan figures show a gain in shipments of 371 per cent; Pennsylvania, 288 per cent; and New York 201 per cent. The crop of these three states alone brought approximately $10,000,000. Truck shipments in the three states, which are not included in the department's figures, are estimated at 20,000 tons, worth another million and a half dollars.

Nelson's Flagship May Travel by Land

London—An effort is being made in England to raise $500,000 for the preservation of the Victory, Nelson's flagship in the Battle of Trafalgar. The famous vessel is at Portsmouth in a very bad state of repair. So far has she deteriorated that it is decided to bring her to London, she will have to come overland; she could not undergo the journey by water.

BOARD SPENT FIVE MILLION
Philadelphia—Total disbursements of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist church for 1922 were $5,084,361, according to Dr. William J. Elliott, treasurer, in his report at the board's meeting.

BANK MUST PAY AGAIN.

Direcwood—The jury in circuit court of Barren county granted H. A. Swanson $300 against the Bank of Cushing, Cushing, Wis. Despite the fact that money had previously been paid to the son of Swanson, when the court rendered a certificate of deposit drawn in his father's name and which had the older Swanson's name endorsed. The jury considered the signature a forgery and the bank will be compelled to pay again.

SOLD GAS STOCK HERE.

Indicative of the property of Janesville, the City Gas and Light company of Janesville placed 90 per cent of the $100,000 issue of preferred stock, deducted during the past year in Janesville. The stock could also have been sold here, I. F. Wortendyke, manager said, but requests were made from out of town. It was the first time preferred stock has been offered by the concern.

MONDAY USUALLY BIGGEST DAY FOR GAS CONSUMPTION

If you want to know what is being done by that portion of Janesville's population at home, just take a run down to the gas plant.

The men in charge just look at the amount of gas being consumed and know what's going on at home. Most folks in town wash on Monday and most of them get up early so that work begins around 7 o'clock. The gas men know this because on that day more gas is consumed than any other during the week, about 350,000 cubic feet. The average is 310,000 to 315,000.

Tuesday is ironing day, but work doesn't start so early and not as much gas is used as on Monday. A big strain on the gas supply comes on Sunday between 11 and 1:30, when most of the Sunday mid-day diners are in the oven. Other days are normal, but the gas men can always tell when there is a holiday by looking at the meter.

PALMER FINISHES 20-YEAR SERVICE AS CARRIER IN '23

CARRIER H. A. PALMER.

BY "THE SENIOR PARTNER"

Before 1903 there were four rural routes out of Janesville. George Miller, John Baker, John Hill and John Bailey were the carriers. They had been secured by petition.

In 1902, when I hurt my hand and had to give up my dental work, I got a petition for another route. I wrote Congressman Cooper about it and he used it to get in the county service.

In December, 1902, Inspector Walker came here and worked all winter laying out the county. He told me that he rode over every road in Rock county and laid out 13 routes. On March 24, 1903, we had an examination at the court house, much more simple than the difficult examination of today. It was taken by 13. I wrote for route three, getting a standing of 98 and receiving my appointment in May.

About that time Mr. Erlston, the fourth assistant postmaster-general, rose and said that he had been an inspector here to cut out 10 routes.

County service started Dec. 15, 1902, when the thermometer was 10 degrees below zero, and I tipped over three times on the first day. At that time there were eight routes out of Janesville.

One of the routes thrown out was to have been served by George Warren, an old veteran, who instead was given the city rural route No. 8, by the inspector, this being the day's route of this kind in the United States. That was made into a mounted carrier route a few years since.

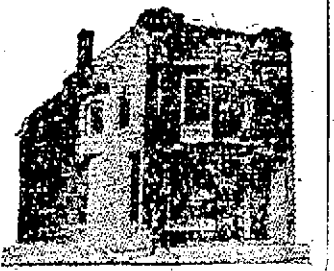

At the time all mounted carrier routes had 5000 extra above the regular salary, for the upkeep, a matter that annoys the rural carriers, who have never had a cent extra for upkeep, while it takes one-third or one-half of our salary to pay our expenses. The present fourth assistant, Mr. Biliary is working for extra money for us.

"I began on the magnificent salary of $600. We have had rises several times, but no rural carrier ever got rich because it costs so much for upkeep. For 14 years I went over 1,200 miles a year farther than the one who has a standard route of 24 miles, for the same salary. I go 25 miles now, and we get $20 per year for each extra mile.

During my nearly 20 years of service I have had many experiences, many of them very pleasant and some not so fine. One winter I went through 15 fields and dooryards, covered with three and four feet of snow. One man fastened his box high up on his front porch, and I drove over the front step to put mail in it. One spring when the snow went off the first of March, I had my horse down nine times in one day.

But my patrons appreciate my efforts to serve them, and show it by giving me all kinds of things. One man said to me 18 years ago, "Isn't it great that I can get a Chicago paper at ten o'clock our here eight miles from post office?" When I began, I had less than 3,000 pieces, per month, now I have more than 11,000.

George Miller belonged to the state rural carriers' association for some time, but we had no county organization, so in 1911 I wrote to the different offices in the county to have a meeting and start an organization. The Rock County Letter Carriers' association was organized on Feb. 22, 1911. At Gravelly, being elected president and Mr. Perkins, Beloit, secretary. I was president one year and secretary about ten. Last year I was made county president. I have been a delegate to the state meetings several times, and state delegate to the national convention two or three times. I have enjoyed and am proud of my 20 years' service and shall miss it when I quit next October.

POTATO GROWERS SEEK NEW PLANS

Cause Farmers to Change
Program.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago—Decreased storage, better marketing plans, increased storage facilities and new markets are being considered by mid-western farmers who lost money raising potatoes this year, according to a summary of the situation in five potato raising states.

The five states, Michigan, Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota and Minnesota, raised approximately 100,000,000 bushels of potatoes this year, but reports from most sections indicate the growers lost money.

The reason is variously ascribed to over production, cur shortage and lack of storage facilities.

Home Crop Unders.
Twelve million bushels of potatoes remain undug in the Red River valley of Minnesota, according to O. B. Jacobson, chairman of the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission.

He blames the car shortage and says the crop will freeze or rot in the ground unless transportation is speedily provided. The enormous potential loss here does not include losses being sustained in other parts of the state.

North Dakota farmers raised 20,000,000 bushels this year, an increase of 5,000,000 since 1921. Several towns have built large storage warehouses to handle the surplus and at Minot a large starch factory is planned to turn part of the crop into its principal by-products.

May Rutke Seed.

Michigan, which led the country as a potato producing state, according to the 1920 census, produced 37,826,000 bushels this year, an increase of 10,000,000 bushels. But the price dropped from an average of 35 cents a bushel in 1921 to 15 cents this year.

To meet the situation, state agricultural officials advise Michigan farmers to devote more attention to raising seed potatoes which command

Seven bucks for eight men. That's what we call some bag. These deer were shot by Dr. J. F. Powell, Janesville, and seven friends while up in the north woods.

A better price than the commercial grade.

Growers who sold their crop late in July or early in August, got as high as $2.50 a hundred pounds, giving a profit of about $1 a hundred. Some held on and lost money when the price went below $2.50. Many sold for as low as 75 cents a hundred.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST

The Test Lamp
 THIS LITTLE DEVICE is very handy in locating electrical troubles and consists of an automobile lamp-socket, containing a small candle-power lamp of the voltage used on the car, with one end of a piece of flexible twin lamp cord connected to the socket and the other end soldered to two wire nails. It is in effect a cheap substitute for a voltmeter, the nail points being hard and sharp enough to make electrical connection, even with dirty metal parts. If there is doubt whether the generator "builds up," touching the nail points to its terminal and frame simultaneously should light the lamp, if the generator is alive. A dead battery is indicated if the lamp fails to light, when the two nail points are firmly pressed onto its two terminals and if the lamp lights but dimly, a very low state of charge is proved. When there is a single break in a circuit, the lamp will light when its points straddle the point of interruption, for instance, if no current flows, when the ignition switch is closed, applying the test points successively around the switch, around the coil and around the timing contacts will disclose in which of these devices the break is located and if the "open" is in one of the wires, applying the points between its ends will bring out that fact.

W. P. L. asks: Can you inform me how to keep water from freezing on the windshield of my car? Will denatured alcohol answer the same purpose as grain alcohol in preparing anti-freeze mixture?
 Answer: A mixture of equal parts of water and glycerine, to which a pinch of salt has been added, soaked sparingly into the glass and then rubbed over with glass, will keep rain or sleet from sticking in the form of drops and give you much better visibility, but it is far more convenient to put on one of the windshield wipers, which have renewable felt pads to do the wiping, as these are oiled with some mixture, which has the same properties as the glycerine and apply this to the glass more satisfactorily than it can be accomplished otherwise. Practically speaking, denatured alcohol has to be used for preparing anti-freeze, as the cost of grain alcohol makes its use almost out of the question. Denatured alcohol is 85% grain alcohol.

USE OF THE CHOKER AT STARTING

A. T. writes: I never have been able to start the engine of my car, without using the choker. When the engine is first started, upon engaging the clutch, it runs for a few revolutions and then dies, but after the car has been driven for about a mile, the engine runs fine. What is wrong? Is the carburetor at fault? How can the trouble be overcome?
 Answer: Your experience is common, if not universal, with present day gasoline, in the case of engines with carburetors adjusted for lean and economical mixtures. It is necessary to keep the choke partly closed for sometime after starting, or until engine temperature reaches the point at which vaporization becomes adequate. You can enrich your mixture by readjusting the metering-pin stop-screw at the carburetor, which is done by turning it slightly to the right, but we do not advise doing this, as it will make the mixture adjustment unnecessarily rich, and lower your fuel economy. "Nursing" the engine, by means of the choker, for some little time after starting from a cold condition, may be considered a necessary evil and one may as well become resigned to it.

P. N. P. writes: Recently the current from my battery failed to turn the starting motor, although the lights were good, and to humor a friend of mine I reversed the battery connections, after which the starter motor operated finely, but now the ammeter shows charge, when the battery is discharging and vice versa. What will happen if I leave the battery connected as it is?

Answer: Nothing objectionable will happen, but you can make your ammeter read properly by reversing the connections to the binding posts on the back of it. Instead of doing this, however, we should advise you to restore the battery connections as they were originally, as we believe that you would find the starter would then operate all right. We think that what happened was this: The start or cable connection to the battery was loose or corroded, but when you reversed the battery connections, you cleaned or tightened the connection sufficiently, so that a good contact was secured. Reversing the battery polarity always causes the generator to furnish charging current in the opposite direction and the ammeter indicates the change.
